earnest member of Hain's Reformed Church. She speaks both English and German fluently.

JAMES GASS, for many years one of the leading agriculturists of Lower Heidelberg township, was one of the prominent business men of Berks county, and in his death, which took place Feb. 13, 1893, the community lost one of its most substantial citizens. Mr. Gass was born Oct. 29, 1838, son of Jacob and Hettie (Delp) Gass.

Jacob Gass, father of James, was born in Alsace township, Berks Co., Pa., whither his father had come from Germany, and there spent a number of years in agricultural pursuits, owning several farms. He was also engaged extensively in the coal business, having his yards along the pike in Muhlenberg township, dealt in lime and stone, and was successful in his business ventures, becoming very substantial. Mr. Gass was married to Hettie Delp, daughter of Daniel Delp, of Richmond townhip, and to them were born eight children: James; Daniel, who lived in Schuylkill county, and is buried at Epler's Church; Mary, who married Frank Hahn; William, of Leesport, Pa.; Amanda, who married Ephraim Hartman; Adam, who owns and conducts the "Blind" Hartman's Hotel on the Princeton road, in Alsace township; Louis, of Tuckerton, Pa.; and Emma, who married Christian Oxenwald. The father was buried at Alsace Church, of which he was an official member belonging to the Reformed congregation.

James Gass was born in Alsace township on the property on which his grandfather had first settled, and there he was reared. On reaching his majority he began boating on the Schuylkill canal, in connection with farming, for about seven years, and he also leased a stone quarry and for quite a period dealt in limestone, having a large trade in Schuylkill county. For this he received a dollar a ton, and at this rate accumulated quite a competency. In 1873 he erected a house along the pike in Muhlenberg township, where he lived for over six years, and in 1880 bought a fine farm of eighty acres near Wernersville, on which he carried on farming until his death. In addition to this Mr. Gass owned a farm of 100 acres in Alsace township, which during his life was rented, but since his death has been sold, as well as his home property. He was a member of the Reformed Church, and is buried at Hain's Church, of that denomination.

On Dec. 24, 1864, Mr. Gass was married to Charity Ann Yoder, who was born in Richmond township Oct. 24, 1839, daughter of John and Magdalena (Breyfogel) Yoder, and granddaughter of John and Froenica Yoder, farming people of Maxatawny township. To Mr. and Mrs. Gass were born children as follows: Hannah M. married Monroe Becker, of Wernersville, Pa.; John Jacob, who married Gussie Shoemaker, of Philadelphia, is a dairyman, and lives at Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia; Sallie E., born in 1870, died aged ten years; Mary E. married James Erb, a ticket agent at Lorane, Berks county, and has a son, Harron.

Mrs. Gass, who is a faithful member of Hain's Reformed Church, is one of Wernersville's most highly esteemed ladies. She owns a large double brick three-story house on Main street, the upper story of which was used for some time as a lodge hall by various fraternal organizations. She is in very comfortable circumstances and her youngest daughter and her family reside with her.

RICHARD LECHNER, whose excellent farm of 113 acres is in Marion township, Berks county, is a representative of that industrious German element that has placed Pennsylvania in the front rank of the prosperous States of the nation. His birth occurred on his present farm Dec. 9, 1834.

John George Lechner, the emigrant ancestor of the family, was born in Anspach, Germany, March 28, 1704 (old style), son of Peter and Sibilla Lechner. Late in 1731 he sailed from Rotterdam, Holland, on the "Adventurer," and he landed in ~~New York~~ Phila in the early days of 1732. He came to Pennsylvania, and located near Reed's Church, on the Tulpehocken and Millbach creeks, purchasing a large tract of land. He died in 1784. He married Margaretta Wechleim, and both became members of the Second Lutheran Church in 1743. Their children were: John, who died young; and George, whose wife was Mary Elizabeth.

The latter George Lechner, son of John George Lechner and Margaretta, was a soldier in the Revolution, and did service in the trying campaign around Philadelphia and Valley Forge in the years 1777-78. He belonged to, and was quartermaster of, the 5th Battalion, composed of eight companies and 442 men, mostly from the Tulpehocken district, now Marion township, of which regiment Henry Spyger was colonel. George Lechner and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, became the parents of three children; George Nicholas, who had a son John George; John; and Christopher.

Christopher Lechner, son of George, married Catharine Werheim, and four children were born to them: David, who married Elizabeth Eckhert and had a daughter Eliza (who married William Stupp); Elizabeth, who married Michael Reith, and had two children, Levi and Ellen (who married A. J. Hain); Catharine L., who married David Himmelberger and had a son Adam (of Reading); and John George.

John George Lechner, son of Christopher, married Catharine Reith, daughter of Stoffel and Catharine (Illig) Reith, of Marion township, Berks county, and granddaughter of Valentine Reith. To this union were born six children: (1) Elizabeth married Samuel D. Gockley, and their daughter Nora is a school teacher in Marion township. (2) John, a "forty-niner," died in California soon after his arrivel there. (3) George W. also went to California in 1849, but returned and later went to Denver, Colo., his present home, and engaged as a civil and mining engineer. He married a Miss McLaughlin, now deceased, and had four children, Laura, Richard, Kate and Dolly. (4) Richard. (5) Mary Ann died young. (6) Franklin C. went to South Carolina, where he is a teller in a bank and engaged in the raising of tobacco and grapes. He married a Miss Thummel and had one daughter, Bertha. The father of these children was an active Republican, and he held a number of minor offices.

Richard Lechner, son of John George, received a good education in Stouchsburg Academy, and after leaving school taught twelve winter terms in Lebanon and Berks counties, and then began farming on the old homestead. This consists of 113 acres, which were bought by John George, the emigrant, and George Lechner, his son, and originally were the property of Thomas and Richard Penn. Eighty-seven acres of this land have been in the Lechner family for nearly a century and a half, having passed through five generations of Lechners, namely: John George, the emigrant; George, the son; Christopher, son of George; John George, son of Christopher; and Richard, son of latter and present owner. The house was built in 1775. The early Lechners built a woolen carding mill, the first mill of any kind in Marion township. They also had an oil mill, manufacturing linseed oil. The first Sunday school ever held in the township was held in this last mentioned mill in 1834. Mr. Richard Lechner owns a large cider press, and has done a great deal of custom work, frequently having made over one hundred barrels of cider a day. He came into possession of his property after the death of his parents. Besides his farming he has had other business interests. For three years he was a director of the Sinking Spring Fire Insurance Company, and was recently again elected to that office to serve for three years, from Jan. 1, 1909. In 1905 he was its president, and at present (1908) is its collector.

Mr. Lechner's religious belief, like that of his progenitors, was of the Lutheran persuasion. He has served as deacon and elder in Christ Lutheran Church, near Stouchsburg, but latterly, though still a nominal member, has become a confirmed liberal in his religious views—an evolutionist. He does not believe that the Bible writers were divinely inspired in their erroneous cosmogonical statements, where they conflict with demonstrated science and astronomy and the present enlightened higher criticism on historical and traditional religion. In political sentiment he is a Republican, and has been inspector of elections and for many years chairman of the township committee. During the Civil war he became a member of the State Guard, and rode his own horse to Chambersburg, where the Guard remained until the emergency was apparently over. They then returned home, and the attack occurred on Chambersburg the following week. During Lee's invasion Mr. Lechner enlisted at Harrisburg, becoming second lieutenant in Company H, 31st P. V. I. (Capt. William A. C. Oaks), and was mustered into the United States service under the proclamation of the President June 15, 1863 (General Orders No. 43). His commission was signed by Gov. Andrew G. Curtin, and is dated June 18, 1863. He was mustered out Aug. 7, 1863. Mr. Lechner is the owner of a grandfather's clock, made by Jacob Guthart, of Lebanon, Mass. He has a secretary made about 1775, and ornamented with inlaid wood; and also an old corner closet, for which he has been offered a large sum. Fraternally Mr. Lechner is a Mason, being past master of Williamson Lodge, No. 307, F. & A. M., of Womelsdorf; he is also past noble grand of Golden Rule Lodge, No. 159, I. O. O. F., of Womelsdorf.

Mr. Lechner married Lizzie Deppen, born in Womelsdorf, Jan. 22, 1842, daughter of Adam Deppen (born in Womelsdorf Jan. 20, 1817, died 1845), a shoemaker and farmer. To this union came children as follows: George, born Dec. 14, 1865, is a photographer and farmer in Marion township; Harvey, born Oct. 26, 1870, died March 29, 1871; Maud, born March 27, 1874, resides at home; Paul, born Oct. 27, 1875, died March 6, 1876;. Charles. born April 26, 1877, is at home; and Ella, born Aug. 7, 1883, died Feb. 25, 1892.

ADAM E. DUNDOR, a retired citizen of Mt. Pleasant, Berks county, was born Dec. 1, 1829, in Bern (now Penn) township, and has passed practically all his life in the same locality. He is a descendant of one of the old families of Huguenot origin, of which we have the following account:

(II) Jacob Dundore (Dondore, Dundier, Dundon, Dunder, Dunden, Dundare or Dondor), son of John, was born July 25, 1720, and was educated in the German language. In 1741 he came to America in the ship "Friendship," and on April 10, 1760, was naturalized by the "Supream" court, sitting at Philadelphia, thereby becoming an English subject. In 1771 he bought a farm east of Bernville, Berks county, but continued to reside, it is presumed, for some years on his farm in Tulpehocken township several miles east of Host Church (where in 1749 one of his children's births is recorded), as according to the court records he owned that farm until 1785. In this year we find a deed recorded conveying same to Valentine Heberling. It is certain that he resided on the Bern farm at the time of his death. This farm he conveyed by deed to his eldest son, John (signing "Jacob Dunder" in German), from whom it passed to his son John Adam, by deed signed "John Dundore" in bold round English; John Adam divided the farm between his two sons, Samuel E. and Adam E., signing "Adam Dundor" in German—Adam E. obtaining the portion on which was the old house—the farm being in their possession in 1908. Jacob is buried in the Bern churchyard, and the inscription on the substantial yellow sandstone is still visible. His will is dated March 3, 1787, and the original and a translation are recorded in Reading. It was approved June 12, 1789, and it is an outpouring of his soul's thanks to God for health and prosperity, and such an example of equity and justice in the distribution of his estate as could come forth only from a Christian's heart. About 1745 he was married to Anna Maria Brecht, who died in 1793 or 1794. Their children were: Maria Catharine, born March 19, 1749, who married John Smith (some of their descendants still live in the Wyoming Valley); Susanna, who married Frederick Gerhart, and lived in the vicinity of Host Church, where their descendants still reside; John, born March 20, 1751, who died Oct. 14, 1823; Michael, born Dec. 4, 1754; John Jacob, born March 19, 1756, who died Sept. 22, 1821; David, born July 21, 1758; Catherine Elizabeth, who married Adam Schauer; and a son whose name is not known.

(III) John Dundore, son of John and Anna Maria (Brecht), was born in Tulpehocken township March 20, 1751, and died Oct. 14, 1823. He settled in Bern township, near the present site of Bernville, and his descendants are known as the "Bern Branch" of the Dundore family. He married Catherine Geiss, born Dec. 23, 1753, who died Jan. 12, 1827, and they are both buried at Bern churchyard. Their children were: John Jacob, born Aug. 13, 1776, died Oct. 23, 1861; John Adam, born Aug. 2, 1778, died June 17, 1850; John, born June 30, 1780, died April 14, 1858; Catherine, born Nov. 24, 1782, died Jan. 17, 1840; Frederick, born April 30, 1786, died Aug. 30, 1864; John George, born Oct. 6, 1788, died Dec. 24, 1803; Philip, born Feb. 28, 1791, died Oct. 5, 1867; Christian, born June 6, 1793, died Oct. 11, 1872; and Elizabeth, born March 10, 1794, married Daniel Miesse (1789-1823), and died about 1867. This family is remarkable for the average age attained. With the exception of John George, who died of lockjaw at about the age of fifteen, the remaining eight averaged fully seventy-five years, although two had their deaths hastened by accidents—Catherine dying from being thrown out of a sleigh, and Frederick losing his life by being run over by a railroad train.

(IV) John Adam Dundore, son of John and Catherine (Geiss), was born on the old homestead Aug. 2, 1778, and died June 17, 1850; he was buried at Bern Church. He was an agriculturist all of his life, and owned the homestead which in later years became the property of his son, Samuel E. He was a substantial and influential citizen of his day, was director of the poor, when the present almshouse was erected, and was well known and universally respected. Mr. Dundore was married (first) to Elizabeth Miesse, by whom he had nine children, namely: Susanna, Maria, Elizabeth, Leah, John (born April 17, 1818), Daniel, Sarah, Benneville and Jacob (born in 1820, died in 1853). Mr. Dundore married (second) Elizabeth Ernst, daughter of Johannes Ernst, of Heidelberg township. She was born April 10, 1791, and died April 10, 1870, and was buried in Bern churchyard. Three children were born of this union: Samuel E., born Feb. 1, 1827, now living retired in Womelsdorf; Adam E., born Dec. 1, 1829; and William E., who married in Plainfield, Ill., and had one son (William E. was a soldier in an Illinois regiment, during the Civil war, and lost his life in battle by the bursting of a shell).

(V) Adam E. Dundor, son of John Adam and Elizabeth (Ernst), was educated in the pay schools of his district. He was reared to farming, working for his father until 1850, when he began on his own account on his father's farm, and he still owns the old homestead of 115 acres in Penn township—land taken up by his ancestors long ago. He himself continued to farm until 1873, when he gave up that occupation and settled in Mt. Pleasant, a village in Penn township, where he built the fine home which he has since occupied. He is regarded as one of the substantial men of his district and is much respected. Mr. Dundor is interested in the welfare of his community, and served six years as school director of Penn township. He is a Republican in political opinion. His chief interest outside of his home, however, has been in the church. He is a prominent member of the North Heidelberg Reformed Church and has long been active in its work, serving as deacon and elder, and at the present time he is a trustee.

In 1852 Mr. Dundor married Rebecca Miller, daughter of Peter Miller, of Spring township, and they lived in wedlock for more than fifty years. Five children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Dundor, namely: One son died in infancy; Valeria married Edwin F. Feather, of the J. L. Stichter Hardware Company, resides in Reading, and has three children, Howard, Florence and Mabel; Kate died young; Sara married Jacob H. Rohrbach, principal of a public school in New York City; Eleanor married Henry

1800s, Pennsylvania

Dr. Edward J. Putt
Edward J. Putt was born May 23, 1819, near Womelsdorf, Berks County, PA; died October 24, 1888, at Highspire. He was a descendant of Johannes Putt, who emigrated to America on the ship "Halifax", landing at Philadelphia on the 22nd of September, 1752. The doctor¹s grandfather was Jacob Putt, and the father of the late William Putt, who married Catherine Hoffman. The father (William Putt) came from Berks County in early life to what is now Oak Lane farm, owned by Col. James Young, in Lower Swatara township, and after discontinuing farming, resided for a few years in Middletown, from whence he removed to Harrisburg, where he was employed as prison watchman and afterwards superintendent of the Harrisburg cemetery.
His children were:
i. Dr. Edward J.
ii. Benneville, d. in Wormleysburg
iii. Elvira d. s.p.
iv. Alfred H. residing in Halifax
v. Frank, residing in Harrisburg
vi. William J., residing at Camp Hill
vii. John H., d. in Wormleysburg viii.August H.

Dr. Putt was a self made man. He received his education in the common schools of his day and by private study until he was fitted to teach school, which profession he followed several winters, in the meantime reading medicine with his uncle, the late Dr. Jonathan Zerbe, of Sheafferstown. After graduating in Philadelphia in 1842, he located at Highspire, where he continued in the active practice of his profession about forty-six years. His professional life was an arduous one, and the range of his practice was quite extensive, reaching beyond the South mountain in York County, Dr. Putt married Cassia Oberly, daughter of Frederick Oberly and his wife, Maria Sheaffer, who with three children, survive --- Augustus, of Highspire; Dr. Moris-Oberly, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, practicing medicine at Oberline, and Alice. The first and last of his children are mutes. The funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon, October 27, 1888, in the U. B. church, conducted by Revs. E. I. Hughes and J. B. Doucherly.

a majority of the 127 members were either born in Connecticut or were sons of fathers who were born there. Calhoun declared that, at one time the members of Congress who were either born or reared in Connecticut lacked but five of a majority of that body. The single town of Litchfield nearly forty years ago had given birth to 13 United States Senators, 22 members of Congress from New York, 15 State supreme court judges, 9 presidents of colleges, 18 other college professors, and 11 governors and lieutenant-governors of States.

Aside from the southern and southwestern parts of the State, about all the early settlements in Connecticut sprang from the original river towns of Hartford, Windsor, and Wethersfield, which have been happily described as "strictly speaking, the original cradle of empire." Family names familiar in the Mohawk and Susquehanna valleys from the earliest times, may be found in the records of those Hartford county towns. All the New England States found representation, but the showing Connecticut makes far surpasses that of the other States.

The beginning of New England interest in the Susquehanna we must assign to the coming of John Sergeant and Elihu Spencer, who, as missionaries, arrived before 1750. Mr. Spencer was a native of Windsor and Gideon Hawley, who followed him, was also from Connecticut. After the visits of these men, no one in New England had his eyes more intently fixed on this valley than Dr. Wheelock, of Lebanon, to whom the labors of both these men had become well known. Dr. Wheelock's Indian school departed from Lebanon in 1770, but it had been long enough settled there to arouse an interest in this valley in the minds of boys who as men became Susquehanna pioneers.

When John Harper, with Joseph Brant and other Indian boys, attended that school, Sluman Wattles, the Ouleout pioneer, was a lad living in Lebanon, eight or ten years of age, casting more than one eager glance at those dusky children of the western forest lands. In the same period, Daniel Bissell, the Unadilla pioneer, was a boy in Lebanon, twelve or fourteen years of age. He likewise saw these Indian boys, and must have known them well. The same fact is true of Nathaniel Wattles, also from Lebanon, and of James Hughston, his cousin, both of whom came to the Ouleout. It will be remembered that, during the Revolution, the wives and daughters of the Harpers of Harpersfield returned to East Windsor—the place from which the Harpers emigrated before the Revolution—where they remained until the war closed, when they went again to the settlement on the Charlotte. When Sluman Wattles came to the Ouleout, he had an interest in lands which John and Alexander Harper had purchased of the Indians before the Revolution. It is interesting further to recall that Jonathan Edwards, largely through whose influence Gideon Hawley had been sent into the valley, was a native of Windsor. Into this same part of Connecticut, early in the eighteenth century before the settlement of Cherry Valley, had come many Scotch-Irish.

West of the Fort Stanwix line the Susquehanna Valley was invaded by many men from Vermont who were among the "sufferers" in that State—men whose titles to real estate had been lost in the settlement of the disputed New Hampshire Grants, and to whom as compensation were given lands in the Susquehanna Valley which New York had purchased from the Oneidas. One payment made to Oneidas and Tuscaroras was $11,500, and another to Oneidas was $5,500, with an annuity of $600 forever. Israel Smith, who settled in Sidney in 1790 on lands west of the Johnston farm, came from Brattleboro and received from the State 640 acres. Another "sufferer" who settled on a large tract in Bainbridge was Colonel Timothy Church. He had had correspondence with Governor Clinton during the Revolution on public affairs, and had taken part in the battle of Bennington. His ancestral line ran back to Hartford County. Ransom Hunt, of Otego, was also from Vermont, although he did not acquire title from the State, his tract comprising 1,800 acres. George Mumford, who came to the mouth of Cherry Valley Creek with his wife, four sons and five daughters, was from Bennington.

But the main fact is that the upper Susquehanna lands were more indebted to Connecticut than to any other part of the country. From Hebron, a town near Lebanon, men came to Franklin; to Unadilla from Hebron the four brothers Cone, and long after them their nephew, Salmon G. Cone; and to Delhi a man who was to reach much eminence in the State, Erastus Root. To Laurens from Windsor, in 1790, came Jacob Butts; to Unadilla from North Bolton Samuel Rogers and his wife, natives of East Windsor; to Cherry Valley from Chatham, Dr. Joseph White; to Sidney from Hartford County, Levi Baxter; to Sidney from Ashford, in 1798, John Avery; to Unadilla from Danbury, William Wilmot; to Morris, in 1792, from Salisbury, Jonathan Moore; to Unadilla from Norwalk, Samuel Betts; to a farm through which runs the line between Unadilla and Butternuts, in 1810, from Fairfield County, the father of the late Judge Hezekiah Sturges; to Unadilla from New Milford, in 1800, Isaac Hayes and Curtis Noble; to Otego from Roxbury, in 1809, David Weller.

From various parts of Connecticut came others—Timothy Beach to the Ouleout, in 1784; Amos Preston and Nathan Newell to Laurens, in 1789; Jared Goodyear to Milford; William Rose to Binghamton, in 1787; Peter Bradley and Gould Bacon to Sidney; Captain Abel de Forest to Edmeston, in 1795, and many settlers to Cooperstown before the century closed. The reader who bears in mind how the most of the Connecticut towns here named were settled from the original river towns, will see the intimate relation of this movement of pioneers to Otsego County.

A reminder of this debt that will last longer than the names of individuals is found in the names of Otsego towns. Plainfield is a town in Windham County; Middlefield a town in Middlesex County, while New London County has a town named Lisbon and one named Exeter. West of the Unadilla River the fact is again to be observed in New Berlin, named from Berlin in Hartford County, and in Guilford and Norwich, ancient and well-known Connecticut names. More obvious still is the name of Windsor, which supplanted the historic name of Oghwaga*—and so might the list be extended until it became wearisome.

To Richfield in 1790 came the father of Levi Beardsley, with his wife, two brothers, and several children, including Levi, who was then four years

* Windsor was settled almost entirely from New England. In 1791 Lincklaen found there thirty families embracing about 300 souls.

gers on the Britannia, but not all of them. This list gives additional ones.

Charles R. Roberts. "Germanic Immigrants Named in Early Pennsylvania Ship Lists," The Pennsylvania German Society Proceedings and Addresses, 39 (1928), 5-20 [Lancour No. 143].

Between the years 1683 and 1727, how many persons of Germanic origin settled in Pennsylvania will probably never be known. Some writers have estimated the number as high as 50,000. The Crefeld colony under Pastorius came in 1683. In 1694 Johannes Kelpius came with his band of 40 pietists. Daniel Falkner and others arrived in 1704. In 1705 a number of German Reformed residing between Wolfenbuettel and Halberstadt, fled to Neuwied and then to Holland, and in 1707 sailed for New York. Their ship was carried into Delaware Bay and they eventually settled along the Musconetcong and the Passaic in New Jersey, in what is now known as the German Valley. In 1708 the Kocherthal colony came to New York, most of whom afterwards came to Pennsylvania. In 1709 a colony of Swiss, principally Mennonite, settled in Lancaster county.

In September, 1717, three ships arrived at Philadelphia with a total of 363 Palatines. In 1719 Jonathan Dickinson wrote, "We are daily expecting ships from London which bring over palatines, in number about six or seven thousand." On August 30, 1720, the ship Laurel arrived with 240 odd Palatines. Between the years 1708 and 1720, thousands arrived.

The Provincial Council, by a resolution adopted September 14, 1727, required shipmasters to make lists of all immigrants and that the immigrants sign an oath of allegiance to the King of England. The majority of these lists are preserved in the State Library at Harrisburg. It was on March 6, 1903, that I saw these original lists for the first time. They were in the library proper, as the Department of Public Records had not yet been established.

The first ship, record of whose passengers was kept by the Colonial Government, was the William and Sarah, which actually arrived about September 12, 1727, and not September 18th, and on September 21st not more than 51 of the 317 passengers, 109 of whom were men, signed the oath of allegiance. Rev. Dr. Hinke, in Volume 27, has shown us what errors there are in the published lists.

Immigrants Named in Ship Lists

The leader of this band was Rev. George Michael Weiss, a Reformed clergyman, born in 1700 at Eppingen, in the Palatinate. Michael Diel, Rudolf Wellecker, George Kremer and Henrich Weller located in Philadelphia. Those who settled in Goshenhoppen, now Montgomery county, where John Frederick Hillegs, born in Alsace, Nov. 24, 1685, died Jan. 6, 1765; John George Welcker, born Feb. 6, 1697, died March 8, 1782; John Huth, who died suddenly in Philadelphia Aug. 14, 1759. His funeral text was: "Mein Leben ist abgerissen wie ein Weber spull." Michael Zimmerman and Benedict Strohm. David Schultz in his journal says that Strohm's wife died in Apri 1757, and on June 14, 1757, he married again, at the age of 62, a girl of fifteen. John George Bowman, Sebastian Smith and Ulrich Stephen settled at Skippack and John George Schwab and Leonard Se tenreich in the Conestoga valley.

John or John Michael Diffenderfer, the ancestor of the founder, or one of the founders, of this society, Frank Reid Diffenderfer, was born Jan. 10, 1695, at Neresheim, near Heidelberg, in the Chu Pfalz, and died in 1778 in Lancaster county. Alexander Diefender fer, an ancestor of the writer, died in 1768 in what is now Lehig county. They were the sons of John Deubendorffer, born Oct. 8, 1663. The family came from Duebendorf, six miles northeast of Zurich, Switzerland, formerly Diebeldorf, anciently Tobelindorf. The family is mentioned as early as 1130 and in 1229 Cuno von Die bendorf, Knight, is mentioned in a document of the cloister at Zinckenburg as a witness.

Joseph Albright settled in Macungie township, now Lehigh county where he died in 1744. Some of his descendants removed to Northumberland county. Daniel Levan settled in Maxatawny township, Berks county, where he died in 1777.

On the ship Adventurer, October 2, 1727, was Ulrich Rieser, bo
April 9, 1709, who died Sept. 9, 1784, in Lower Milford township, now Lehigh county, and John Dieter Bauman, who settled first in Marlbore township, Philadelphia county, where he operated a grist mill and about 1755 removed beyond the Blue Mountains, to Towamen sing township, now Carbon county, where he died in 1762.

The ship Friendship, October 16, 1727, had among its passengers
Joseph Eberhard, a native of Switzerland, who settled in Lower Mi ford township, now Lehigh county, was one of the founders of the Great Swamp church and at his death in 1760 left each of his six sons a large farm. His brother, Michael Eberhard, settled just over the county line in Milford township, Bucks county, where he died in 1772.

On the ship Mortonhouse, August 24, 1728, was Clement Dunkelbe ger, who died in 1782 in Berks county. His son John removed to Mahanoy township, Northumberland county. Also, Henrich Wilhelm Dillinger from Wurtemberg, who settled in Bucks, now Lehigh count

On the ship James Goodwill, Sept. 11, 1728, came Rev. John Cas
Stoever, Sr., a native of Frankenberg, in Hesse, a Lutheran cler man, who located in Virginia, went to Europe in 1737, and died o board the vessel on his attempted return to America, and Rev. Jo Caspar Stoever, Jr., born at Luedorff, in Solinger Amt, Duchy Be in the Palatinate, Dec. 21, 1707, and died at Lebanon May 13, 17

Theobald Mechling, born (probably at Lambesheim in Chur Pfalz), who settled in Lower Milford, now Lehigh county, where a descendant, a member of this society, still owns the land he took up.

unknown tongues, he was to be excused if he spoke in the Delaware Indian dialect. This put an end to the Latin quotations.

On the ship Saint Andrew, Oct. 27, 1738, came John Rinehard Bene, who died in Northampton county in 1758. Michael Seider, born March 6, 1709, died Dec. 8, 1783, who settled in Upper Saucon township, then Bucks and now Lehigh county; John Nicholas Stahler, who died in September, 1794 in Northampton county, and George Bibighausen, born Sept. 3, 1708, in Elshof, in Wittgenstein.

The ship Bilander Thistle, Oct. 28, 1738, brought Conrad Merkam, who settled first in Berks county and later in Carbon county.

Peter Steckel, born 1719, settled in Whitehall township, where he died in 1784. His son, Daniel Steckel, died at Bath, Northampton county, aged 101 years and 17 days.

Samuel Eberhard Kopp, born in Lindenfingen, Wurtemberg, Jan. 8, 1700, settled in Bucks county, now Lehigh, where he died March 2, 1757.

On the ship Charming Nancy, Nov. 9, 1738, came Peter Butz, born in 1718, in Hertzogberg, Bavaria. He settled in Berks county and died March 18, 1780.

John Jacob Kuntz, born Feb. 19, 1692, at Niederbronn, Alsace, settled in Berks county. His son, Bernhard Kuntz, born Dec. 3, 1723, died July 14, 1807, settled in Northampton county. They are ancestors of one of our Executive Committee members.

On the ship Samuel, Aug. 27, 1739, came Joseph Biery, from the Canton of Bern, Switzerland, born 1703, who settled in Berks county and died in 1768. Also Casper Doll, born Feb. 2, 1724, died Feb. 4, 1793, in Plainfield township, Northampton county.

The ship Loyal Judith arrived Nov. 25, 1740, with Frederick Wilhelm Nagel, born in 1713, who settled in Moore township, Northampton county, where he died Nov. 29, 1779.

These ship lists, up to the year 1775, if published and edited with notes as the example here given, would make a valuable addition to the history of the Pennsylvania Germans. At the July meeting of the Executive Committee I made the suggestion that this be done and that photostatic copies be made of all the lists. At the request of the Committee, I have therefore given the society this paper.

INDEX TO THE 1780 TAX RECORDS

HOW TO USE THIS VOLUME

Volume 2 contains 4,468 names of the taxables who lived in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, prior to the Federal Census of 1790. There are sixteen townships included as well as eight towns and one district which are contained in these townships. Those divisions are listed here along with the number of inhabitants who were taxed.

Bart	199	Londonderry	229
Bethel	199	Manheim Town	70
Conestoga	210	Martic	204
Derry	168	Mayerstown	15
Drumore	216	Middletown	66
East Hanover	184	Newmanstown	21
Hanover	38	Paxtang	368
Heidleberg	263	Rapho	236
Heidleberg Town	51	Salisbury	231
Hummelstown	19	Stumpstown	22
Jonestown	36	Upper Paxtang	204
Lebanon	655	West Hanover	202
Little Britain	208	Wiconisco District	154

As in Volume 1, we cannot stress strongly enough that to use this index to your very best advantage, you MUST check all variations of the spelling of the family name. The people taking the taxes were NOT careful with their spelling and the spelling of a family name varied on the individual lists as well as from township to township. The name Tryon appears as Trion and Dryon. Beyers appears as Byers, Buyars, and Buyers. The name we know as Campbell is spelled variously as Cambel, Cambell, Camble, Campble, and Campel. Kennedy can also start with a C--Canaday. The letters B and P were often interchanged. It seems that in a couple of cases the names Robinson and Robertson were even interchanged. We have made an attempt to note the variations where possible and hope that you will find this helpful. In retaining the original spellings from the tax lists we have tried to avoid any possible misinterpretation of a name, and leave it up to the researcher to further check the original records of other years if necessary, to verify a family name.

This index contains, not only the name of the individual taxed, but also the township or town of residence (PL), the year from which the record was taken (YR), the taxable's classification (CLS), an indication of oath of allegiance to the Commonwealth if this information is given (ALG), the person's trade if noted by the tax collector (TRADE), and additional comments made by the tax collector or in some cases by the editors (COMMENTS). Editorial comments are found with an ED. notation with the exception of most surname spelling variations.

THE TAX RECORDS

The following information on the individual tax records used is included in this index to help make the researcher aware of the names of the collectors of the records included and of any other information that might have been included which we were not able to include in the index itself. In most cases this is only minor, but we felt that it would be of interest and perhaps in certain cases very helpful. In certain cases little information is available.

Many of the lists of this period began with the following printed heading (some are handwritten, some have no such heading):

"To (name of the collector) Collector of (township inserted here)

You being appointed Collector of the within Tax, are hereby required to demand of the Persons within mentioned, the several Sums wherewith they stand charged. But if any think themselves aggrieved with what they are rated, acquaint them that the Day of Appeal is the (date) Day of (month, followed by the place).

But if you cannot meet with the Person of whom Demand is to be made, leave Notice in Writing with some of the Family, or at the Place of their last Abode, signifying the Day of Appeal; at which Time you are to attend with this Duplicate, and the Names of such Persons in your District as You find omitted herein. Fail not at your Peril. Dated the (date) Day of (month) Anno Domini, 175( )"

The dates of appeal varied and were held at the Court House in Lancaster or at the tavern of Mathias Slough. There are those lists from time to time that mention a person who felt his taxes were too high.

BART--The first record is for 1751, taken by John Lingerfield (also Lingfeild). The next record available was for the year 1754. This was taken by William Laughlin. Bart was erected from Sadsbury and the records are mostly Scotch-Irish names, with a few Quakers and Germans.

BETHEL--The first record here is apparently for 1750, although the date is hard to read. It was apparently taken by Constable Martin Crom (perhaps Martin Krem in the list, although more likely Martin Cromer who appears in the following year) as his name appears under the notation "Return of Bathel Township". At the end of this list is a separate notation: "More setlers of Bathel Township which came In afther wards." Nine men are listed and these are noted with a similar comment line in the index. The next available year is 1751, taken by Henry Sowder. It is interesting to note that Martin Cromer's name is crossed off as the collector and Sowder's is inserted instead. We felt it necessary to include the 1756 list for Bethel Township also as it contains some extremely interesting information. The Colonial Indian Wars were taking their toll on the area and this is quite apparent in this particiar record. The collector was the constable of the township. The notation is found at the end of the list:

U.S. Family Census History

Family Name

The purpose of the U.S. Family Census History form is to track multi-generational famies through time using the information provided by U.S. Census enumerations. You can also track multi-generational families as well. Shaded boxes signify that information was not asked for by the enumerator during that census year.

From the story written by Shoup/Putt Descendant.

About the last Indian raid that was made in this valley was about the year 1785. This was when Captain Phillips, with seven or eight of his scouts had come across the Tussey Mountain from the Cove at a point near where the State Road leading from Fredericksburg, intersects with the Woodcock Valley Road..... etc.

The Shoup's had several children by this time (1785); the first a girl, and they named her Sarah; then two boys, Henry and John.

Shoup>Sarah; then Henry; John;
Henry Putt+Sarah Shoup>Henry Putt II, Michael, Abel, Jacob, Jonathon, Abraham and William~(William Putt was the writer's Grandfather)>Mary + Samuel Blake

In Holland, Mr. Shoup's family had neighbors by the name of Putt, who also had a son named Henry. Young Henry had often heard his parents talk of the Shoup's who had gone to America, so he planned that when he grew up and had saved enough money to make the trip, that he would go to America also. When he was in his early twenties, he left for the new country, found his way to the Juniata Valley and the home of Mr. Shoup, and went to work on his farm.

Henry Putt became the father of seven boys, whose names were: Henry Putt II, Michael, Abel, Jacob, Jonathon, Abraham and William. (William Putt was the writer's Grandfather.)

Mary Putt Blake is William's daughter.

[There was Frank, Oliver, (myself -- Miles), Simon, Charles, Samuel, Savilla, Margaret and Elizabeth. Of the six boys only two had children. The elder one, Frank, had two girls, no boys; and myself, Miles, five girls and one boy, Ralph, who is married to Arvilla Frederick. My son has no children, so you see, of the William Blake that migrated from England, Ralph Blake is the last of his descendants in this of the rise and fall of a little community that was located, partly in Huntingdon County and partly in Bedford County, along the upper Juniata River, known as the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River.

In order to introduce this history, we will have to go back to about the Year 1730. At this time there lived a family in Holland by the name of Shoup, and they had a son named Henry. This family was very poor, as they made a living by farming, and it was pretty tough going to eke out a living, as their Farms were very small. Henry, being grown to manhood and not seeing much chance of getting ahead in his native country, had heard of the new land of America and decided to try his luck there. He had also heard that a man by the name of Penn had a large grant of land, called Penn's Woods or Pennsylvania, and that he had sent out word that anyone who wanted to come and settle on this land, was welcome to take up land without any charge.

Young Henry was looking for adventure and a place to settle to start a life of his own. He married the girl of his choice and they started on their honeymoon for America to find a home in Pennsylvania that they had heard so much about. After several weeks on the water they landed at Philadelphia, and looking around, found that about all the land close around there had been taken up. They bought a camping outfit and started for the Susquehanna River, and finally came to where the Juniata empties into the Susquehanna.
They got a canoe and started to navigate the Juniata, and they pushed their way upstream, catching fish and shooting game to eke out their meals. They finally came to the South Branch of the Juniata, now called the Raystown Branch. Here they pushed their way up stream, where they found the fine fishing--catching many large salmon, pike and other fish, with plenty of wild game in the forests close along the stream. They made their way on upstream to where a small stream emptied into the Raystown Branch, so they stopped there to look around, and they came to the conclusion that here would be an ideal spot to settle down. There seemed to be plenty of rich land; the stream was alive with several species of fish; and in the forests there was an abundance of wild game. This was an important factor, as they would practically have to live on fish and game, along with a few berries and wild fruits, until they would get their ground ready to plant. They soon found a likely looking spot not far from the stream (which was later called Shoup's Run) with plenty of good pure drinking water, and here decided to build their future home.

First, they would build a rough cabin to live in, until they could build a better house. For many weeks and months they were very busy and happy, building their cabin; cutting the logs and dragging them by hand to the site of the cabin. They didn't have a horse, or yet even an ox, which was mostly used for that kind of work, and also for cultivating the new soil after it was cleared. After a lot of hard work, and not much pleasure, they finally had a rough cabin built. They were very proud and satisfied, and happy that now they had made a start in a life of happiness and contentment.

In the meantime they had heard of a settlement on the West side of the Mountain, which is now called Tussey Mountain. The South Branch of the Juniata River runs along close to the foot of the Tussey Mountain. Mr. Shoup decided to cross the Tussey Mountain into what is now called Morrison's Cove, and see if he could buy a horse or a yoke of oxen. His wife was to go with him, as he refused to let her alone at the cabin while he was gone. One morning they started to walk across the Tussey Mt. at a point now known as Raver's Gap. (The Raver's Gap Road crosses the Tussey Mt. about three miles Southwest of Saxton and comes out at Woodbury in Morrison's Cove.) At that time there were bands of roving Indians in this part of Pennsylvania.
Although they had been driven west of the Allegheny Mts., they often came back across the mountains in small bands to make raids on the farmers' stock; sometimes to kill some of the settlers and rob them of whatever valuables they had, then escape back across the mountains. Mr. Shoup, knowing there might be Indians hiding in had forgotten about this article which was covered in at least 6 issues in a continuing series.

Subject: Putt family

Dear Jane,

Two of his nephews (sons of Joseph Putt) eventually also moved to DeKalb County, Indiana, where they married two of his wife's nieces. Several members of my family have read an entry in a Berks County history written by one of Joseph's descendants that says that Jacob immigrated from Germany. This is in direct conflict with what George wrote, but they persist in believing that Jacob was the first of the line in America.

In trying to sort out this family, I have lately been trying to follow them through the census. I had always assumed that the Jacob Putt listed in the 1790 census of Hereford Twp., Berks Co., Pa., was the father of George, but a close look at the entry made question that assumption. I believe that in Jacob's household, there was 1 free white male under 16, 2 over 16, and a free white female over 16. There are different possibilities to explain this, but whatever they may be, it appeared to me that a man who was head of his household in 1790 was a little old to be having his first son in 1814. Adding to my confusion is the question of whether the "Potts" were or were not "Putts."

At any rate, it is not until the 1820 census of Heidelberg Twp, Berks Co., that I am pretty sure that I am looking at George's family, under the listing of Jacob Putt. There are 2 free white males under 10, 1 of 45 or over, 3 free white females under 10, and 1 of 16 to 26. I believe this to be Jacob and Catharine Shaffer Putt with 5 children, and Jacob is quite a lot older than Catharine. Could this be a 2nd marriage for him? And are the Benjamin and William, and possibly John, that I have been coming across his sons from a first marriage? Or are they nephews or much younger brothers?

And it is in 1810, that I first see Henry Putt in Hopewell Twp., Bedford County. Could he be a brother, a cousin, or even a son of Jacob? I think the names these families use are indicative of some relationship. (My grandfather was named Frank Putt, his father was Levi Putt, and his father was George Washington Putt.)

I have seen the information on Dr. Edward Putt, which says that he was the grandson of Jacob Putt, but I have no idea which of the Jacobs this was. I have not yet come the mountain, made sure to take his rifle and plenty of ammunition with him. He and his wife traveled all day and got to Woodbury late that night without seeing any Indians, however. They stayed that night in Woodbury and the next day started out to buy a horse or yoke of oxen. After doing a lot of traveling and inquiring, they finally purchased a yoke of oxen that a man had brought from Maryland and drove the oxen back to Woodbury.

At that time Woodbury was about the only Trading Post in this part of the state where you could buy produce and farming implements....

(I BELEIVE THE FOLLOWING PART TO BE GENERAL HISTORY)...

Mr. and Mrs. Shoup kept working hard to make themselves a home, and seemed to be happy and satisfied with what they accomplished, although they always had to be on the alert on account of the Indians, who often made raids from west of the Alleghenies. There were quite a few other settlers scattered along the east side of the Tussey Mountain in what is now called Woodcock Valley, and along the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River. Mr. Shoup visited these settlers and discussed the necessity of building a Fort in order to have a place to protect themselves in case the Indians made a raid in this section.

All the settlers agreed that it was a good idea and they set a day to hold a meeting at the home of Mr. Shoup to discuss ways and means, and a site on which to build the Fort. The meeting took place and all agreed to build a log Fort on a piece of land not far from Mr. Shoup's cabin. This site was on part of the land on which Mr. Shoup had settled and started to improve, and was situated about one-fourth mile, north west of Mr. Shoup's cabin along a slight raise of ground, about two hundred yards from the east bank of the River. There was a spring of water just at the bottom of this raise, which was most important, on account of having drinking water within the Fort in case of a siege. This Fort was almost directly north, about two hundred feet from the Borough line of what is now Saxton. The new road that leads out of the Borough to the north, runs almost directly through the center of what was the stockade of the old Shoup Fort.

In building the Fort, the settlers took turns cutting logs and hauling them to the site of the Fort. .....Etc.

About the last Indian raid that was made in this valley was about the year 1785. This was when Captain Phillips, with seven or eight of his scouts had come across the Tussey Mountain from the Cove at a point near where the State Road leading from Fredericksburg, intersects with the Woodcock Valley Road..... etc.

The Shoup's had several children by this time; the first a girl, and they named her Sarah; then two boys, Henry and John.

In Holland, Mr. Shoup's family had neighbors by the name of Putt, who also had a son named Henry. Young Henry had often heard his parents talk of the Shoup's who had gone to America, so he planned that when he grew up and had saved enough money to make the trip, that he would go to America also. When he was in his early twenties, he left for the new country, found his way to the Juniata Valley and the home of Mr. Shoup, and went to work on his farm. Eventually he married Mr. Shoup's daughter, Sarah. Mr. Shoup gave them a piece of his land along Shoup's Run on which to build their home.

Henry Putt was mechanically minded and knew a great deal about milling, as his father in Holland had owned a Grist Mill and was a Millwright. This new settlement was badly in need of a Mill to grind their grain, which they found would grow very easily in this country. Young Putt picked a spot along the stream where he thought would be a good location to build a Mill, and where he could turn the water form the stream into the Mill with the least amount of work; also with the least danger of the Mill being washed out in time of floods. The spot that he chose was at a point about one hundred feet east of the bridge that spans the stream and is crossed by the highway that leads from the Borough of Saxton through Puttstown (which was named for Mr. Putt) and on into Coalmont, Dudley, Broadtop City and over the Broadtop Mt.

Incidentally, the new road passes directly over the spot where the old mill used to stand.

Mr. Putt built a dam about three hundred feet up stream from the site of the Mill. Then a trench or millrace was dug to carry the water from the dam to the Mill. He then built what they called a head gate.

Etc....... I have skipped several pages

Henry Putt became the father of seven boys, whose names were: Henry Putt II, Michael, Abel, Jacob, Jonathon, Abraham and William. (William Putt was the writer's Grandfather.)

Mr. Putt built up a great trade in the milling business, and he had to find an outlet for the sale of his flour and feed, as there weren't enough people in the vicinity at that time to consume his surplus. He conceived the idea of shipping his surplus flour to Baltimore, which by that time was becoming a good market. But, to get his flour to Baltimore, which by that time was becoming a good market.

Etc..........I skipped several pages

Mr. Putt and his sons kept on in the milling business, and every spring they would make a grip to Baltimore with an ark load of flour. I heard my Grandfather, William Putt, tell about one trip in particular that they made to Baltimore. He said that when they got to Harrisburg, where the Juniata empties into the Susquehanna, and where they always camped for the night, they tied up close to the point where the two rivers come together, and they were getting ready for their evening meal, when a funny thing happened.

There was another party of men bringing an ark load of flour down the Susquehanna, and they had tied up on the opposite side of the point of land between the two rivers. One of the Putt boys, Abraham, by name, was a powerful, big man, weighing around three hundred pounds, and had arms as Large as a six inch stove pipe. He was the largest of the seven brothers, but was the biggest coward of them all. As he was getting ready for supper, and was rolling up his sleeves to wash his arms and hands, he happened to glance toward the point of land that lay between the two rivers, He saw the whole gang of men that belonged to the crew of the other boat, coming full tilt toward the Putt gang, but when they saw this mountain of a man rolling up his sleeves, they thought he was getting read to meet them, and they didn't like the looks of the big arms, so they backed out and ran. So the biggest and the most cowardly of the Putt clan scared the entire Susquehanna crew, and he didn't even know at the time what it was all about, but the Putt boys were never bothered after that.

The Putts kept on in the milling business, but branched out into wagon making. The first wagon they made was called the tar skein wagon, because they used pine tar to grease or lubricate the wooden skein or spindle....

Etc....I am skipping several pages ....

This particular section of the Juniata Valley grew to be quite a settlement by 1800. The little village on Shoup's Run Branch of the Juniata had become quite large, and could boast of a Grist Mill, Saw Mill, Cider mill, Cooper's Shop, Wagon-making Shop, Saddler's Shop and later on, about 1850, one of Henry Putt's sons built another Grist Mill about one mile west of the old Grist Mill. This mill stood about exactly on the spot where now stands the Pennsylvania Electric Plant. This mill was run for several years and then burnt down--never to be rebuilt. Shortly after that, another Mill was built about one-half mile southwest of the one that burnt, and was owned and operated by a man by the name of Isaac Little; and this Mill continued to operate until the present time. It was one of the first mills to be changed from the old type Burr Mill to the new roller type of mill.

Etc...Several pages skipped....

The branch road that was built to Dudley and other points southeast of Dudley was named the Shoup's Run Branch of the Huntingdon and Broadtop Railroad, in honor of Mr. Henry Shoup who first settled the little community of Puttstown.

Etc....Several pages skipped....

And now, coming to a conclusion of this short history of all these happenings in connection with this community, I, the writer, would like to explain a little more of my family history. As I have explained before, my great-grandfather on my Mother's side was Henry Shoup, who settled the little community of Puttstown and Saxton. They, tòo, have nearly all disappeared out of the picture.
#####
My great grandfather on my Father's side, instead of coming from Holland, was from England. His name was William Blake and he was the son of Sir William Blake, who once was a great warrior and played an important part in saving England from Invaders who might have conquered England but for the good generalship of Sir William Blake. he and his armies kept the country from being overrun by invaders, and he was rewarded by the Crown of England with a gift of a great amount of land, of which most of it lay where the city of London now stands. Sir William had two sons; William and Bascm. His son William was a minister, but he didn't like the ways of the Church of England and decided to come to the New Land and start a church to suit his way of thinking. He and his brother left England and came to the New Country about 1700. William settled in Massachusetts, while Bascom settled at Philadelphia.

William started a church in Massachusetts called the Quaker Church, of which there are several branches today; The dunkards, Mennonites, and others.
William had learned all about the foundry business in England, so he decided to start a cast iron foundry in this country. He and a friend left Massachusetts and came to Pennsylvania and settled at what is now Woodbury, Bedford County, and there started a cast iron foundry, making stoves, iron kettles, ploughshares, and all kinds of cast iron implements that were needed in those early days. He continued preaching and helping to run the iron foundry until his death, about he year 1834. He had six sons; Thonas, William, Berdine, (who also became a preacher) Simon, Easton and Samuel; who was my Father. Five of these boys enlisted in the army during the Civil war and were mustered in at the place now called Loysburg, Bedford County, but at that time was the town of Pattonsville. Thomas and William never returned from the war. Whether they were killed in action, or what happened to them, no one ever knew. Easton had learned the foundry business in his Father's foundry, and on coming back from the war, decided to start a Foundry in Huntingdon. He built his foundry on the east bank, about 200 yards about the mouth of Stone Creek, which empties into the Juniata River. The foundry continued to run and turn out castings until Easton Blake's death, about the year 1888. when it was shut down, and some years later it was disbanded.

My father, Samuel Blake, was a plasterer by trade. He married Mary Putt at Martinsburg about the year 1864 after he had come home from the Civil War. They had nine children; six boys and three girls.

There was Frank, Oliver, (myself -- Miles), Simon, Charles, Samuel, Savilla, Margaret and Elizabeth. Of the six boys only two had children. The elder one, Frank, had two girls, no boys; and myself, Miles, five girls and one boy, Ralph, who is married to Arvilla Frederick. My son has no children, so you see, of the William Blake that migrated from England, Ralph Blake is the last of his descendants in this line.

There is supposedly a great fortune lying in the Bank of England form the sale of the property that was given to Sir William Blake for helping to save the Crown of England. This fortune is supposed to be as much as thirty-million dollars or more, and is laying there waiting for the Blake heirs to claim it, but up to the present time, no one has been aggressive enough to lay claim to it.

This ends my story of the rise and fall of a once thriving and prosperous community in the upper Juniata Valley. This is 1954 and is the hundredth year of the borough of Saxton, in the community of the once thriving place where I was born in the year of 1872. I am now in my 81st year.

Saxton's oldest house: how the age of the historic structure was verified

by Jon Baughman

Along 8th Street in Saxton Borough, on the banks of a small (and un-named) stream, sits a small two-story house, which has been designated the oldest house in Saxton.

There is an interesting story behind how this house was actually identified as the oldest house. Much of the credit must go to the late Susan Faith Elder, who did the research and wrote the letters that resulted in the identification. She had several advantages in her favor. First, she owned the house in question and was aware of its age. Second, she had an interest in the town's history. And finally, as Secretary for Saxton Borough Council she was the one who received letters from people all over the United States, tracing their family lineage back to the Saxton area.

It was a combination of these that allowed the history of the house to be told.

To unravel the story of the house, the story of the early settlement of the area must also be told. The early history of the house is tied to that of the Shoup family (Shaub in German), particularly Sebastian Shoup who led a band of pioneers to the area as early as Sebastian Shoup was born somewhere around 1737 - 1740, probably in Sissach near Basil, Switzerland and as a young lad came to America with his parents. Three older children were baptized at Sissach but there is no record of Sebastian's baptism there. A sister was baptized in Maryland in 1747.

He married Maria Margaret Teagarden (also spelled Teguard) about 1759. In 1769 Shoup purchased 200 acres of land from Robert Friggs in what is now Liberty Twp., which included the future site of Saxton Borough. He moved to the property a short time later.

He, along with other settlers erected Shoups Fort in East Saxton, which was abandoned July 15, 1780 , a day before the massacre of Capt. Phillips Rangers.

After the war the family returned and Shoup erected a permanent home within the boundaries of what is now Saxton Borough. The oldest house in Saxton is the second house built by Shoup, although the exact year of construction is not recorded. As Sebastian Shoup departed this life in 1793, it had to be before that date.

At this time, son Henry Shoup (born 1767) and wife Barbara Fluke must have been living in this house because it is recorded that their son Henry, Jr. was also born in this house February 28, 1806. Thus it housed at least three generations of the Shoup family.

Please remember that there was no village here at the time. Saxton consisted of nothing more than a pioneer farm with woods and small cleared fields. The closest village was at nearby Stonerstown, which had become a hamlet of some size by 1820.

It was Mrs. Elder's husband Robert Elder who first identified this as the oldest house in Saxton, through correspondence with a Shoup descendant, Attorney M. D. Aber (later Judge Abers) of Warrensburg, MO in 1932. It should be noted that the Shoups and Elders had intermarried. Robert was employed at the State Correctional Institution at Huntingdon, where he was stabbed to death by an inmate.

Aber had obtained Elder's name from a distant cousin, and wrote him a letter July 30, 1932, stating "One of Henry Shoup's sons was Henry Shoup, Jr. to whom he conveyed all or part of his land holdings in 1835. The latter Henry Shoup was my grand-father who was born there, probably in the same house February 28, 1806. My mother was born in that house September 16, 1842. Grand-father sold the property to a man named Fockler in the Spring of 1855 and removed to Ashland County, Ohio. He sold his farm in Ohio in 1868 and bought a farm in this county (the second tier east of the Kansas line) to which he removed in the Spring of 1869. He died of pneumonia March 12, 1875. Mother is the sole survivor of his children, next to the youngest of them, and as you will note, now closely nearing her end of the 90th year."

Aber asked Elder to make a copy of a photo of the old house which he could show to his mother, which was accomplished. At that time the house looked much like it did as a log house; the wooden siding was not added until 1941.

In a letter dated September 12, 1932, Aber states, regarding the photograph, "I gave it to her soon after it came here. Handing it to her, we asked her if she knew what it was. She took it and looked at it; wiped her glasses and looked at it again, and said I believe in my soul that's the house I was born in. Remember she hadn't seen the house since her father left there about the 1st of April 1855, more than 77 years ago. I thought it extraordinary. The she began to tell of the changes; there had been a long porch at the front; the small shed like structure at the end had been added, and the building raised at the farthest end. She said there had been a low loft over the kitchen at the farther end where she and her little sisters slept. Getting the photograph was a real success, and I thank you warmly fir sending it." Note: his mother lived until January 27, 1939.

During the Saxton-Liberty Centennial in 1954, Aber wrote to Mrs. Elder, noting that at age 90 he was still active and was then serving as Judge of the City Court of Warrensburg, MO.

The letter written in 1954 questioned why Saxton - Liberty was celebrating its centennial in 1854 because he was sure the land was not sold to Fockler until 1855 -- "As I have the facts from mother and her oldest brother, Thomas Shoup."

It was Jacob Fockler and his brother-in-law James Saxton who purchased the land and laid out the town of Saxton in lots, being aware that the Huntingdon 7 Broad Top Railroad would go through the middle of the property they purchased. James would know that, as privileged information; he was a stockholder in the new railroad.

And that information was not generally well known by the Shoups who sold the land, as Aber pointed out, "Henry Shoup, probably unwisely, took the money obtained from liquidating his share of the paternal estate, and went to Ohio."

Legend states that Henry and David Shoup were paid in gold coin, which they sewed into belts and wore under their clothing when they headed west.

Here is what I have. Unless otherwise noted, location is Berks County, PA:
On Jacob's daughters--Sophia married Adam Depprin, Susan married Elijah Hassler and Peggy married ?Heckler

Joseph married Catherian Brigel (daughter of Adam Brigel and Barbara Weinhold) their children were Frank, Charles b. abt. 1848, Joseph b. Oct 25, 1852 m. Leah Spears, Jacob, William b. abt 1860, Sarah, Ellen & George

Joseph and Leah had James H. Putt

Levi Jacob (1834-aft 1903) m. Susanna D. Peter (Oct 22, 1840-Nov 2, 1903) on mar 28, 1858. She was the daughter of Daniel A. Peter and Anna Schmeck

Levi and Susanna had one son, Daniel Jacob (Sept 5, 1850-Feb 1, 1926, Indianapolis IN) m. Mary Elizabeth Miller (Dec 22, 1865-Dec 28, 1933, Detroit MI) on Nov 27, 1886. Their children were

Levi Frederick (Sept 3, 1888, Danville IL-Feb 27, 1893)

George Peter (Dec 11, 1890, Danville IL-Feb 4, 1950, Indianapolis IN) m. Lena Braun (abt 1892 location unk-Nov 8, 1967, Indianapolis IN) on June 15, 1910. Child Helen Elizabeth b. Mar 23, 1911, Indianapolis IN

As I told you in an earlier mail, Mary Agnes Putt is my mother.

I hope this isn't too muddled to for you to figure out. One other thing I have to share is the following, which is an undated newspaper clipping--I think it's a hoot!

"The funeral of Susanna, wife of Levi Putt took place from her residence, 42 Maple, at 10 a.m. Rev. Dr. J.W. Steinmetz and Rev. C.E. Schaeffer held services. The remains lay in a black cloth-covered casket, with oxidized extension bar handles, oxidized trimmings and plate and were attired in a white shroud. The bearers were: James, George, John, William and Joseph Putt and Charles Moyer. Relatives and friends were in attendance from Lebanon, Cornwall, Fleetwood and other places. Internment in Aulenbach's Cemetery. Funeral director, Hunter Henninger"

According to Dawne Slater Pott, Benjamin Pott was born between 1750 and 1760 – was in Heidelberg Twp, Berks Co. in 1800 & 1810 census – later moving to Norwegian Twp, Schuylkill Co, Pa by 1820.

?(By reason of his children's ages), it would appear that Jacob would have been enough younger than Benjamin to be his nephew (Benjamin had a son Jacob G. b. ca 1816) – so our Jacob & Benjamin could have been brothers, I suppose.

Benjamin's? son John W. m. Mary Weist 31 Dec 1840 in Stark Co. Oh. Could this be where our George W. & Sarah Ann stayed app. 1 yr. on their trek to DeKalb Co. Ind? B's Eldest son, Jacob G., was also in Stark Co. in 1850.

However, he was having children at the same time our Jacob was.

Jacob (re 1830 census) was b. between 1760 & 1770. If he came to Berks Co. at age 15, it must have been between 1745 & 1755. Is this the same Jacob that was over 45 in 1810? I'm not sure – 45+20=75

According to THE POTTS FAMILY IN GREAT BRITAIN AND AMERICA by Thomas Maxwell Potts –

p. 426 (His source PENNA. ARCHIVES, 2nd series, either Vol. II or XVII):

Degenhart Pott, Wilhelmus Pott, Johannes Pott & John Wilhelm Pott (latter 2 under 16 yrs of age) came in the ship St Andrew from Rotterdam. Degenhart & Wilhelm were qualified Sept. 12, 1734.

p. 427 Wilhelm & Degenhart Pott, brothers, arr. at Phil., PA. "It is the tradition of this family that their ancestors were among those driven from Holland into England by reason of the persecution of the Duke of Alva, but returned to Holland in the time of Charles I.

I Wilhelm Pott brought sons Johannes & Johann Wilhelm. The ship's pass. list places them as under 16. The statement of the family is that they were under 10 yrs, & that one was an infant. His wife was Gertrude. They are said to have first settled at Germantown, but soon removed to Oley Twp., Berks Co., purchased & settled on a farm. Wilhelm d. 1767.

Johann Wilhelm Pott was called William by decendants of his brother John, who do not know what became of him. It seems probable that he is the same who settled in York Co.

My note - Don't have a birth year for these people. Most of the Benjamin's in this book are too young to be the Benjamin Putt who eventually d. 1857 in Starke Co.
Question? Who has Ohio 1850 census? I want to look up the above Benjamin

From THE PASSING SCENE by George M. MEISER, IX Vol. 4:
A "ship-list" - - - — - - incl. Wilhelmus/Wilhelm/William Pott + his bro. Dengenhart Pott. With them were the following women + children: Catrout Pott, Johann ~~toott~~ Wilhelm Pott, Catrina Gadrout Pott, Johannes Pott, + Peter Lobach. Peter was 14 and a stepson of William Pott. His father, Peter Lobach Sr., died in 1720.
This bk refers to William as a well-to-do businessman w/ Germa

p. 121 origin. He eventually decided to settle in Oley & purchased 53 acres at a point where Pine Creek unites with the Manatawny
"For this land, which included "a small mill" & its water rights, he paid George Adam Weidner 125 pounds." He bought more land, District Furnace and a furnace. Wm. erected a grist & saw mill, a fulling mill, & a number of houses that became the nucleus of Lobachsville.

"Son Wilhelm left the area for Franklin Co. where he established a furnace & forge in Peters Twp.

My note – Perhaps the Benjamin Pott in Norwegian Twp. Schuylkill, is one of the several other Benjamins – maybe a cousin?

Commentary on George Putt's entry in the 1885 History of DeKalb County, Indiana –

I'm grateful to this ancestor for entering so much specific information about himself – place & date of birth, parents names, marriage date, wife's name; her parents' names, etc. However, there are still some unanswered questions.

~~Most of~~ There has been a general assumption that George's father, Jacob Putt, was a German immigrant (I believe this may come from his cousin Joseph's entry in the Montgomery History of Berks Co.). However, George describes himself as "the eldest son of Jacob and Catharine (Shaffer) Putt, natives of Pennsylvania, of English and German descent." This indicates, to me, that Jacob was born somewhere in Pennsylvania, and that either Jacob or Catharine had some English ancestry. If we go by the order in which George was writing, it would be Jacob Putt who had English, or mixed English – German ancestry. At this time, I don't know that we can be certain of ~~that~~ that, since he did not say ~~that was George's meaning~~ "respectively". So it could have been Catharine who had English ancestry. ~~In that case~~ If that were so, I believe we can be certain that her ancestry would have been mixed German-English.

[A closing statement in Dutch at the end of the list, referring to 1283 Paltheze, signed by Jan Van Gent and dated 29 Meÿ 1709 and 3 Junÿ 1709, was not transcribed.]

The 3rd Party Rotterdam Departure List

The 3rd Party consisted of 2,926 passengers who were embarked in Rotterdam on ten ships and sailed for London 11 June 1709 (OS). There were a total of 196 deaths, net of births, en route (6.7% of the passengers) and 2,730 passengers arrived in London on 15 June 1709 (OS).

[1] i.e. brother-in-law's mother.

[2] Sic; perhaps she should be indented under Jacob Jonge?

The clerk for the 3rd Party Rotterdam was not familiar with German names and also had poor handwriting, both items making this a difficult list to transcribe. Unlike the clerk of the 2nd Party Rotterdam Departure List, in most cases he did not give the names of the older children within each family, which is quite a pity. The notation [?] indicates that we were not able to decipher the name with any certainty. In quite a number of cases, the clerk gives only a single name with "en vrouw". In all such cases, it appears to me that the name given is a surname not a Christian name.

We will be publishing a new, complete, verbatim, copy of the complementary 3rd Party London Arrivals List in our next book. Until then, researchers will have to make do with the incomplete and error-ridden edition published in the New York Historical and Biographical Record many years go.

[The above was written on a cover sheet. The date "14 June 1709" was then repeated at the bottom of the sheet in a different hand.]

[1] The 3rd Party London Arrivals List calls him Martin Eich. Knittle has Dich.

[2] It can also be read as Lecobs; in any event this man is not on the 3rd Party London Arrivals List.

[3] No Christian name [or surname, if by any chance Bscheere is a first name] is given. There are quite a number of entries in this list which give only a surname.

Oh Carolyn,

I agree with you. The name "Putt" is still uncommon today; therefore, to have Putt families living in close proximity makes one think they had to be related.

I'd like you to go here to read an account of a descendant of my family. He is Miles Blake.

My cousin, Jan Neville sent me a copy and I extracted the "genealogy" as there was much written about the crops, building the mill, etc., that was not of interest to me, personally.

If you go here, you will find the history. Let me know what you think of it.

Warm regards,

Jane, Carole--
In the year 1982, Leda (Blake) Brennan submitted the history that Miles Blake had written to share with Jon Baughman.
I glanced over Jon's reprint of it. It was different in some places and much longer. Jon said it was an original copy that Leda sent him and he had not changed any of it. One of the places that differed was when Miles launched into the history of Henry Putt.
I quote, "In "Switzerland" , Mr. Shoup's family had neighbors by the name of Putt who also had a son by the name of Henry. .....when he was in his early twenties, he left for the country, found his way to the Juniata Valley and the home of Mr. Shoup, and went to work on his farm. Eventually he married Mr. Shoup's daughter Sarah. Mr Shoup gave them a piece of his land along Shoup's Run on which to build their home.
When I related to Jon that there was a conflict about Holland, he said that he probably boarded the ship in Holland because that was where most of them were sent. I then told him about William listing his father as having been born in Germany (on the census record) and Jon said that sounded plausible because Germany at that time had no name and was not named Germany until sometime during or before or after World War I. He then related that there were three separate places under the sovereignty of Charlemagne's three sons.
I do not understand why the copy I sent you both mentioned
"Holland" on it, yet this copy says "Switzerland". Jon also said that when the influx of immigrants got to be too much for England (those who were leaving for the new country, America,) they were sent to different places to embark on their journey.
I have no doubt that the story told about Henry and Sarah is true; why would our ancestors just pick Sarah Shoup as his wife? I had not known Leda Brennan was related until I saw her obituary in the paper where she died and it listed the Blake's. She gave this story to Jon in 1982. Jon printed the history and gave the credit to Leda for submitting it and the opening credit Leda as having ties to the Shoups and Putts. He

B. F. PUTT, M. D., is the son of John W. and Mary Putt. His father was born in Washington County, Md., March 24, 1819, the son of Benjamin and Barbara Putt, born in the said county. They moved to Stark County, Ohio, in 1826, and settled on the spot where Massillon now stands. Benjamin was born in 1756, and was of Holland descent. At the age of nineteen, he enlisted in the Revolutionary war, serving under Capt. George Lancaster a part of the time and under George Washington the balance. After the war, he settled on a farm in Bucks County, Penn. Was married, in 1813, to Barbara Lawmen; moved to Washington County, Md., and, in 1826, to Stark County, Ohio, and there died in 1852, aged ninety-six years, his wife surviving him four years. They left a family of four boys and three girls. John W. was the fourth son, was born in Washington County March 24, 1819, came with his parents to Ohio, and was there married, January 1, 1841, to Mary Wiest, who was born in Huntingdon County, Penn., January 1, 1819, the daughter of, Jacob and Catharine Wiest, who emigrated from Germany to Cumberland County, Penn., about 1805, and purchased a large tract of land, which was all lost through a poor title, and then moved, in 1827, to Massillon, Ohio, where the father shortly after died, leaving a wife and seven children, Mary being the eldest daughter; shortly after, the mother followed the father. John W. followed his trade of wagon-maker in Stark County until 1853, when he moved to Allen County, Ind., and purchased the farm on which he and wife now reside, enjoying life at the ripe age of sixty-five, after having, reared a family of eight children, born and named as follows : Sarah A., October 9, 1841; Harvey A., May 20, 1843; Caroline, April 19, 1845; William, March 25, 1849; John, March 24, 1851; Benjamin F., August 16, 1853; Rosana, March 19, 1858, died January 23, 1861; Charlie, August 6, 1859. At the age of six years, our subject, Benjamin F., began his studies in a country school, which he continued till his twelfth year, when the family moved to Fort Wayne; here he attended the Western College four years, when his father moved back to his farm. The New Year's Eve of 1868, our subject lost three fingers from his left hand by the explosion of a gun, which accident disabled him as a farmer, and he then began the study of medicine. Having already acquired considerable knowledge of anatomy and physiology, he made very rapid progress. He entered a drug store at Nine Mile, Allen County, as druggist and Deputy Postmaster, at the same time practicing medicine until 1876, when the Medical College at Fort Wayne was organized. Here he attended a five-months course of lectures, had access to the hospital wards daily, and read in the office of W. H. Myers, the well-known surgeon. Having completed his collegiate course, he came to Forest in 1877, and resumed practice in association with Dr. John Richards, and soon gained the confidence of the public as a competent, careful and attentive physician. April 17, 1878, he married Miss Lillian E. Barger, daughter of Elias and Mary Barger. Elias Barger was born in Mahoning County, Ohio, October 15, 1833, his wife in Delaware County, Ind., October
4, 1833, and they were married at Roanoke, Huntington County, Ind., September 10, 1857, where they still reside, enjoying, every comfort and the respect of all who know them, and the enduring love of their two children-- Lillian E., born April 2, 1860, and Flora E., born August 29, 1862. Shortly after his marriage, Dr. Putt purchased property at Forest, and withdrew from his partnership with Dr. Richards. In 1881, he took a second course of lectures at Fort Wayne College, and graduated with high honors. His practice is now very extensive as well as lucrative. He has a fine residence, a well- stored library, and has made a number of paying investments. He has one son-Harold F., born September 23, 1880. He is a member of the Masonic order, which he joined in 1876; and is also Deputy District Grand Master of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and is altogether a popular and rising young man

Subject: Putt family

Dear Jane,

Two of his nephews (sons of Joseph Putt) eventually also moved to DeKalb County, Indiana, where they married two of his wife's nieces. Several members of my family have read an entry in a Berks County history written by one of Joseph's descendants that says that Jacob immigrated from Germany. This is in direct conflict with what George wrote, but they persist in believing that Jacob was the first of the line in America.

In trying to sort out this family, I have lately been trying to follow them through the census. I had always assumed that the Jacob Putt listed in the 1790 census of Hereford Twp., Berks Co., Pa., was the father of George, but a close look at the entry made question that assumption. I believe that in Jacob's household, there was 1 free white male under 16, 2 over 16, and a free white female over 16. There are different possibilities to explain this, but whatever they may be, it appeared to me that a man who was head of his household in 1790 was a little old to be having his first son in 1814. Adding to my confusion is the question of whether the "Potts" were or were not "Putts."

At any rate, it is not until the 1820 census of Heidelberg Twp, Berks Co., that I am pretty sure that I am looking at George's family, under the listing of Jacob Putt. There are 2 free white males under 10, 1 of 45 or over, 3 free white females under 10, and 1 of 16 to 26. I believe this to be Jacob and Catharine Shaffer Putt with 5 children, and Jacob is quite a lot older than Catharine. Could this be a 2nd marriage for him? And are the Benjamin and William, and possibly John, that I have been coming across his sons from a first marriage? Or are they nephews or much younger brothers?

And it is in 1810, that I first see Henry Putt in Hopewell Twp., Bedford County. Could he be a brother, a cousin, or even a son of Jacob? I think the names these families use are indicative of some relationship. (My grandfather was named Frank Putt, his father was Levi Putt, and his father was George Washington Putt.)

I have seen the information on Dr. Edward Putt, which says that he was the grandson of Jacob Putt, but I have no idea which of the Jacobs this was. I have not yet come across anyone who seems to have a handle on the whole family.

When you are reading this, keep in mind that I am not committed to all these ideas, but I am groping for possible answers and am open to suggestions.

Some of Benjamin Putt's family settled near Ft. Wayne, Indiana, by the way, and the wife of a descendant, Dawn Slater-Putt, has written about him.

I have a lot of information on this Jacob Putt, however, I have not found anything in actual records to lead to his parents. I believe them to be Henry Putt and Sarah Shoup.

I have seen many people on the internet sho have copied information that a Jane Curci had put out. I would like to know how to get in contact with her if anyone knows. She has the wrong wife for Jacob Putt. She has the wife as Mary Grumbling and that is not correct. His wife is Mary Meyer daughter of Martin Meyer of Bedford Co., PA. I would like to get in contact with her in order to see where she found the information about Jacob's parents. If anyone has her email address please let me know.

Also, if anyone would like the correct information about Jacob Putt and his wife Mary Meyer, just ask, I am willing to send it to you along with the notes that have my research in it. I am a professional genealogist and this was my research project in order to become accredited, the information is correct. Many other accredited genealogist have looked it over.
Thank you.

Dear Ms. Cripe,

I am researching my great-grandmother Elizabeth May Putt (1896-1928) from Robesonia, Berks County, PA who was the daughter of a Jacob Putt and a Susan (unknown). Elizabeth married Harry David Master, Sr. (1893-1969) in 1912. I have located many of his ancestors, but her family is difficult to trace. Jacob Putt had other children: Ella, Elijah, Jacob, and Paul. Unfortunately, I have no dates.
Any information you have would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Brian York

WILL OF CHARLES PUTT.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That I Charles Putt, of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, being of sound mind and memory, and knowing the uncertainty of this life, do make publish and decree this to be my last will and testament.

Item-1st, I give and bequeath to my wife Sarah E. Putt all my property real personal and mixed, of every kind and dicription, to have and to hold absolutely as her own,

Item-2nd, At the death of my said wife what ever property of my said estate that shall be left shall be equally divided share and share alike among my children, William Putt, and Edward Putt, but this provision shall not deprive my said wife from disposing of all of my property if she so desires,

Item-3rd, I hereby appoint my said wife Executrix of this my last will and testament, to act without bonds, giving her full power to sue for and collect all debts due to me at the time of my death.

Item-4th, Mi said executrix shall first pay all my funeral expences and expence of last sickness,

In witness whereof I hereunto set my hand and seal, and publish and decree this to be my last will and testament, revoking all former wills, in presence of the witnesses named below, this the 15th day of April, 1918;

CHARLES PUTT . . . . . (SEAL)

Signed, sealed, declared and published by the said Charles Putt, as and for his last will and testament in the presence of us, who, at his request and in his presence, and in the presence of each other, have subscribed our names as witnesses hereto.

BE IT REMEMBERED, That on the 6th day of January, 1922, E.M.McKennan personally appeared before C.E.McClintock, Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, and being sworn by the Clerk of said Court, testified as follows: . That on the 15th day of April, 1918, he saw the said Charles Putt, since deceased, execute the annexed instrument in writing as and for his last will and testament; that said instrument was, at the same time at the request of said testator and with his consent, attested and subscribed by the said Jacob R. Putt and E.M.McKennan, in the presence of said testator, and of each other, as subscribing witnesses thereto; that the said testator was, at that time, twenty-one years of age, of sound mind, and not under any coercion or restraint, as the said deponent verily believes; and further deponent saith not.

E.M.McKennan

Subscribed and sworn to beforeme this 6th day of January, 1922.

C.E.McClintock,
Clerk DeKalb Circuit Court.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, SS:

I, C.E.McClintock, Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of said State do hereby certify that the annexed Will and Testament of Charles Putt has been duly admitted to Probate in said County, and proven by the testimony of E.M.McKennan, one of the subscribing witnesses thereto, and that a complete record of said Will and the proof thereof, has been recorded in Book No. 7 at Page 38 of the Record of Wills of said County.

IN ATTESTATION WHEREOF, I hereunto subscribed my name and affix the seal of said Court, at Auburn, Indiana, in said Court, this 6th day of January, 1922.

C.E.McClintock,
Clerk DeKalb Circuit Court.

WILLIAM F. PUTT

I, William F. Putt, a resident of the City of Garrett, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make, publish and declare this my last will and testament hereby revoking any and all former wills by me made.

Item I. My executor hereinafter named shall pay all of my just debts, funeral expenses and costs of administration of my estate as hereinafter provided.

Item 2. I hereby give and bequeath all of the dishes, silverware, linens and bedding of which I shall die possessed to the following named persons to be divided among them as equally as possible to-wit:

Elva Putt, Sulvia V. Quinn, Ella I. DePew, Pearl R. Drake, Douglas A. Putt, Collis E. Putt and Billie R. Putt.

Item 3. I hereby give, devise and bequeath all of the rest and residue of all property, real, personal and mixed of which I shall die possessed, in equal shares to my wife and children named as follows:

Elva Putt, Sylbia V. Quinn, Ella I. DePew, Pearl R. Drake, Douglas A. Putt, Collis E. Putt and Billie R. Putt, to be distributed to them as hereinafter provided.

Item 4. I hereby nominate J. D. Brinkerhoff as the executor of this my will and authorize and direct him to proceed to sell all of my [illegible] property both personal and real, excepting that [illegible] bequeath in Item 2 hereof, and to convert all of my said estate into cash; such sale shall be made as soon after my death as can be done without injury to my estate and as may be, in the opinion of my said executor for the best interest of my legatees. For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this my will my said executor is hereby given and granted full power and authority to make sale, transfer and delivery of personal property and to execute conveyances for any and all of my real estate, either with or without order of Court, and to do or perform all things that may be necessary to effect such sale, transfer and conveyance of all of said property.

Out of the fund thus created my said executor shall first pay all of my just debts, secured and unsecured, including the costs of administration of my estate, and shall distribute and pay the balance in equal shares to my said legatees, Elva Putt, Sylvia V. Quinn, Ella I. DePew, Pearl R. Drake, Douglas A. Putt, Collis E. Putt and Billie R. Putt.

The provision herein made for my wife, Elva Putt, being in lieu of her statutory allowance of $ 500.00 and any and all other interest under the laws of distribution of the State of Indiana.

Item 5. In the event that Billie R. Putt shall not have attained the age of 2I years at the time my estate is settled and distribution made, it is my desire that Collis E. Putt be appointed as Guardian for said minor.

Witness my hand and seal this I8th day of January, I940, at Garrett, Indiana.

William F. Putt. (SEAL)

The foregoing instrument signed and acknowledged by William F. Putt, as and for his last will and testament, in our presence, who at his request in his presence and in the presence of each other have hereunto set our hands as witnesses this I8th day of January, I940 at Garrett, Indiana.

PROBATE CAUSE NO. 5772

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF MAUDE B. PUTT, deceased

DECREE OF FINAL DISTRIBUTION

This cause came to be heard this 24" day of July, 1957, upon the final account and petition to settle and allow account and for authority to distribute estate filed by Roy E. King, as administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Maude B. Putt, deceased, which account and petition are in the following words and figures, to-wit, (H.I.)

No objections having been filed thereto, and the Court being fully advised in the premises, now finds that:

(1) Due notice of the filing of said account and petition and of the hearing on the same were given to all the beneficiaries under the will of said decedent and all persons interested in said estate, and the same are now properly before the Court for action thereon.

(2) The matters and things stated in said account and petition are true and said administrator has accounted for all assets of said estate coming into his hands.

(3) More than six months have elapsed since the date of first published notice to beneficiaries and creditors herein; all claims filed against said estate and all debts and liabilities of said decedent and his estate, except those which may be incidental to distribution, have been paid; no gross income tax is due the State of Indiana; no inheritance taxes were found due.

(4) Under the provisions of the Will of decedent the assets of said estate were to be conserved and used for the care of decedent's husband, Frank Putt, during his lifetime and upon his death the residue was to be equally divided among the children of said testatrix; said administrator has fully complied with the terms of said Will and the trust imposed upon him, said Frank Putt, life beneficiary, having departed this life on the 27th day of March, 1957; said administrator has filed periodic partial reports herein, which taken together with said final account now show assets, consisting solely of cash, in the amount of $ 1,296.61 available for distribution to the children of decedent, and remainder beneficiaries, as follows, to-wit:

Name		Total Share in Estate	Household Items previously taken	Balance in cash
Dwight L. Putt	Son	$ 392.72	$ 90.50	$ 302.22
Naomi Rensch	Daughter	392.72	93.50	299.22
Pauline King	Daughter	392.72	112.50	280.22
Lurah DeVoe	Daughter	392.72	198.00	194.72
Allen Putt	Son	392.73	172.50	220.22
Total available for distribution (as above)				$1,296.61

It is, therefore, ordered, adjudged and decreed by the Court as follows:

(1) Said account and petition is hereby in all things approved, settled and confirmed.

(2) Said administrator with the Will annexed is hereby authorized to make distribution of the balance of assets remaining in his hands to the children of decedent, and remainder beneficiaries, as hereinabove set out.

(3) Said administrator is hereby directed to file herein his supplemental report of such distribution and attach thereto the receipts of such beneficiaries showing distribution to have been made pursuant to the terms of this decree.

Roy E. King, administrator with will annexed

PARTIAL REPORT

Roy E. King, administrator with will annexed of the estate of Maude B. Putt, deceased, being duly sworn upon his oath, for his partial report to the Court shows:

That decedent departed this life the 15th day of October, 1951: that her last will and testament was duly admitted to probate and this affiant appointed as administrator with will annexed on the 19th day of October, 1951;

That an inventory and appraisement of personal property owned by decedent was filed herein showing the following assets, to-wit:

Intangible personal property:-
Cash	$ 641.03
U.S. Govt Bonds Ser E	472.50	$ 1,113.53
Tangible personal property:-
Live stock	565.00
Hay, grain and straw	215.00
Household goods	611.55	1,391.55
Total personalty chargeable		$ 2,505.08

That decedent at the time of her death was the owner of the following described real estate situate in DeKalb County, Indiana, to-wit: The southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of Section 2, Township 35 north, Range 12 east, excepting therefrom 15 acres off the west side thereof;

That by the terms of the will of said decedent said real estate was directed to be sold if Frank Putt, the surviving husband of said decedent, did not desire to occupy said real estate as his residence and that, insuch event, the net proceeds from such sale were to be conserved in trust for the benefit of said Frank Putt;

That said Frank Putt did not desire to occupy said real estate as his home and consented to the sale of the same as directed by said will; that this administrator, upon petition to and order of the Court, did sell said real estate for the gross sum of $ 5,700.00 with said Frank Putt and all the heirs joining in the conveyance thereof;

That this administrator is further chargeable with and/or credited with the following items, to-wit:

Excess received on redemption of bonds	$ 8.00
Sale of piano and stove for cash	18.00
Rents received	170.00
	$ 196.00
Less: differance received on sale of livestock and grain	12.76
Chargeable to administrator	$ 183.24

That this administrator made the following disbursements on behalf of decedent and this estate, to-wit:

Total Disbursements	$ 2,227.37

FINANCIAL SUMMARY

Intangible personal assets		$ 1,113.53
Tangible personal assets	$ 1,391.55
Less household goods taken by heirs	611.55	780.00
Sale of Real estate		5,700.00
Rents and misc. credits and debits as above		183.24
Total chargeable		$ 7,776.77
Less Disbursements		2,227.37
Balance in hands of administrator		$ 5,549.40

This administrator further shows that decedent at the time of her death owned $100.00 U. S. Government Series E bonds of the accrued value of $92.00 which said bonds were payable on her death to her husband, Frank Putt, and which became his property upon her death.

This administrator shows that an inheritance tax schedule has been filed, a hearing had thereon and no tax found to be due; that decedent did not have income subject to gross income taxation; that a fiduciary gross income tax return has been filed and tax paid.

This administrator shows that by the terms of the will of said decedent - "Item 7. Remaining money from sale of real estate, bonds, etc. to be held in trust and used for Frank's care, and at his death whatever is left to be divided equally among my children." That said Frank Putt, surviving husband, is 82 years of age and physically unable to care for himself and that the children of said decedent and said Frank Putt have mutually agreed among themselves that they will undertake to care for said Frank Putt in their respective homes and that a reasonable compensation under present conditions for such board, room and care is $10.00 per week; that for this reason this administrator and said children and heirs deem it for the best interests of this estate and said Frank Putt that this partial report now be filed with the prayer to the Court that consent be given to leaving this estate open and continued for the purpose of maintaining and conserving the assets thereof for the benefit of said Frank Putt and said residuary legatees, all in conformity with the provisions of the will of said decedent.

Wherefore, this administrator prays the Court to examine and approve this partial report, further praying for consent to continue and leave said estate open for the purpose of administration of the trust imposed by the will of said decedent, the same to be periodically reported as the Court may direct.

FINAL ACCOUNT AND PETITION TO SETTLE ESTATE

Roy E. King, as administrator with the Will annexed of the estate of Maude B. Putt, deceased, respectfully shows the Court:

1. Decedent herein died on the 15th day of October, 1951, leaving a Last Will and Testament which was duly admitted to probate and this affiant duly appointed as administrator with the Will annexed on the 19th day of October, 1951;

2. Said Will provided that the assets of said estate be conserved and used for the care of her husband, Frank Putt, during his lifetime and upon his death the residue be divided equally among the children of said Maude B. Putt;

3. All assets of said estate were duly administered upon and a partial report filed on the 7th day of November, 1952, whereupon the Court approved and confirmed said partial report and ordered said administrator to continue and leave said estate open for the purpose of administration of said trust imposed by the Will of said decedent;

4. Said administrator has filed periodic reports with the Court fully accounting for all receipts and expenditures made on behalf of said Frank ~~B.~~ Putt, the last such current accounting having been filed and approved on the 18th day of June, 1956;

5. Said life beneficiary, Frank Putt, died on the 27th day of March, 1957, whereupon this Court authorized this administrator to pay the funeral expenses and debts incurred for last illness, which order has been complied with;

6. This administrator now submits the following accounting covering the period from said last periodic report, to-wit, June 18, 1956, to this date:

DIED.

In Waterloo City, May 1, 1863, of Consumption OBERT E. LONG, aged 60 years.

Lines on the death of DAVID A. MCBRIDE, a private in Co. G, 54th Reg. Ind. Vols., who died of camp disease, on the steamer Mt. Vernon, Jan. 19, 1863. Published by request of Mrs Rachel S. McBride.

Farewell my dear husband, I here yet remain,
But if I live faithful, I'll meet you again
In a world that is free from sorrow and pain,
Where no more will be heard the cries of the slain.

Where no fierce storm or tempest, or thunder shall roll,
Where the smile of the Lord is the feast of the soul;
Where peace, joy and pleasure forever shall reign,
We'll live there together with God and the Lamb.

Oh! hard was the time when we bid thee farewell,
From the scenes of thy home, O, no one can tell,
The tears of deep sorrow how freely did flow,
When the time it did come that bid thee to go.

Away from thy friends in a far distant land,
To meet the proud foe in a southern clime;
While there among strangers, far from thy home,
Away from thy friends, thou must die a'one.

No loved one was there to soothe thy death bed,
No darling sweet babe one lone tear to shed;
But far among strangers, thou must die alone,
Far, far from thy friends and the pleasures of home.

But sweet is the thought when freed from all care,
We will meet with our loved one that has gone on before;
Their amid the sweetest of music forever to reign,
All praise shall be given to God and the Lamb.

OBITUARY

William Brugh was born in Seneca County, Ohio, on January 11th, 1845, and died at his home in Traverse City on November 6th, 1926, age 81 years, 9 months and five days.

At the age of two and one-half years his father moved his family to Stuben County, Indiana, traveling in covered wagons. His boyhood was spent there. On March 30th, 1872, he was united in marriage to Emma L. McBride. To this union were born two sons, Glen who resides in Grand Rapids, and Ray of Traverse City; five daughters, Mrs. Nellie High and Mrs. Maude Putt of Hudson, Indiana, Mrs. Daisy Getts of Kendallville, Indiana, Mrs. Ivy Pettengill of Oviatt, Michigan, and Mrs. Hazel Devendorf of Traverse City. There are also twenty-eight grandchildren, and ten great grandchildren.

The deceased brought his family from Indiana to Michigan in 1882, locating at Oviatt, Michigan, in what was practically a wilderness at that time. The past twelve years he has spent in Traverse City.

Besides the children there is a sister, Mrs. Mary Hagerman of Hillsdale, Michigan, and his wife, Emma L. Brugh, and a host of friends and neighbors who will mourn his loss.

THE HISTORY OF CEDAR LAKE ORGANIZATION

By

Rachel (Shatto) McBride Harmes

1909

Oct. 27th, 1909

History of Cedar Lake Organization
Church of Christ

In the year 1846-47 emigrating from the eastern part of Ohio to Fairfield and Smithfield Twps. and desiring to continue their Christian fellowship and worship and not having a house of worship, the following persons - Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shatto, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cox, Elizabeth Shatto and Miss Casander Shatto met from house to house; the first meeting being held at the home of Henry Shatto in Fairfield Twp.; after which - for want of room - meetings were held in barns and later in school-houses; the Clark school-house being the first one used for this purpose. After which they went to the large log school-house at Hesse-Castle, then to the Cedar Lake school-house where meetings were held regularly until the complete organization of the present Cedar Lake church.

Those remaining of this number are Mrs. J. E. Thomson age 85 and Mrs. Casander (Shatto) Clark now living in Kalamazoo, Mich. As a result of the continued efforts of these 8 members their number was increased to 16 members: Rachel Harmes being the only surviving member of the 8 added during this time.

In May, 1860 Elder Lister held a meeting at Hesse-Castle schoolhouse which resulted in an organization of 25 members, of whom Mrs. Loretta Smalley and Elsie Farrington are all that remain.

These 25 members later united with the original 16 members, known as the Cedar Lake organization making a membership of 41.

The church had no regular minister at his time but was ministered to by the following: Wm. Dowling, James Hadsel, Randal Froat, Robert Rawson, Sterling McBride, Elders Fusselman, Wanamaker and Hanselman, Wm. Aylesworth, N. N. Bartlett and O. A. Oviatt.

In the fall of 1867 they began holding business meetings to consider the building of a church house. The committee on building were - Wellington Farrington, Wm. Brand, John Parnel and Joel Thomson; the carpenters were Joel Thomson and Mr. Stage. The church was dedicated in Dec. 1868 by N. N. Bartlett; the regular pastor at this time was Elder Hadsel.

It is very interesting to hear the few of these old members who are yet with us, and in whose honor this meeting is held, tell of the "old times" how they sacrificed and often walked several miles, carrying their children to the meetings; and of driving their ox teams hitched to heavy wagons, driving through woods and over corduroy roads and having to carry axes along to remove trees that were often blown down across their roads and often the wagons would cut down to the hubs in ruts and mud. Some who owned horses rode horse-back.

Sometimes poor people would walk, carrying their shoes and when near to where the meeting was held would dress their feet. The houses were lighted with yellow candles. The lanterns used were tin in which were cut holes to represent flowers through which came the light. So anxious were these pioneers to attend their meetings that at one time Rachel McBride, now Rachel Harmes, and Lucy McBride walked to Newville (a distance of 22 miles) to attend a yearly meeting; during one of these meetings as high as 50 visiting members were entertained in one home and we doubt not that the visitors enjoyed their entertainment as well as in our time where 2 or 4 are entertained. To note the way in which some of the ministers were paid for their labors - Elder Hadsel was paid in vegetables and corded wood.

One of our early ministers received a load of pumpkins for performing a marriage ceremony. In the year of 1877 in the month of June, Elder Z. W. Shepherd came and hired out to the church; he preached most of the time for ten (10) years, doing much good in increasing the membership and won many warm friends, never to be forgotten and history would be incomplete if we would not mention a few of the many amusing incidents which occurred during his long labor with us. One Sunday he said to our dear Sister Smalley - I am intending to go home with you today, to dinner. - She hesitated and said - I haven't any bread as my bread did not raise yesterday. I will have to make pan-cakes. Shepherd said - that will just suit me as I just love pan-cakes. - Sister Smalley then said - I have no pie baked. - Well, sister, I will just eat one more pan-cake: Well, said she, I might just as well invite you as I see I can not get rid of you anyway. At another time when he was holding a meeting in the winter he drove home after meeting each evening as he lived in Waterloo about six (6) miles from the church. And, as I said, Preachers did not always get money for their labors. He took anything he could use and one evening he was given two chickens to take home. Their feet were tied and put in the back of his buggy. He drove home after church and when he arrived home one chicken was gone and he thought it would freeze, tied and the night so cold, so he put his horse away and walked back three miles and saw it in the road ahead of him; so he felt sure of "biddy" now and when he went to pick it up she flopped her wings and rose in the air and sailed over the fence into the field in the snow and he had a fine chase as, when he got near, the bird had flown. However, as you all know how preachers like chicken, he followed until he captured her; then he walked down to the railroad and saw a freight train standing and he thought he would ride so reached up and pulled himself up and the train crew thought he had been out stealing chickens, as it was then about 3 o'clock in the morning. He told his story but thought they were not fully convinced of the truth of his statement.

The first Sunday School in Smithfield Township was held at Thomsons Corners in Adam Shattos wagon shop, a small shop where he made wagons for the pioneers. On Saturday afternoons, some one would clean it out ready for Sunday School next day.

ROY ELMER KING
and
PAULINE HARRIETTE PUTT

My parents were born about four miles apart in DeKalb County, Indiana, but didn't meet until they were high school classmates. Mom was born July 11, 1913, at the farm home of her parents, Frank and Maude Bell (Brugh) Putt in Fairfield Township. She was the third of five children. She often talked of her childhood and her brothers and sisters. Her eldest brother, Dwight, a college professor in Illinois, was the only sibling to venture any distance from home base. He raised a family of five daughters. Naomi settled on a farm near Butler and had one daughter. It has been said that, although she and Mom were three years apart, they were almost like twins. Family photographs seem to support that theory. They are often photographed together and often dressed similar. But it was much more than a physical friendship....there was a strong emotional bond between them that was very apparent. I can recall through the years, many times Mom mentioning she was lonesome to see Naomi. Usually they had recently spoken by phone or exchanged letters, but the need to physically see one another was still there. After Mom was in the nursing home, Naomi tried to visit weekly. Toward the end of Mom's life when she was too weak to carry a conversation, Naomi would sit by her bed, just patting her hand. Mom passed away in her sleep around 5:00 on a Friday morning. At 6:00 a.m., Aunt Naomi called me saying she just felt like chatting and her first question was "How's your Mama?" When I told her Mom had died an hour earlier, she seemed to already know. Understanding their relationship, I wasn't surprised. Lurah and Allen were born after Mom. Both settled near Kendallville, Lurah had three children and Allen had two daughters. The five children maintained a close life-long relationship which was a good testimony to their upbringing.

Dad was born September 25, 1913 at his family's home in Smithfield Township. His parents were Clarence Arthur and Hester Nora (Reinoehl) King and he had an older sister, Irene. Dad lived the first seventy-eight years of his life on three farms...all within a half mile stretch of the same road. Many of his uncles, aunts and cousins were also his neighbors and friends....they attended the same church and schools.

Dad and Mom first met as classmates at Ashley High School. They began dating and graduated together in 1931. They were married three years later, March 18, 1934, in Angola. They lived with Dad's parents for a short time until the farm of Dad's grandfather, Jerry King, became available. They remained on this farm for the next thirty-seven years when they retired across the road to the Lee Wise farm. In talking about the early years of their marriage, Mom usually described them as "hard times." But she always added, "they were happy." They set up housekeeping with little more than discarded furniture and a few crates for the table and chairs. Most of the year, they closed off all but one room to make it easier to heat. Dad had a team of horses and two or three cows he had raised. Grandma gave them some chickens. In the beginning, their main source of income came from the sale of cream and eggs. They had a savings of $34.54 when they were married. At the end of the first month, their records showed an income of $12.87 and expenses of $12.30 for a profit of 57 cents. As Mom once said, "It's a good thing we had each other, because we sure didn't have much else."

Their first child was a stillborn daughter, Julie Anne, born in 1935. She's buried at Fairfield Cemetery at the foot of Dad's and Mom's graves. Mom was very ill with uremia during this first pregnancy. She'd been bedfast and too sick to eat during most of the nine months. During the delivery, she went into convulsions. The doctor had to make the decision to save her life over the child's. It was a difficult experience and a heartbreaking loss they didn't talk about afterward. In fact, we didn't know we had a little sister until sixteen years later when Grandma Putt passed away and was buried beside her.

Seventeen months after this loss, David was born. Twenty months after David, Danny was born. Both pregnancies were better than the first, but still not easy. The doctor was concerned with the toll three full-term pregnancies in four years had taken on Mom's health. He thought it best if they would consider their family complete and not risk any more children. But twenty-one months later, Darrell was born. Another difficult pregnancy....and this time the doctor strongly advised no more!

Mom told me they didn't discuss it for a few years....they had their hands full with the farm and three little boys. But Mom had been raised with sisters and time didn't erase her desire for a daughter. Five years later, when Doc Showalter discovered she was again pregnant, he thought it should be aborted. But Mom dug in her heels and told him, "Absolutely NOT!" She promised to do whatever it took to have the baby. She spent weeks in bed, eating boiled potatoes and drinking water as this was about all her system would tolerate. Even before the boys knew a new baby was on the way, they were asking for a baby sister in their nightly prayers. David and Darrell asked for a blue-eyed blonde and Danny asked for a green-eyed redhead. When I was born a blue-eyed redhead, they each got a little of what they wanted. The discussion after my birth was what to name me. Dad and Mom had chosen Jennie Nell and Nellie Kaye but couldn't decide which. Doc finally told them to forget the Nellie and "call her Jennie Kaye." There were no more children and Mom survived us all. I sometimes think the reason I was the last child is because I slept between them for about four years. I remember getting booted out. Mom went to the hospital for a hysterectomy. At that time, children were not allowed to visit, so the boys taught me to throw kisses. She leaned out her second story hospital window in her red silk pajamas as we threw kisses to her from the ground below. When she came home, Dad thought I might hurt her by bumping her in my sleep, so I had to sleep in my own bed from then on. But he still let me set on his lap and eat off his plate at breakfast, so I wasn't totally banished!

Growing up on the farm was a special experience. Looking back at old photographs, I see the weather-beaten buildings and worn out furniture, but we didn't realize we had it rough. We had so much else. The house itself was a typical two story farmhouse. The main floor had a large kitchen, the parlor, Dad and Mom's bedroom and the "middle room" which was a large room between the kitchen and the rest of the house where we did most of our living. We got our first television in 1952 and it was put in the parlor. From that time on we used the parlor more. The parlor had French doors with glass panels which were left open. I was two years old when we got indoor plumbing. The outhouse remained in the yard for many years, but we didn't use it. The new bathroom was placed off of what we called the middle room. The only entrance into Dad's and Mom's bedroom was through the bathroom, so there wasn't much privacy. The house was heated by a wood-burning furnace in the basement. The main floor had two registers in the floor, one in the middle room and one in the parlor. In the winter, our lives centered around those two registers. Dad's vinyl rocker was pulled up to one and was where he always sat, winter and summer. A cellarway off the kitchen led to the basement where Mom washed the laundry. In the summertime, she hung it outside to dry. But in the winter, it hung on lines in the basement. The front door to the house faced west off the middle room but we seldom used it. We used the back door in the kitchen as our main entrance. We always knew, if someone was knocking on the front door, it had to be a stranger. We never locked the doors...even when we were gone for extended periods. In the summer, the doors were left open even when we went to bed at night. It wasn't until we kids were all gone from home, late in the 1960s, that the folks locked the doors. The east porch had chairs on it but the only memory I have of using it was when it rained. It was set back in the house so three walls protected it and the roof of the house extended out over it. On rainy afternoons, Dad would come in and we'd all gather on the east porch, watching it rain and eating popcorn.

The upstairs had two bedrooms and the attic. The three boys used one room and I used the other. For years, the stairway opened into my room leaving me with no privacy. But when I got older, Dad built a wall along the stairs enclosing it. The upstairs was not heated and in the winter time was so cold we could see our breath. We slept under so many covers we had trouble turning over. We dressed very quickly or downstairs on the register. One night I decided to warm my bed up by turning the hair dryer on and aiming it under the covers. Unfortunately, it was so warm and cozy I fell asleep. When I woke up the blankets were smoking. Years later, I noticed Mom still had the comforter with the hole burned in it. In the summer when it was too unbearably hot, we'd sleep downstairs. Later, a hole was cut in the floor and a register put in the boy's room so the heat could rise up from the parlor.

Grandma Putt stayed with us before she died. Her bed was set up in the parlor. After her death, Grandpa Putt lived with his children. When he was with us, the French doors were closed and the parlor was made into his room. When Grandma King became bedfast late in life, Irene and Mom took turns caring for her in their homes. Grandpa King was the only grandparent we didn't take into our home. He had a heart condition, but Grandma was able to care for him at home with the help of Dad and Irene who would stay with them nights.

I don't know if we were ornerier than other kids, but we could easily have held our own. Life was far from dull at the Kings. We had an old apple tree which stood in the middle of a field within sight of the house. Mom said when the boys were little and got too unruly, she'd give them each a bucket and send them back to the tree to see if the apples were ready to pick....winter or summer! By the time they came home, they would have used up enough extra energy to make them bearable. We usually had a good time at the table and sometimes were sent to the cellarway to eat until we could behave ourselves. Of course that made it all the more fun for us. At one time, Mom took all the silverware away from the boys (I think because they were dropping it on the floor) and told them they'd have to learn to eat without it. By the time they started eating ice cream with their fingers, she realized her mistake. We found a shelf under the edge of the table which made the perfect place to put any food we didn't want to eat. For awhile, a willow switch hung on two nails over the kitchen door. It was a reminder to behave. Occasionally, it was actually laid across the table...it didn't seem to phase us. There are other stories I've heard over the years, but the boys can tell them so much better than I....two of them chasing the chickens around the corner of the house where the other boy was waiting with a baseball bat......drilling a hole in a kernel of corn, tying a string to it, tossing it into the yard and waiting for a chicken to come along and swallow it so they could pull it back up and use it again....stuffing chickens down the outside toilet hole...a chicken's life didn't amount to much on our farm. No wonder Mom gave up on raising them and Dad would never eat one.

Mom liked to cook and did so in big quantities. I still remember how good the house smelled on Thanksgiving morning when she was cooking and baking. We ate a lot of beef....very little pork and chicken. When she did fix chicken, the gizzards never made it to the table. She loved them and always ate them as soon as they were cooked. She made her own noodles and homemade yeast rolls which she'd set to rise on the registers... ....potato and rival soup, liver and onions, beef and noodles, macaroni, oyster dressing, tuna noodle casserole, lima beans, mashed potatoes with dandelions greens, scalloped potatoes and ham, green fried tomatoes (Years later, I fixed green fried tomatoes for my own family. The plate got passed around the table and returned to me untouched.), fried mushrooms, pizza burgers, popcorn. We had a lot of cold meat sandwiches, mostly bologna, and Velveeta cheese spread or ham salad. She liked to bake and we often had sweets to enjoy....German chocolate cake, apple dumplings, snickerdoodles, cheesecake, fancy Christmas cookies and Marzipan candy, hot biscuits with frosting, homemade ice cream, breakfast food candy, tapioca pudding with bananas, cookies with raisin filling, molasses cookies, graham crackers filled with frosting, bread pudding....the list could go on and on. We ate a lot of popcorn. But the thing we ate the most of would be ice cream. She bought it in 2-1/2 gallon containers from the Waterloo Dairy and we went through several containers each week. I can still remember the smell of the dairy itself and remember the list of the weekly special flavors posted on the wall. Dad often ate a large bowl of ice cream for breakfast. Food was never scarce and we had no limits on when or how much we could eat. I'm not sure how she kept up with it all. I can remember the boys catching frogs and frying frog legs.

We always had a dog. The first I remember was Fritzi, a little black dog. I think she was run over by a wagon. Then we had a series of Dalmatians...all named Alice. The Alices had litters of puppies which we sold. If the mother Alice was getting old, we'd keep one of the pups to replace her when the time came. We raised rabbits for awhile and during the early years, Mom had chickens. Dad loved horses and kept a team for many years. He once had a pair of mules...Jack and Jenny. Jack hung himself in the stable and Jenny had to be sold.

Mom really enjoyed flowers. The area south of our house was known as "the garden" and she had two long areas plowed up for flowers....mums, iris, canterbury bells, bachelor buttons, hollyhocks, carnations and assorted other varieties. Wild sweet peas grew along the road bank and a peony bush grew in the corner. A rock garden grew on the bank to the east of the house and another by the barn. Roses surrounded the garage. In addition, she always had a "truck patch" for vegetables. In the mid 1960s, she took a flower arranging course in Chicago and went to work for the Country Kitchen, a wedding consulting business in Fort Wayne. The business offered a variety of wedding services. She arranged all the flowers, decorated wedding cakes and mints, consulted on the invitations and accessories, then delivered everything to the church, set it up and made sure everyone got down the aisle with their flowers in the right order and at the right time. She arranged the flowers for my wedding and stored them in the church refrigerator the day before. She was very careful to adjust the temperature so they would keep well. Someone, unknowingly, put a salad in and, noticing the temperature was warmer than it should be, turned it down. When she pulled them out before the wedding, they had frozen and turned brown. She sent someone home for a can of spray paint and sprayed painted them white. Working at the Country Kitchen was her first and only job away from home. She enjoyed it but didn't like leaving Dad alone on the farm. She soon left the job and opened her own flower shop in their home specializing in artificial flower arrangements. Kings Flower Shop kept her busy and she was very good at it. She eventually learned to make flowers from feathers and created arrangements from them. They were unique and very popular.

We never doctored much. We were fortunate to have very little sickness or serious injury. If we had colds or coughs, Mom would smear our chests with Vicks and wrap us up in rags. For stomach ache, she fed us milk toast, 7-Up and peppermint tea. Ear aches required warm cloths held to the ear. We didn't take much medication. I remember being in high school, seeing my friends take aspirin and realizing I'd never had one.

When we had measles and mumps, Mom made us beds on the couch and gave us lots of TLC. We used homemade Brown Grease on all our cuts, scrapes, blisters and slivers. When I sprained my ankle, she had me soak it in hot water and keep it elevated....then gave me a baseball bat to use as a crutch. Darrell was bothered with asthma and hay fever which he took shots for. When we were small, the doctor made house calls. Once, when Dad and Mom were in bed with the mumps, the doctor came and decided to give Darrell his asthma shot while he was there. The boys saw him getting his needle ready, but not knowing which of them was going to get it, all three went under the bed. The doctor started pulling them out by the legs until he got the right one. Another time, Mom discovered a whole package of chocolate-flavored laxative was missing from the medicine cabinet and the empty package was in the garbage. The doctor told her not to worry it wouldn't cause any harm and by the next day she would definitely know which of us ate it. I'm not mentioning any names, but sure enough, the next day we all knew. But we all got through with only the normal childhood illnesses, scrapes, bruises and black eyes.

The first time I remember Dad being laid up for any reason was about 1964 when he stepped on a rusty nail which went through his shoe. Although he had it looked at right away, it bothered him for quite awhile. Eventually he had exploratory surgery at Garrett Hospital. When he regained consciousness after the surgery, the doctor (who was a friend) told him there had been problems and they'd had to amputate the foot. I guess Dad didn't have his sense of humor in place that day as he changed doctors soon afterward. He had a few surgeries later in life but, basically, he enjoyed good health. He had cataract surgery and lens implants which gave him near 20-20 vision, gall bladder removal and an artery in his neck cleaned out. He was a quick healer and bounced back nicely. He never had any conditions which required continual doctoring or medication.

Mom had a few surgeries, too, but like Dad, always bounced back. She fell down stairs and broke her leg when I was a baby. The leg healed crooked and left her with a bump midway between the knee and ankle. When I was very young, she had a partial hysterectomy and, years later, surgery to complete it. She would have severe gall bladder attacks if she ate the wrong things, but learned which foods to avoid. Later in life, she had a knee replacement and cataract surgery which left her blind in one eye and with tunnel vision in the other. It never slowed her down. They had great trust in their doctors. If surgery was required, they didn't care to know much about it...before or after. They didn't ask any questions. Just wanted to get in, let them do what had to be done and get back home without a lot of fuss. Often they would be home from the hospital before their friends even knew they'd gone in. They always took good care of one another and followed the doctors directions for recovery to the letter. I noticed when Mom was ill, Dad usually got along just fine. But if Dad were ill, Mom usually didn't feel well either.

For years, they had a group of friends who square danced every Saturday night. They played cards (Canasta) with friends. It was during these card games that the bottle of Mogan David wine would occasionally come out of hiding. They mixed it with 7-Up. They belonged to the Grange. In the summertime we often went swimming at Pretty Lake or Crooked Lake. We belonged to the Cedar Lake Church of Christ which was a mile east of our home. Mom taught Sunday School and Bible School classes.

mind driving the girls around for about an hour or so...show them a little of the city before coming back. So off they went. But Dad was afraid of getting lost. So he began to circle the block...always keeping the hotel in sight. When the girls complained about being bored, he moved on to the next block and, again, circled. They never ventured further than a couple blocks away. When they returned, Harold took Dad to the train station, bought him a one-way ticket home, gave him enough money to buy a good meal in the dining car and left. Dad, thinking that was a lot of money to waste on one meal, bought himself a sandwich at the depot and put the rest in his pocket. He had enough left over to take Mom out on a date when he got home.

They had a good marriage which lasted nearly sixty years. I'm sure they had all the normal problems and adjustments, but any problems they had were dealt with privately. We never heard any arguments or raised voices. They were two very different personalities, yet shared a special relationship and lived in harmony with one another.....two halves to a whole. They enjoyed people and, in return, people enjoyed them. Both had a good sense of humor. I remember the last joke Dad told me mostly because it came at such a heart-wrenching time...we were sitting in a hospital waiting room shortly before we learned he had cancer. He said there was this young teenager who went to his father and said, "Dad, in a few months I'll be turning sixteen and I'll be needing a car." The father thought a few minutes, and finally said, "Well, son, I'll make you a deal. If you'll do three things, I'll see that you get a car. First, I want you to study a little harder and get your grades up. Second, it would please me if you'd read the Bible more. And third, get a hair cut!" The deal was made and on the boy's birthday, they again set down together and the boy told his dad he had done everything he was supposed to. The father said, "Well, let's just review it all. I did notice you've been studying harder and your grades are much improved. And I've been happy to see you reading the Bible every night before going to bed. That's all very good. But your hair's still hanging below your collar. Looks like you lose!" The son looked at his Dad and said, "Well, Dad, that's one thing I noticed while studying the Bible. You know Jesus, Mark, Luke, John, all those dudes had long hair!" The father replied, "Then, I guess you also noticed that every where Jesus and his friends went.....they walked!!"

They shared the same values...they were honest and fair, generous, sentimental, caring and dependable. Their word was as good as any legal document. They could be trusted with any confidence. Their affection for one another was very deep, very private and unshakable. As a farmer, Dad worked long hours outside. But whenever he came in, Mom would stop what she was doing and spend time with him. His chair set beside the register in the middle room and Mom would pull a chair up beside his. They'd talk and drink coffee. It was routine to see them stretched out on the couch together, taking a nap in the afternoon. Dad didn't watch much TV or play many games until after he'd retired.

They took a few vacations when we kids were small, but not many. The farm and a young family kept them pretty well tied down. But as the years went by, they traveled as often as they could. When they were first married, they visited the World's Fair in Chicago and Niagara Falls. In 1952, they traveled west with Bob and Dode Hamman. They usually went with Bob and Dode, or John and Edna King, and a few times with Dale and Percita Wright. They loved it. Dad kept a box of maps and literature by his chair and practically devoured them. He had an incredible memory of the places he'd traveled. If we mentioned a town anywhere, he could normally tell us the main highway running through it and all the area attractions. After they retired, they began to travel alone. I think this was the happiest time of their lives. They eventually visited 49 of the 50 states (all but Hawaii).

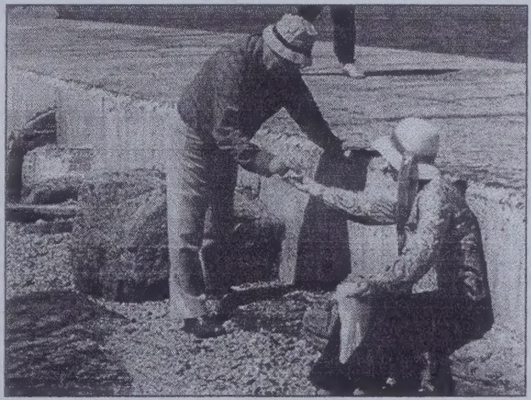
Their favorite area was the West. They liked to get off the main road and travel the countryside. They once came upon an Indian Rodeo and were surprised to find themselves the only two "white" people in the stadium. They were called down to the field and presented with a fruit basket. Another time as Dad was searching for the old homestead of an uncle in Montana, he was directed to a rural property but warned that the present owner was not friendly. When he got to the entrance to the lane, there was a gate and a pair of cowboy boots buried in the ground, heels up. A sign said, Here lies the last man who trespassed on this land. He decided not to pursue it any further. There is a photo taken of Dad, standing on a bluff overlooking a cattle drive. You can sense what he was thinking..."It doesn't get any better than this." And another photo of them picking up seashells on the beach. Their greatest joys seemed to come, not from material possessions, but from the simplest things. They signed on several bus tours which originated from Montana or Texas making many friends from those areas which they kept in contact with. They became acquainted with two widowed sisters, Amy and Hallie, from Montana and visited them several times over the years. On the last visit, the women gave Dad two small mountain ash trees which he brought home and planted in the yard. He named them Amy and Hallie. He babied them and watched them grow. One spring, he accidentally ran over Hallie with the lawn mower and mowed her off the ground. On a bus trip through Mexico, they met Don and Della Fowler from Aransas Pass, Texas. At the end of the trip, they rented an apartment from them and spent the winter. They shared an especially close relationship with the Fowlers and spent five winters with them. Mom had flown to Chicago a couple times in 1965 when she was taking the flower classes. But Dad's first and only airplane trip was about 1988 when he was 75 years old. He and Mom flew to Reno with Danny and Sharon. He enjoyed it and, watching the land below, was able to identify places he'd traveled by land.

Dad told me of the first experience he had traveling from home. In the early 1930s before Dad was married, a cousin, Harold Urey, came through with his wife and two little daughters on their way to Chicago. While visiting here in Indiana, the car broke down. Harold had to be in Chicago at a certain time, so left his family here and took the train on by himself. When the car was repaired, Dad drove Frieda and her daughters to Chicago. He'd hardly been outside the surrounding counties so was very intimidated by the big city. But, with Frieda's help, they found the hotel, she went in to be sure Harold was there and within a few minutes, Harold came out to the car. He asked Dad if he would

His work days were long and reading the newspaper was about all he accomplished once the day was over.

If I were to describe Dad in one word, it would be "gentle." It's hard to come up with just one word to describe Mom, but I think "feisty" comes closest, and I mean it with respect. She had an enthusiasm and spunkiness that made her unique and interesting. It's interesting to think back on how they could handle a problem so differently, yet end up with the same conclusion. Several memories come to mind....barn cats used to be very unwelcome visitors in our house as they had no manners and were usually up on the table or kitchen counter. I once saw Dad putting one out. He opened the back door and shooed it out saying, "Here you go, little kitty. Out you go." Another time, I was outside when the back door suddenly slammed open and a ball of yellow fur sailed across the yard. That was Mom putting the cat out!! Same situation....same result....just accomplished in their own unique way.

The boys tell a story of when they were young and got into a fight. They had switches from the willow tree and were chasing around the barn yard whipping one another. When Dad heard the commotion, he came out of the milkhouse, sat down on a stump and watched.....when it was over he got up and went back to work......never said a word. He knew the pain from the welts they were leaving on one another would be a lesson remembered far longer and better than any lecture he could deliver. We all agree, if Mom had known what was going on, she would have been right in the middle of it with a switch of her own. Recently, a friend of theirs was describing them to me. He said he thought of Dad as the type of person who'd think twice before tossing a pebble into the creek because he'd hate to disturb the water. He said Mom was more the type to drop a boulder and hope for a tidal wave! I think he's right.



Only once during their fifty-nine plus years of marriage were they separated and unable to see each other daily. That was in 1965 when Mom took the three-week flower arranging course in Chicago. After Dad passed away and Mom was in the nursing home, we were packing their belongings for storage and found a packet of "love letters". All were written by Dad, some in 1932 and 1933 before they were married and some in 1965 when Mom was in Chicago. She'd kept them all these years in her dresser drawer with her best jewelery. The four of us who were there that day read them. But they were very personal and we knew Dad wouldn't want them passed around or kept as keepsakes. So we put them away. When she passed away a few months later, we bundled them up in ribbons and a rose and placed them in her casket so she could take them with her.

After retiring, Dad became a good help around the house and they eased into a compatible retired life together. After years of Dad working long, hard hours on the farm and Mom being responsible for keeping the household running, they began to do everything together. He helped with the shopping, cleaning, cooking (Stove Top Stuffing was his specialty) and laundry. They played two-handed cards or dominoes nearly every night. If Mom was busy quilting or writing letters, Dad would play Solitaire. They were very active with the local Senior Centers in Auburn, Butler and Kendallville. Dad was President of a couple card clubs and they had several groups of friends who played cards in their homes. They were busy every day. Dad enjoyed watching wrestling on TV and liked to slip into Auburn in the forenoon and play pool with the "boys". One of the "boys" was Lloyd Myers who was over twenty years older than Dad (he's now 105!), and Dad especially got a kick out of the fact that Lloyd usually beat him. They both liked the game shows on TV especially Family Feud and Wheel of Fortune. On Friday nights, they'd crawl into bed to watch Dallas.

They were wonderful grandparents.....the "hands on" type that didn't hesitate to get down on the floor to play or squeeze into a chair to read stories. They enjoyed having the kids stay with them so I'm sure they could all write their own good memories of times spent with their grandparents. They thought of their great-grandchildren as a special treat and enjoyed spending time with them too. After retiring, Mom liked to piece quilt tops in her spare time. She made several, one she put in a frame and quilted by herself while recovering from knee replacement surgery. It was the only one she completely finished off by herself. Another top was quilted by the Ladies Aid of the church. She wanted to make enough tops so each of her grandchildren would have a quilt. At the time of her death, she had succeeded in piecing together enough. We had the Amish ladies finish them off and, now, each of her seven grandchildren have one of the quilts she created. Special heirlooms!

Dad wasn't ready to move from the farm into Auburn, but Mom was and I'm really glad he did it for her. She had always dreamed of a new home. The duplex they leased was brand new and, for the first time, they had air-conditioning and a dishwasher. Unfortunately it was about this time their health began to fail and neither was to feel well again after the move. Dad had a reaction to the fumes from the new carpet in the duplex and had flu-like symptoms for quite some time before the cause was found. Mom had developed a skin eruption a few years earlier. She had red welts over her body which itched like crazy and she doctored in Indiana and Texas trying to control them. She was put on a medication which seemed to help but which eventually caused us major problems.

Looking back, I realize Mom had been changing. She hadn't been herself since she developed the "itch", but the changes were gradual and not alarming. She was losing weight, but they were watching their diet and Dad was losing too. By December, 1992, she weighed less than 100 pounds and was still losing. Then we realized something was wrong. The only medication she was taking was the "itch medication." We found out it was a medication with numerous side effect. She had been experiencing most of them but tried to hide them for fear she'd be taken off and the itch would come back. She'd always had a low tolerance of medication and required only a partial dose. So it was determined that, not only was she getting too high a dosage, but as her condition worsened she was unintentionally overdosing. The doctors started phasing her down off of it.

NEW YEARS EVE...I had been with them in the morning and they seemed fine. That evening, about 6 o'clock, Mom called David and told him she was too frightened of Dad to stay alone with him any longer. Being in Chicago, he couldn't do anything about it, so he called me. When Darrell and I got there, Dad was in bed asleep and Mom proceeded to tell us how ugly he'd been to her the previous year. We were astounded as we'd seen no difference in Dad but, other than the unbelievable stories she was telling us, she seemed normal too. The doctor thought she might be hallucinating from the medication. She was later put in the hospital and fed intravenously while they took her totally off the medication. But the mental condition continued to get worse. She became very paranoid and hostile....mainly toward Dad. Every imaginable test was run to determine a cause, but the tests were normal. The doctors diagnosed Alzheimer's, but as time went by we saw none of the usual symptoms. We will always believe the medication caused the damage to her brain. Her personality change seemed sudden and very unbelievable. She truly thought Dad had beaten up on her on New Year's Eve and left her bruised and swollen. She claimed she'd had lumps on her head where he'd hit her with cans of pineapple and her nose was red and swollen. She believed he'd been poisoning her food.....that's why she'd lost so much weight. She would nap during the day, but couldn't sleep at night for fear he'd kill her in her sleep. I stayed with them the first week and, at first, she ate what I fixed her and would sleep if she thought I was awake and watchful. But I made the mistake of trying to convince her Dad would never harm her. From then on she seemed to think I was in on it with him and stopped eating again. The doctors advised us to place her in a nursing home where she'd feel safe. The decision was Dads. After a hospital stay for tests, Dad asked if she'd mind staying at Betz Home for awhile to recuperate and she agreed. Our hope was that once the medication was totally out of her system and she'd regained some weight and strength, she could come back home. But she only got worse.....

At first, Dad would go to the home every day and take her out to lunch and then back to the duplex where she'd usually sew or take a nap. Then he'd take her back to Betz before supper. She was angry, verbally abusive and hostile. He tried to cope, but it was difficult for both of them. She became obsessive......buying quantities of things on their trips to Wal Mart. She bought clothing and huge quantities of cloth which she later threw in the garbage and claimed was stolen. She bought two dozen flower pots and bags of candy even though she was diabetic. If he tried to reason with her, she got so angry and disruptive she'd cause a scene, so he went along with her unusual purchases. He tried to avoid taking her into stores if he could. Eventually, he had to avoid restaurants as well as she'd be loud and rude to the waitresses. She would have hated how she was acting....it was so unlike her. Eventually, the nursing home and doctor asked him not to take her out anymore as it was too disruptive for her. This made her really angry but it did seem to help. She seemed calm enough around her caregivers and other visitors. But when Dad visited it seemed to rile her up. It was really hard on Dad....he cried every day he left her and never got to the point where he could discuss her condition without choking up. He had to cut back on the number of visits and, eventually, could only visit if one of us was with him as she accepted him better when others were around.

It was a horrible time for them. It's hard to believe she could change so drastically. They went from a very close, loving relationship to feelings of anger, fear, frustration and confusion. Before, they were so close, emotionally and physically.....when they walked they held hands....when they sat beside one another, they were touching in some way. Then, suddenly, they were sitting on opposite side of the room, each afraid of the other in different ways. Dad said it was worse to deal with than death. At least with death you can grieve and learn to go on. He mourned the loss of his high school sweetheart and wife of fifty-nine years although she was still very much a part of his life. Mom didn't feel any loss...she didn't have any feelings other than anger and fear. Her feelings of affection were gone with the part of her brain that was damaged. Even when Dad later died, she didn't mourn for him. I guess we should consider it a blessing that her mind spared her from that suffering.

Dad tried to go on, but it was too difficult for him. Everywhere he went people were concerned and he couldn't handle it. He stopped going to the Senior Centers and resigned from the card clubs. When he was able, he would slip into Church services at Auburn where he didn't know many people. In July, 1993, he became ill with what the doctor thought was an ulcer. Tests revealed a tumor in the small intestine. On August 13, he had surgery...it was a malignancy which had spread throughout the abdomen. He was able to come home for a couple days but returned to the hospital where they were able to keep him comfortable. He didn't want to see Mom while in the hospital. He didn't have the physical or emotional strength to be strong for her and he didn't want her to see him in such a weak condition. But on August 29th after he had lapsed into a coma, we brought her in to see him. We didn't know how she would react.....

She didn't touch him, but stood by his bed and talked to him. For a short time, she seemed to be normal. She told him she was so sorry it had to end like this. She said, "We always knew, sooner or later, one of us would be the first to go. I just never dreamed it would be you." She talked about the good life they'd had together, their travels and the family. She said it was too bad they wouldn't see their sixtieth anniversary together, but she'd think of him and she'd soon be with him again. And, at some point as she was talking, we saw Dad slowly lift his right hand from the bed and reach across his body toward her. She put her left hand in his and said, "I'm still wearing my wedding ring. Do you feel it?" Then she said, "I love you, Roy!" And we saw his lips move...no sound came out...but we saw him say, "I love you."...and a tear fell from his left eye and hit the pillow. They were his last words. He died the next day with Mom again by his side. I'm so thankful she returned to him for those last few minutes and was able to say the words I know he was longing to hear. And it was really special to watch him reach up from the depth of his coma to respond and let us know he was listening. Before falling into the coma, he had experienced a period of great joy. He passed away very gently and quietly with no fear or regret.

Mom began to fail quickly after Dad's death. She suffered a stroke and eventually fell, breaking her hip. She was left in such a weakened condition, she could no longer sit up, feed herself or turn herself over in bed. She passed away in her sleep eight months after Dad. She had lived a good long life with all the gusto she had and her little body was totally worn out. I take comfort in knowing Dad's heart in no longer broken and Mom is no longer struggling within her damaged mind. They're back together.

In sorting through some old letters recently, I found this one Mom had written to my children in 1982. It reads, in part:

> Dear Mike and Missy,
>
> Spring has sprung, isn't that good? This morning Grandpa brought in an armful of pussywillows. They are out a bit more each day............

Enclosed with the letter was this poem which was written in Mom's handwriting:

Spring came today with lightly dancing footsteps
Across the sleeping bosom of the world;
She smiled above my waiting crocus
And they arose, with banners bright unfurled.

Music had heralded her coming -
Wild geese with their ancient tribal song -
A robin trilled bravely from bare branches
And raucus swampland voices, silenced long.

Now once again has spring paused here to greet me,
With all her old familiar welcome charms;
The one I love stands in my open doorway
With muddy boots, and pussywillows in his arms!

I believe when Mom reached the gates to Heaven, Dad was standing there waiting for her....with a grin on his face.......and an arm full of pussywillows..........

Burnside Barracks
Dear wife and children and friends generally
I take my pen to write you another letter to let you know that I have not forgotten you Amid the confusion by which I am surrounded My dear ones my thoughts are constantly upon those I left at home and I have looked anxiously for a letter from you for the last ten days but Ihave not received any yet but hope I may get one tomarrow.

I am well except a hard cold which I took a week ago last Saturday when it snowed all day and we had to sleep on the ground but we have been comfortable at Burnside Barracks where we have good houses with floors and stoves and comfortable places to Sleep we expect to winter here although there is some talk of sending us down to Madison on the Ohio river but that is all guess work I think.

Yesterday was Sunday and it was the first day we spent in the place and I will try to tell you how it was spent at 6 oclock we was awakened by canon and then had 15 minutes to dress and wash and get ready for roll call and after that we had breakfast an than drill an hour and then the rest of the day was spent in all manner of imployment but the majority of the men enagaged in playing cards. I spent my time reading my testament in which I find great comfort and consolation; we have a man in our company that is a Disciple preacher that is a smart intelligent man; on Saturday after noon I witnessed a sight that was a sight indeed it was the practise of a Battery of artillery it was a spendid performace to day I saw about 6000 men parade on about 50 acres of ground they made a grand appearance we are encamped about two miles from the city of Indianapolis and in plain Sight of Camp Morton where there is about 8000 men encamped most of them paroleed prisoners; while in camp Sullivan there was three men shot in trying to break guard. They were drafted men one of them was shot with two balls in the breast and died the next morning the other was alive the last I heard of them there was two recruiting officers got into a fight the other Friday and one of them Struck the other with a knife in four places and let his guts out the last time he Struck him. the drafted men that did not volunteer is still in Camp Sullivan and I would rather be in a penitentary than there we have better fare and more of it and are comfortably situated, George Cassleman and Charles Triplett have gone into a company of artillery and ~~Hugh~~ ~~Tim~~ Sunenlaw went with them John Brand Aaron? ~~Aron~~ Grice and Jacob Shoemaker have gone to calavry Camer? Casner and Fail are well / when you write ~~to~~ tell me whether you got the money from Mc Asker? Casker if you did after you have paid out what you have try and get the rest of it changed into United States money But I have not time to write more I will send Copy verbatum on this form the information you find in the various records or books as you do your research. (You will find differences in records.) Make a separate sheet for each search or each name or family on your line found in a search. Then, after information has been extracted from all sources, you may easily make comparisons of statements, judge value of each, and record correct data on a permanent form such as A1, F1, F3 or F6. See The Sixth Edition THE HOW BOOK FOR GENEALOGISTS for additional suggestions regarding the use of this sheet.

Anna Mae Putt

KENDALLVILLE — Anna Mae Putt, 78, of Route 4, Kendallville, died at 7:10 a.m. Thursday in Parkview Memorial Hospital, Fort Wayne.

She was born in Fort Wayne May 18, 1911, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean. On Feb. 17, 1932 in Hillsdale, Mich., she married Roscoe Putt, who survives.

Surviving are two daughters, Roxanne Melot of Wittman, Ariz., and Martha Mieras of Phoenix, Ariz.; a sister, Edna Schuckel of New Haven; two grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Two sisters and one brother preceded her in death.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in Hite Funeral Home, Kendallville, with Rev. Jerry Rittenhouse officiating. Burial will be in Lake View Cemetery.

Visitation is from noon until services on Saturday at the funeral home.

Year's second county traffic fatality marked

ALBION — Anna Mae Putt's death on Thursday was the second fatality in 1989 to result from an accident on a Noble County roadway, according to the Noble County Sheriff's Department.

Putt, 78, Route 4, Kendallville, died from injuries sustained in a May 17 accident at the intersection of C.R. 1000E and U.S. 6.

She was a front seat passenger in a car driven by her husband, Roscoe Putt, 78, when he attempted to cross U.S. 6 and was struck by a car driven by David Heltzel, 19, Route 3, Kendallville.

Heltzel and Roscoe Putt were treated at McCray Memorial Hospital for head injuries and released.

Services for Anna Mae Putt are at 2 p.m. today in Hite Funeral Home, with visitation there from noon until the start of the service. Burial is in Lake View Cemetery.

Dear Mrs. DeVoe:

I am researching the PUTT name. Someone gave me your address saying you might also have a Jacob Putt in your family.

I have enclosed a chart. As you can see, I've only just begun my search and don't have many details. Are we connected?

Enclosed is a SASE for any information you have on PUTT. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Monica Putt

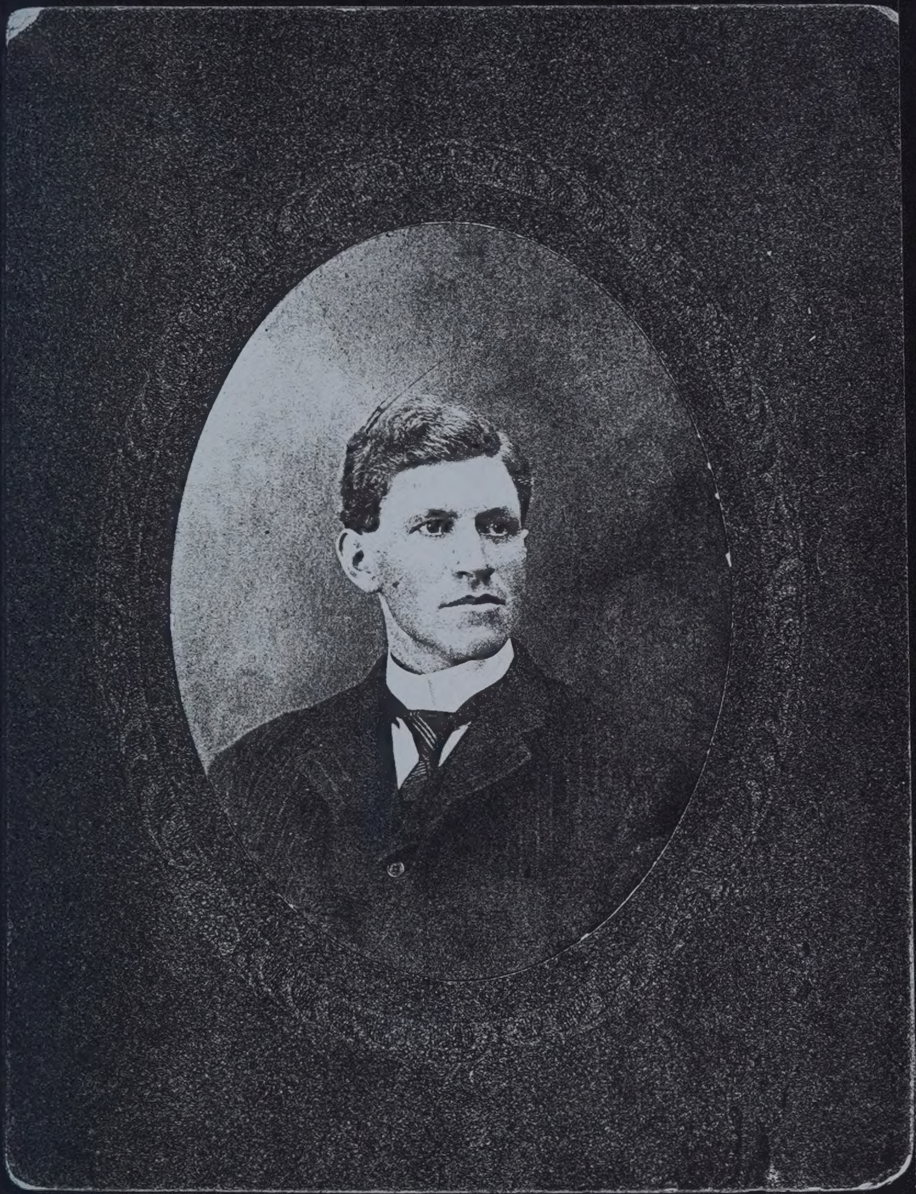
Cridersville OH 45806



Someone living in Hudson could recognize the house. Also I will try copying some of the old photo's I have.

I have the Brugh + Putt genealogies that I may do more work on. If I have anything you would like to copy you are welcome.

Jennie Phillips has copied ~~of~~ all our family lines and I gave her the Shatto-Shade and McBride notebooks. Harold + Paul Reinoehl's wifes go back on the Shade to the American Rev. when the Shatto-Shade married.

I gave Kathy my DAR book - full of photos and information. I also gave her Stanton and Longyear on her fathers side.

I kept the Brugh, Anstett, Putt and some others.

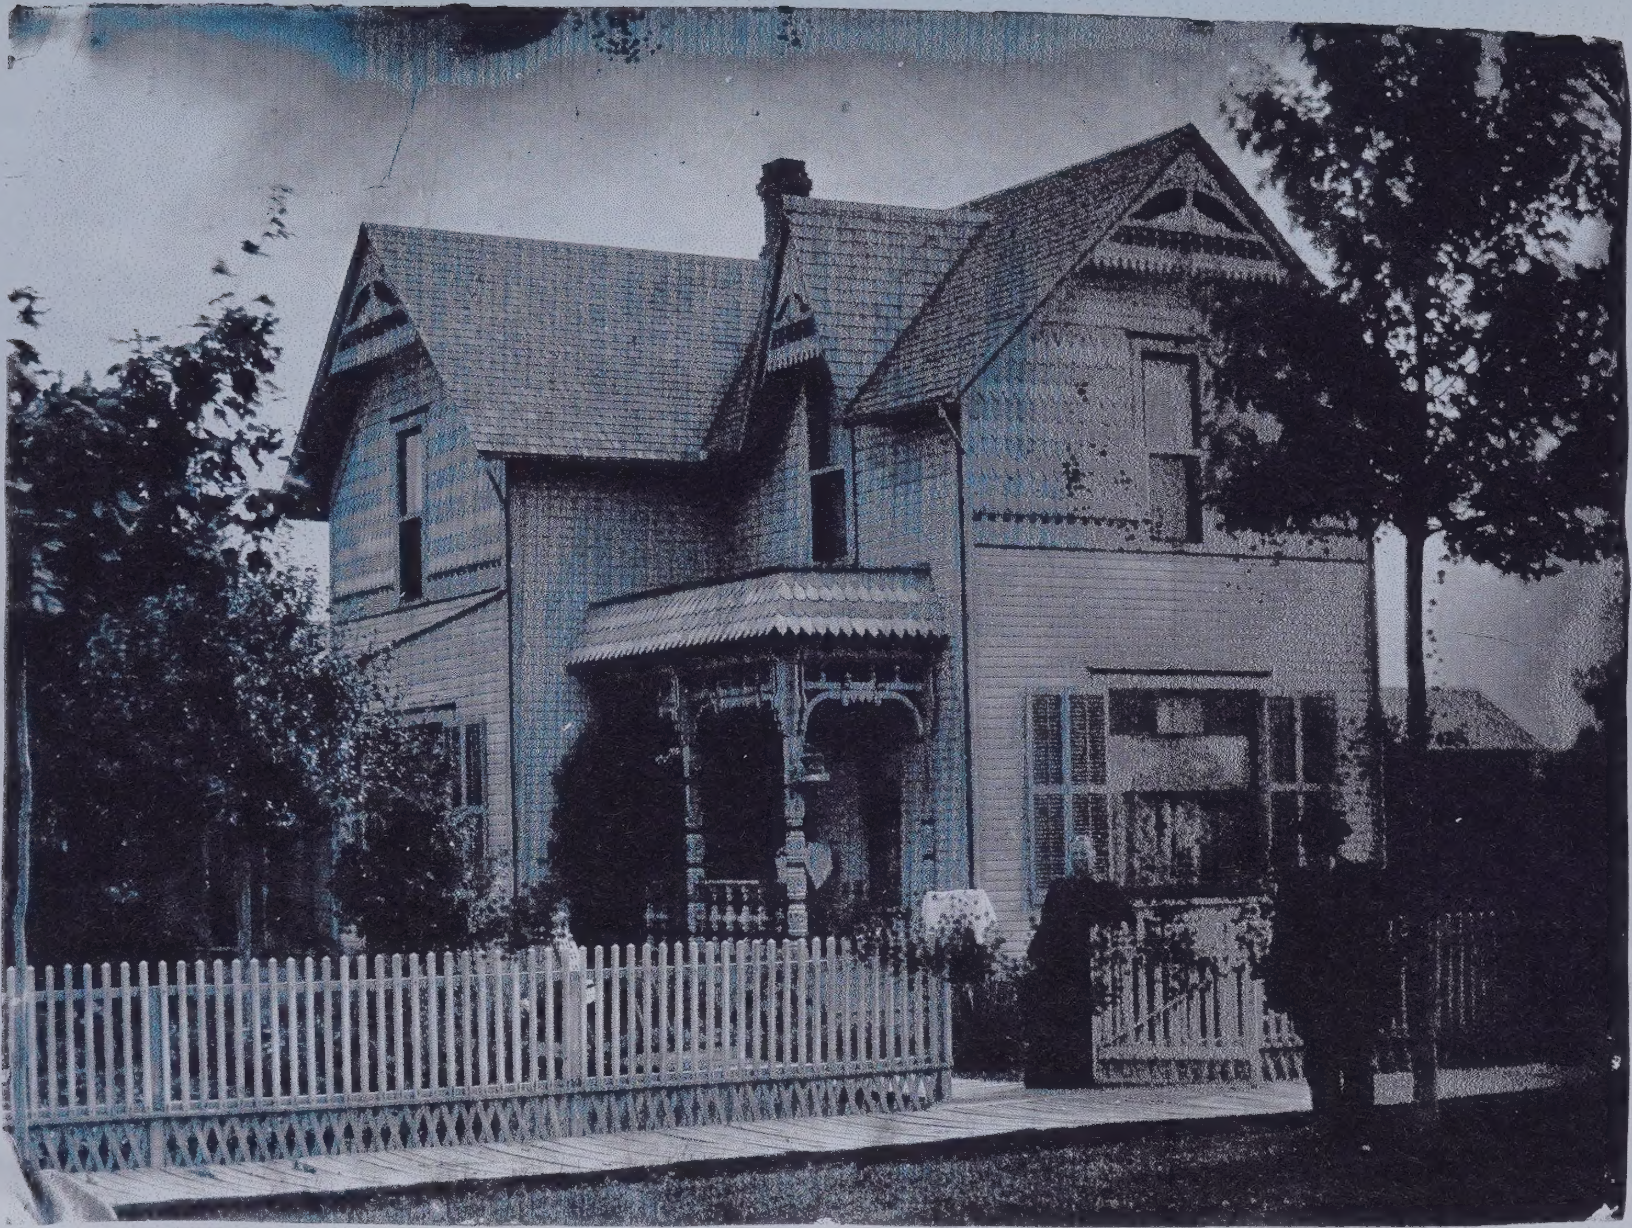
If you would like to work on the Putt. I have the Ft. Wayne Putts and think there is a connection to the DeKalb Ind. Putts. "Jacob came to Pa when he was 14 years old". Who was his father and is he related to the Ft. Wayne Putts by his father?

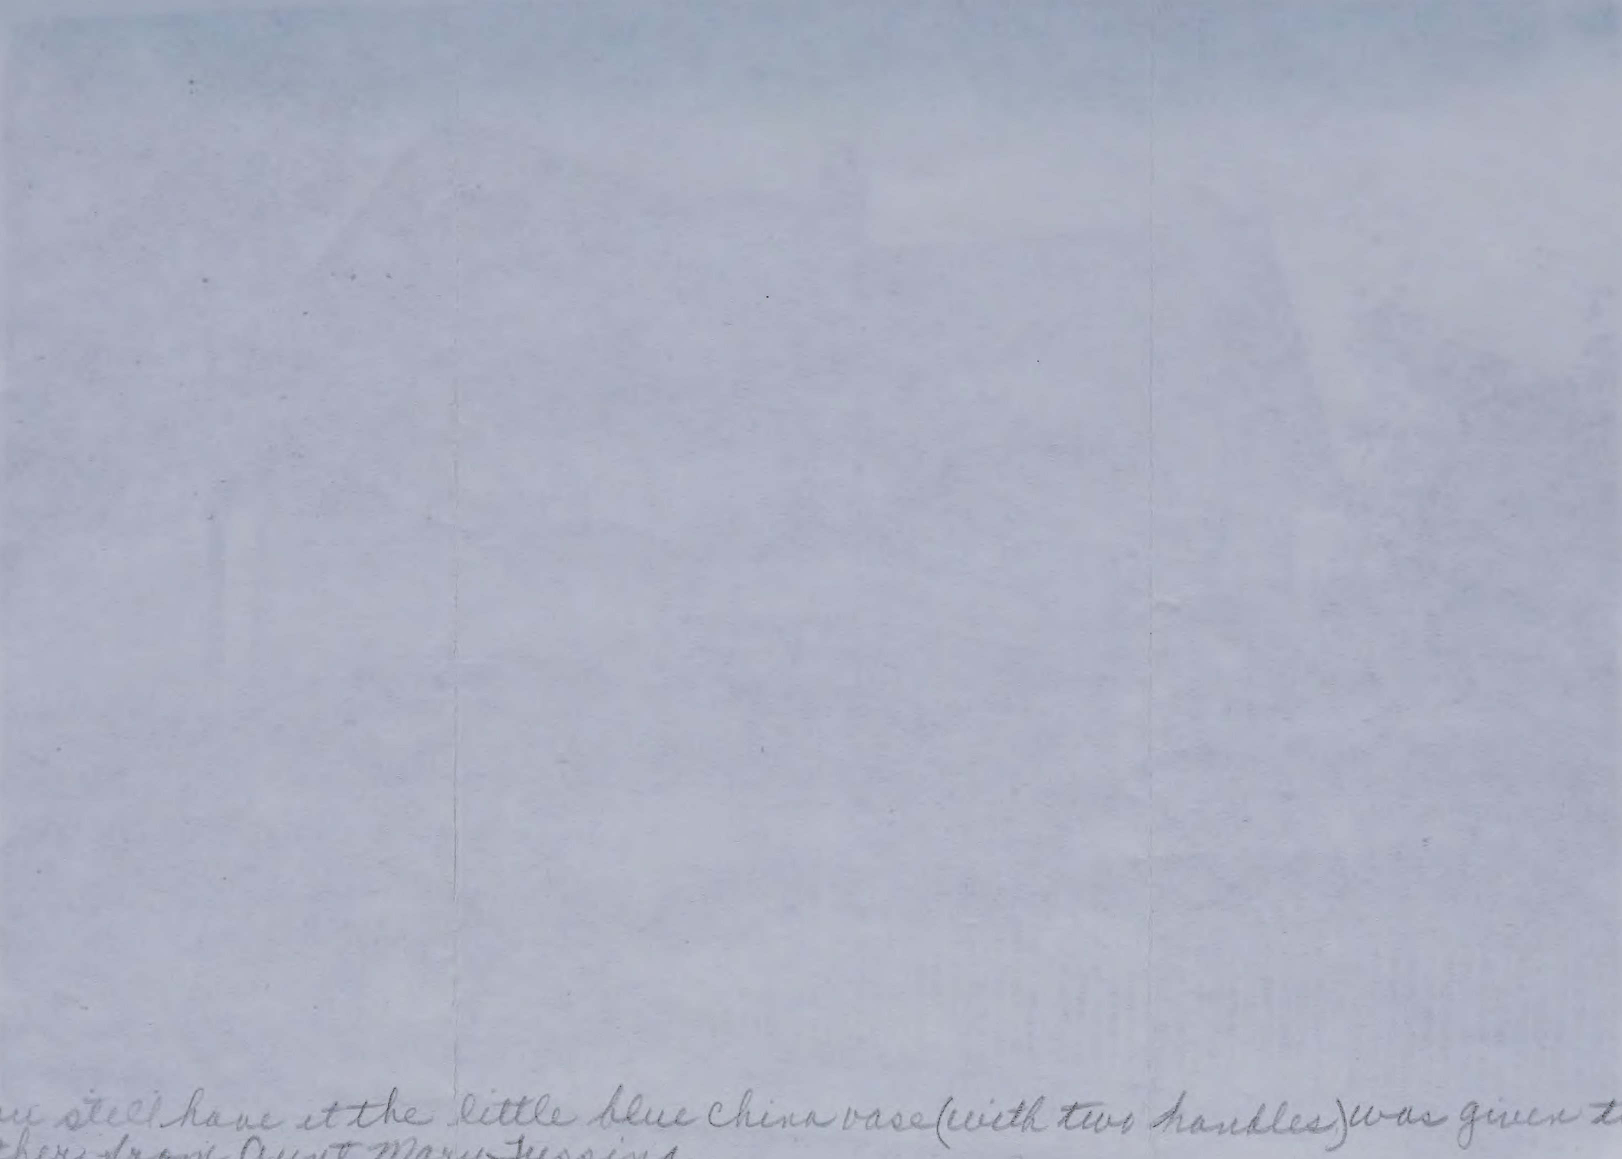
After a lot of work I found George Brughs (b. 1814) father. His name was Michael and he and all of Georges brothers settled in Fulton Co Ind. I have some clues on the family.

You may find more on this family with your Computer.

Much love, Aunt Lurah

Geo Burns dau
Alice's house





If you still have it the little blue china vase (with two handles) was given to your mother from Aunt Mary Tussing.

This could be home of Mary Brugh da of George b. 1814 & Catherin Clemmons
She married Rev. Abe Tussing - they lived in Ohio - Retired in Hudson, Ind.
Mary would be a sister to William Brugh your gr. grandfather

PUTT AND SHIPE SCHOOL

A One Room Schoolhouse

There was a Putt one room schoolhouse on the corner across the road from the Reinoehl farm. This is where Frank Putt attended school. Maude, his wife, attended school in Oviatt, Michigan. When Frank's children were ready for school, there weren't enough children in the area to keep the schoolhouse open so they were transferred to Shipe School.

Shipe School was a brick, one-room schoolhouse with an entry hall. This entry had shelves for dinner pails and hooks on the wall to hang our coats and caps. Our winter boots were placed on the floor under our coats.

There was a closet with a door that could be locked and this is where the ballot box for voting was kept. There were shelves for sports equipment, baseballs and basketball. All cleaning equipment was stored in this closet.

The girls used one side of the hall and the boys the opposite. The boys' side had an alcove where a pottery water cooler with a faucet was kept. We had our own marked tin cups for drinking. Also in this alcove was a bench with washpan, soap and towel, pails for carrying water from the adjoining farm and a pail for waste water. The boy's side had shelves for dinner pails and the same hooks for clothing.

In the center of the hall was the bell with a rope hanging down. This bell was used in the morning, and at recesses. We all had our turn "ringing the bell."

The main school room had a wood and coal heating stove in the center of the room. Wood was stacked outside in the corner of the schoolhouse and a load or two of coal on the ground. This was carried in by the students.

There were rows of desks on each side of the stove. These desks were large enough for two children to sit. In front of the desks, facing the teacher, was a "recitation seat" which was a long-backed seat similar to a church pew. The teacher's desk and chair were in front of this. Back of this desk was a wall covered with a slate blackboard with a ledge for chalk and erasers. Above this blackboard was the clock, the flag and framed photos of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

At one end of the front wall there was a large map-case with pull-down maps, a hanging oil lamp, a large dictionary and stand, an encyclopedia and a phonograph.

To begin the school day, we had "morning exercises". These activities varied. We did exercises, marched to Sousa records, or the teacher would read a book to us.

One of my teachers put up a basketball hoop and by pushing his desk back, we could play basketball. In winter we brought our sleds to school and back of the schoolhouse was a hill to slide down and curve down around some maple trees. Some noon hours we went to a pond and ice-skated. Our noon hour was extended for this.

We had a good library, well stocked with books and I remember reading Zane Grey and Gene Stratton Porter books. There was a special fund for books and art materials. This fund was from the Halloween Socials put on by the parents. The social had different booths where candy, popcorn, fishing for prizes and various other things. A box supper was held after this, then couples danced in a circle around the stove. We also had Christmas programs well attended by the parents.

Our last day of school in the spring was one of my favorite times. We went to Krueger's woods and had a wiener and marshmallow roast. Our teacher would give us a memento, a little booklet with the students' names in it.

The floor of the school was worn hardwood, bare wood, and was oiled to keep the dust down. One board had a knot-hole in it and the boys could stand above it and see if they could drop pennies through it. In later years, when the small schools were consolidated, Shipe School students were bussed to Fairfield Center School. Shipe School was torn down and the land reverted to the original land owner. Students all rode on a bus.

When I attended school there as a transfer from Putt School, I rode in a horse drawn hack. The seats were along each side and there was a small coal furnace about the size of a large box in the center aisle to keep us warm when it was cold. Some years we rode in a car.

I think I had a good grade school education and don't feel that I was underprivileged. We had time for games and fun along with learning and live wasn't so rushed.

Grandma's House

Grandmas house was a fascinating place to my brother Allen and myself. As children we would often ride on a wagon with our father who farmed the farm. We would go in the house to see Grandma. Sometimes we walked accross fields our short-cut or rode a bike on the road. Grandma's house was back a lane from the road.

Her house larger than ours with a family of five seemed big to us. She had a summer kitchen with a cool cement floor, an oil stove and a wash stand. I have her wash stand to-day. It is full of nails. When the boards warped they nailed it down.

She had a room she used as a combination living and kitchen. This had a quaint wood burning stove that she could cook on as well as heat the room. Also in the room was a square oak table, straight chairs and two rocking chairs. On the walls were a calendar a combination mirror and comb case and the center of our attention the clock. This clock is in the possession of her grandson Allen to-day. We learned to "tell time" with this clock. Our mother would tell us to start for home when the little hand was on 3 and the big hand on 6.

Off the kitchen area was a pantry that had cubboards on each side ceiling to floor. One of the cubboards had glass doors and was full of rose color patterned china and a set of "tea-leaf" china.

The cupboard on the opposite wall had one thing that interested us and that was a candy jar. Grandma always gave us a piece of candy each time we came.

There was parlor off the kitchen that was used for special company. We were allowed to tip-toe into this room but not to touch things. This room was furnished with a walnut pump organ with little shelves to hold photos. The most interesting thing to us was the Edison phonograph with a blue morning-glory horn. One day during our visit grandma played the cylinder records for us on the phonograph. It was magic. We didnt have anything as fine at our house. There was a small bedroom with a bed and chest of drawers. One time she let us peek at a room upstairs. It was furnished with a bed and chest of drawers I never did see her cellar.

Grandma was a small woman. She wore her straight hair parted in the middle and done up in a knot. She wore long dresses all the same style and sensible shoes. She had a "dutchy" accent and I have probably picked up all the dutchy expressions I use from her.

One day we ask grandma if she wished she had married again. She answered "Yes, its a long time to live alone."

Grandma was the youngest child in the Anstett family and the time I can remember she didnt have any living sisters or brothers

Each year there was an Anstett reunion. My parents were responsible to see Grandma was there. Grandma would sit in a chair on the lawn and all the relatives would greet her. She was "Queen For A Day" They called her Aunt Harriett. I couldn't understand all the fuss over grandma.

As Allen and I grew older there were family problems and we weren't allowed to go to Grandma's anymore

When she died in 1940 I was married and recovering from surgery. I went to her funeral and sit with a lump in my throat and thought how things could have been different

My Aunt Sarah Doty was too ill to go to her mothers funeral. The next day she hired a truck and stole all of the beautiful antiques from the house and sold them. The farm had to be sold to settle the estate. Two farmers bid on the farm and John Brand had the highest bid so he got the farm.

John tore down the house and barn and to-day there is no indication of where Grandma's lane, house or barn stood.

PUTT, GEORGE

George Washington Putt

George Washington Putt was born 19 Nov. 1814 Berks Co. Pa. His parents Jacob Putt and Catherine Shaffer

George was a teamster and probably hauled iron ore for the Robesonion Iron Co. in Berks Co. Pa. Legend is that he drove Conestoga Wagons and helped people moving from Pa. to Ind + Ohio In 1835 he settled in Lebanon Co. Pa. He married Sarah Ann Getz 15 Nov. 1935

In 1841 he moved to Stark Co. Ohio (Did he go there first because John W. Putt, Ft. Wayne line lived there?) Eleven months later in 1842 he came to Fairfield Twp., DeKalb Co. Ind. and "entered" 40 acres of land that was dense timber. He then bought 40A more and cleared land and built a log cabin, then bought 40 more. 120 acres in all. The Putt schoolhouse was built on his land. This was located accross the road from the John Reinoehl farm. Paul Reinoehl's son built a home on the old site 1989 or 1990.

The Frank Putt home where he raised his family was part of this acreage as was the Mose Stomn property and Noah Erwin property It is beleived that the Erwin house is part of George Putts orginal house - log cabin?

George and his wife Sarah Ann were member of the St. John Reformed Church, Hudson, Ind. They lived the remainder of their lives in DeKalb Co. Ind.

Levi Putt -1-

Levi Putt son of George Putt was born 24 June 1840 Lebanon Co. Pa. He was a teamster like his father and also a farmer.

During the civil war his brother-in-law a Doty came home with a crippled arm after serving in the army. Levi said he wasn't taking a chance on that happening to him. He went west and helped families over the mountains to California. He was paid in gold coin for this service. Levi didn't beleive in banks and buried his money. He buried money to bury him in his cellar and buried the gold somewhere on the farm. It was never found.

Levi inherited land from his father George and gave each of his living children land.

The 40 acres where his son Frank lived was given to him. This is where Frank built his house and barn and raised his children. There was some acreage on this farm that hadn't been tilled. Frank cleared this land and it was refered to as "the new ground."

An Anstett family lived accross the road from the Putts. They had a daughter Caroline Anstett who Levi made know his wish to marry. Caroline didn't want to marry him so she fled to New York to live with an aunt. This made Levi angry so he said Harriett Anstett had to marry him.

PUTT, LEVI
B 24 JUNE 1840
D. 18 AUG. 1914

Levi was a stern man. He didnt beleive in wasting money on Christmas gifts for their children. Harriett would buy gifts and hide them. Levi would hunt untill he found them and get very angry. In his last years he was confined to a wheel chair after suffering a stroke.

Caroline Anstett who fled to New York to live with her Aunt Catherine met and married David Irish. In 1870 they were living in Steuben Co. Ind. and they are buried at the Steuben-DeKalb County Line Cemetery. They had 4 children Elizabeth b. 1869, Elnora b. 1870 and twin girls Ella + Etta b-1874. Caroline died in 1876 at 32 years.

Levi died at 74 years. He was a pioneer and helped his father clear land that was a wilderness when he came to Ind.

He is buried in Circle Cem.
Hudson, Indiana.

Here is the 1996 version of THE PUTT FAMILY by Lurah Putt Devoe, which I have taken from THE PUTT FAMILY AND ALLIED FAMILIES by Jennie King Phillips:

MY PARENTS

Frank Putt was born August 24, 1869, in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. He was the son of Levi Putt and Harriett Anstett. He was raised on the farm and attended grade school at the Putt schoolhouse on what is now (1996) the Reinoehl farm. He didn't have an opportunity for further schooling but tried to go to Tri-State College in Angola, Indiana. He didn't have high school so failed in his attempt to become a teacher. He was needed on the farm and this is what he did the remainder of his working years. He was an avid reader and we had three newspapers, many magazines and books at home.

Maude Brugh was born in Hudson, Steuben County, Indiana, on September 22, 1882. Because of her father's health, her parents moved to Oviatt, Michigan, near Traverse City. When Maude was eighteen years old, she visited her grandmother, Rachel S. Shatto (McBride) Harmes, who lived in the Cedar Lake area of Smithfield Township, DeKalb County. She attended the Cedar Lake Church of Christ and was baptized there, May 5, 1901. She became friends with Lurah Armstrong, and they were baptized the same day. This is where my name, Lurah, came from. I was named after her.

When Maude's sister, Nellie, was planning to marry, her fiancee died and Nellie was heartbroken. Her mother, Emma, sent her to visit Grandma Harmes hoping she could cheer her up. This was when Nellie met Purd High and came to Indiana to live. My mother visited Aunt Nellie and Purd. That's how she met my dad. It was probably in the Church of the Brethren where the Highs were members. Later, Frank visited Maude in Michigan and they were engaged.

Maude, my mother, came by train to Indiana and they were married at the High home, December 28, 1904. They started housekeeping in the house they lived in during their married life. My mother told me the buildings and house and barn were ready to live in when the married. Dad did most of the work on the buildings.

Much of my parent's life was made unhappy by too much family interference from my Aunt Sadie Putt Doty. My mother begged Dad to move to Canada to get away from it. When my Grandfather Putt heard this, he deeded the farm of forty acres to them. My parents lived through World War I when Allen and I almost died from the flu that was prevalent at that time along with whooping cough, and World War II when Allen was in the Navy and Dwight moved to Illinois to work at Scott Field, a military airfield. They managed to live through the depression of the 30s because of their hard work to provide for their family. I am forever grateful to them.

THE CHILDREN

There was a birth before Dwight . . .a sister. She was never talked about.

Dwight L. Putt was born March 19, 1908. He was nine years older than me so I don't remember a lot. He always seemed grown up. He went to Ship School as we all did, then to Ashley High School. Instead of a middle name, he had the middle initial "L". We used to tease him by making up "L" names, the more ridiculous the better. Dwight was very good looking and intellectual. He went on to college and prepared for a teaching career. He was also good at mechanics and could tear car motors down and put them back together again. He majored in mathematics and science. His close friends were Willis "Bill" Reinoehl and Willis "Bill Brand. They wre in our home often. Bill Reinoehl went into teaching and Bill Brand, who had a beautiful voice, became an evangelist. Dwight met Rachel through Naomi. They were in the same class in school. Rachel was the new girl in town and beautiful. They were married December 31, 1931. They had five girls, Lorna Lee, Jo Ellen, Peggy Ann and Mary Elizabeth. Rachel and Dwight lived the rest of their lives in Illinois near East St. Louis.

Naomi Brugh Putt was born December 18, 1910. She had a difficult birth and was declared dead. My mother wouldn't give up and kept breathing into her mouth until she started breathing. This is something she probably learned from her mother, Emma Brugh. I didn't know until a few years ago that Grandma Brugh was a midwife. Naomi grew up to be a beautiful girl. She had blond, curly hair and blue eyes. She attended Ship School and Ashley High School. I can't recall all her girl friends but they visited in our home. When she graduated from high school, a representative of a beauty school in Ft. Wayne came to our home and tried to recruit her. Naomi had money in the bank but it would take it all so she refused. This was the beginning of the depression. The bank failed and she lost her money. Raymond Rensch was in college with Dwight and became a teacher the same as Dwight. They had one-room schools in the same area. Dwight introduced Raymond to Naomi. They eloped to Angola, Indiana, and were married September 2, 1932, by Rev. Rose. They had a daughter, Carolyn Elouise, born November 4, 1933. They lived in Hudson, Steuben County (in town). They moved to DeKalb County and lived there until Carolyn was through high school. They purchased a farm near Butler, Indiana. Raymond had retired from school teaching and went into full-time farming. They lived on this farm until Raymond retired. They them moved to Angola, Indiana, near their daughter.

Pauline Harriett Putt was born July 11, 1913. Pauline went to the same schools, Shipe and Ashley High. She was full of high spirits and fun and added a sense of humor to the family. She could do things and get away with it. ..like skipping school and getting in very late from a date. When we washed dishes at night, she would get up on the table and sing. One year the school gave an operetta called "Geisha Girl." Pauline could go through every song. She was always being grounded for something. Naomi and Pauline, though three years apart in age, grew to the same size. Mom made them dresses alike, Naomi's a pink print and Pauline's a blue. They made a handsome pair. Mom also made their prom dresses and they were beautiful. Pauline met Roy King when they were in the same class in high school. It was a school romance that lasted and they were married March 18, 1934. They started housekeeping on his grandparent's farm. Mom made Pauline's wedding suit. It was blue-gray wool with a blue silk blouse and she wore gray pumps. They went to Angola and were married by Rev. Rose. They lived with Roy's parents until their house was ready. They had five children. Julie Ann King, who didn't live, was born June 15, 1935. Pauline almost died at this birth. She had uremic poisoning. Then came David Edgar, Daniel Evan, Darrell Roy and Jennie Kaye King. Pauline and Roy lived on their farm the rest of their working days and, after that, lived in a house on the farm across the road until they moved to an apartment in Auburn, Indiana. They were members of the Cedar Lake Church of Christ where Pauline's ancestors were charter members and Roy's were long-time members. Pauline was bright light in our family.

Now comes me (Lurah). I was cute with white curls when I was three. Then things changed, contagious diseases took their toll and I had a sickly childhood much of the time. I was always told I was too little to do anything with Dwight, Naomi and Pauline, so I played with Allen. I learned to climb trees, ladders in the hay mow and dig caves. I also went to the same schools, but had one advantage. I had girl friends that lived within walking distance. There was Olga Reinoehl, Helen and Martha Krueger, Ruth White and Esthel Neidig (Leas), my dearest friend. We went through twelve years of school together. We were the same size and teachers would get us mixed up. We were in classes together, plays together and, when her parents went on a Sunday trip, I was asked to come along to keep her company. Another friend I was close to was Grace Shumaker. I met her as a freshman at Ashley High School. We spent a lot of time together. After we were out of school, she introduced me to Doyle DeVoe, a cousin of her boyfriend Harlan Shumaker. My first date was a blind one they arranged and we went to Ft. Wayne to an accordion concert. Doyle worked for the Kendallville Post Office. He lived at home and saved his money and bought a new car. . .saved more money and when we got married December 4, 1938, we had our little rented home in Kendallville all furnished. We were married in the Kendallville parsonage in Kendallville by Doc. Moss. The next day, Doyle went to work as usual. December was a busy month in the post office. We lived in Kendallville for three years and moved to the home farm after Doyle's parents died. Ronald Claude was born in 1941 while we were living in town. Kathleen Gail and Phillip Warren DeVoe were born when we lived on the DeVoe farm. After Phil and Kathy grew up and went to college, we moved to Cree Lake to a new house. After Doyle's death, I moved back to Kendallville.

Allen Oscar Putt was born February 11, 1919 and named for the doctor who delivered him, Dr. Allen Tracy. I loved him from the start. My mother told me I would show him to visitors and call him my "Bo." Allen was a cute blond with blue eyes. He grew up and went to the same schools. We played a lot together. The auto makers used to advertise with glossy pictures of their cars in the Saturday Evening Post. I used to cover the hub caps, hood ornaments and all identifying items and have Allen guess the make of the car. He always got it right. We both married Kendallville spouses and have lived within five miles of each other since. We did many fun things together. He met Evelyn Foster in high school. After high school, Allen went to Wisconsin and worked on a dairy farm. These people were Germans and their sympathy was with Germany in what turned out to be World War II. Allen was disgusted, came home and joined the Navy. Evelyn had taken nurses training and was a registered nurse. She met Allen in New Orleans while he was stationed there and they were married in a church, a wartime weeeing. Alana Evan Putt was born in Norfolk, Virginia. After the war, they came back to Kendallville to live. Deedra Jill was born in Kendallville. Evelyn and Allen lived on Route 3 south of Kendallville and, since Allen's death in September of 1996, Evelyn has lived there alone.

THE FARM

The land on the farm was interesting. It was muck, a loose black soil, that was leased to the onion growers. The onions needed to be weeded and topped in the fall. All of us children earned money for books and school clothes by working in the onion field. We would give our money to our mother and she kept it for us until school started.

Next to the muck land was a large vein of gravel. My parents were asked to open this for the graveling of roads. So it became the gravel-pit. This was a fun place to play and look for pretty stones. One year, my parents leased it to a road contractor to do work on State Road 3. They drilled a well for water and installed a gasoline pump for the trucks. It was a busy place and we were warned to stay away from the area by my mother. My parents put the money in the bank to make the addition to our house. $900 was a lot of money them. All of a sudden, the money was gone. Aunt Sadie, Dad's sister, talked him into buying her share of the home farm where Grandma lived. Grandma had a life lease. At her death it would go to the children.

To the back of the farm, there was new land, probably two acres. My parents cleared this and planted strawberries. They produced so well that they sold strawberries for several years. Pickers would come and buy them by the crate. When my parents planted garden, it was an art. All of us children stayed out of their way. The garden was fenced in and had flowers planted around three sides. On the fourth side, there was asparagus, rhubarb, currant and gooseberry bushes and grapes. Small vegetables were planted in this garden. Then they planted a separate area called the truck patch with sweet corn, potatoes, pumpkins, squash, lima beans and melons. Soup beans and popcorn was raised on Grandma's farm. In the big barn on Grandma's farm, was a "flail" used to flail the ripe soup beans out of their pods. It was a huge stick with leather strips attached. The beans were scooped up from the clean, worn-smooth floor and were sorted and stored for winter use. Any excess was sold to the grocery store. My dad farmed Grandma's farm. The forty acres we lived on wouldn't support a family of seven.

THE HOUSE

The house we lived in was a simple four-room house with a large kitchen, living room, a front hall to tie them together and two bedrooms upstairs. Later my parents shingled the house with green shingles. The house had a tin roof and it was wonderful to lay in bed at night and hear the rain on that roof. Other improvements over the years were a bedroom, bath and kitchen, enclosed back porch, front hall enlarged and small front porch added. The new kitchen was small….a kitchen cabinet that had sugar and flour bins built in, the cooking range, small table and chairs and a narrow cabinet next to the chimney where we put skillets and pots and pans. After REMC brought electricity to the country, we had a refrigerator.

The old kitchen was converted to a dining area where we put the square oak table and chairs, an oak glass door cupboard and a huge corner cupboard with glass doors. This is where Mom kept her pretty dishes that she collected over the years. When my parents purchased their first radio, an Atwater-Kent, it was placed in this room. It was operated by battery and we listened to only our favorite programs. When the battery ran down it meant a trip to Hudson to have it charged. This room was heated by a wood and coal stove. The living room was furnished with a day bed, two oak rocking chairs, a mission oak rocker with leather seat and an oak library table with bookcase ends. After Great Aunt Mary Brugh Tussing willed us the player piano, it was in this room. We had an Aladdin lamp that made a nice white light. The lamp was on the library table and we would sit near it to read at night. There was no radio or TV then. The downstairs bedroom was where my parents slept. It was off the living room and, if you opened the door enough, heat would come from the living room stove. Upstairs, one bedroom was for the boys. It was furnished with one bed, a bookcase-desk combination and a very large chest of drawers. In the closet was my mother's trunk that she brought from Michigan. When we helped her clean house, she would go through things and tell us about the past. The girl's bedroom had two beds, a marble top bureau and a desk-bookcase. There was also a wicker rocking chair. This room had a long closet and the three of us girls had an area to hang our clothes. We shared drawers and shelves for books.

One side of our basement had a dirt floor. Empty canning jars, potatoes and apples were stored on this side. The other side had a cement floor and wide cement shelf to store canned vegetables and meat. There was a cherry wood dry sink where Mom stored special fruits, jams and jellies. At the foot of the stairs were the vinegar barrels. This basement had a very strong long trap door that could be fastened up when we used the basement. There was an antique dropleaf table where we stored milk, butter or anything we wanted to keep cool. We had a square metal butter churn painted blue that was really neat. A handle was turned to move the paddles and it worked very smooth. We never saw another one like it.

THE ORCHARD

My parents planted an apple orchard next to the house. They planted many varieties of apples and they ripened at different times. At one time I could go through the orchard and name them. An Early Transparent was my favorite. It ripened in August. It was yellow, think-skinned, a little tart but mellow. It made a great eating apple and was good for applesauce and pies. It was a great tree for climbing with wide branches and Allen and I could climb all over it.

When the trees were small, my parents raised geese. They ate the weeds and bugs in the orchard. My mother made pillows from the down from the geese. We also used the eggs for baking and cooking. A mulberry tree was planted in the center of the orchard to feed the birds. Later a martin birdhouse was put in the center next to the mulberry tree, high above all the trees. At the edge of the orchard was a raspberry patch that produced year after year.

The apple orchard produced all the apples we could use. My dad would take a wagon load of apples to Helmer and have barrels of cider made. "Vinegar mother" was added to the cider to make vinegar. We had barrels full to sell. Customers….usually neighbors and friends…would bring their gallon jugs to be filled. It sold for ten cents a gallon.

Another interesting tree was the yellow cherry tree in our backyard. It was very large and loaded with cherries. They were beautiful, a pale yellow with pink cheek. No one we knew had cherries like this. My mother canned them for winter use. We also ate all we could while they were fresh.

The garden, truck patch and orchard produced a lot of our food. Chickens, beef and prok were raised on the farm. We always had balanced meals and a large variety of food. My mother purchased sour cherries, peaches and pineapple for canning. None of our neighbors had so many fruits produced on their farms. I think my mother learned all these things from her parents, William and Emma Brugh.

BARN, HORSES, BUGGIES, PHONOGRAPH

Our barn was so simple. It had stalls for the horses, a few cows an calves. It had a hay mow up above and Allen and I loved to go up and down the ladder. It wasn't as steep as the ladders in my grandmother's barn. The barn had a leanto addition that we called the shed. Garden tools and small tools were stored in this. Farm tools were at Grandma's. A loaded shotgun was hung on a nail in the shed to scare away wild animals that got in the chicken house. One day Allen got the shotgun down and shot a rooster. He hadn't expected the kick the gun had and it came back and hit him in the mouth. Knowing he'd be in trouble if he told the truth, he buried the rooster and told his mother he got hurt falling down the gravel pit bank. Doubting it, she kept asking him over and over until finally his story broke down. No food was ever wasted, so she dug the rooster up and cooked it for supper. Allen's mouth was so swollen he couldn't eat it.

One time someone talked Dad into buying an antique car. I think Dwight told me it was a 1914 Ford. It had oil lamps for headlights. It was never driven and was later sold. It set in the shed for a long time and Allen and I would spend hours looking at it. At one time my parents had a double buggy. Someone told me it was quite a picture to see my parents drive up in their buggy with the fringe on top with all five children. The buggy was pulled by our farm horses, Prince and Tops. The photos of our family dressed ready for church would pinpoint the year between 1919-1920.

Dad was always coming home with something that he was talked into buying. The antique car, the Edison phonograph with a diamond needle in an oak cabinet. This was way beyond our means. When he bought a single buggy and a buggy horse named Daisy, he opened a whole new world for us. Mom could harness up the horse and buggy and we went visiting. She had many friends and relatives and we would "call" on them. We also went to church in it. Daisy was a dainty horse and was used to being rode bare-back without a saddle. She was very slow and gentle and completely safe. When our friends and cousins came to see us, they rode Daisy. Naomi had to go to Fairfield Center for her eighth grade exam for school and she rode Daisy. Daisy was just being herself and walked in the slow "safe for children" pace. There was no way Naomi could hurry her. She came home furious and said, "Never again!" I don't recall when Daisy and the buggy were sold.

COOKING AND BAKING

My mother was an excellent cook. We had a variety of food raised on the farm. She made bread and cinnamon rolls. They were baked at the time we came home from school and it was wonderful to walk into the house and see the bread and rolls lined up on the kitchen cabinet to cool. Two cakes I liked were hot milk cake baked in an oblong pan with powdered sugar icing on top. This tasted like ice cream. Another cake was devil's food cake with seven-minute frosting. We made our own salad dressing that was cooked and good for potato salad. Chicken and noodles was a Sunday dish. Bean soup was an easy meal for Saturdays. We could put it on the stove in the iron kettle and it didn't require watching. Quite often the lid from the stove was removed and the kettle put down on the coals. How we hated washing this black kettle.

Mother made more cookies than pies and was always trying a new recipe. She also had an art of making pulled taffy. The syrup had to be cooked, cooled and pulled at the right time. She made fudge and popcorn balls. We had our own walnut trees so had walnuts for the fudge. We also had a butternut tree. There was a tree on the new ground where the land hadn't been tilled. These nuts were oval in shape and looked like a walnut. The meat was rich much like a cashew.

Mother had a square, metal butter churn which was painted blue. It worked very smooth and we took turns cranking. Everyone liked buttermilk but me and they would stand around drinking it. We had an ice cream freezer to make ice cream when ice was available. My mother made homemade soap in a big iron kettle. We girls complained about the soap being hard on our hands. It wasn't really. We didn't like the idea of using homemade soap so we went back to using P&G bar soap.

On cold winter nights, my mother made codfish gravy with baked potatoes. In later years I tried to duplicate this but couldn't eat it. Naomi, Pauline and I all learned to cook and bake. We also learned canning. We had a large square dryer. It had water in the bottom and was put on the stove to dry apples and corn. Corn was the best. It had a sweet nutty flavor. Apples were very unpopular and I really disliked them. All through the depression years we ate well because we could raise most of our food. Staples like sugar, cocoa, coffee, salt, vanilla, raisins and flour were purchased.

When it was threshing time for wheat and oats, the farmers helped each other harvest their grain. The noon meal was always at the home where they were working. The men washed their hands at the well and came in the house to dinner that was spread on a white linen tablecloth. We always went to town for meat and all I can remember is beef roast, mashed potatoes, vegetables, pickles, celery, pie and cake and lots of coffee. Some of the farmer's wives helped each other cook this meal. It was summer and we weren't in school so we helped my mother. After I was married I helped my mother-in-law with one of these meals. I thought it was great fun and was pleased to be asked to help.

SEWING AND CATALOGS

My mother was an expert seamstress. She made clothes for the three of us girls and herself. She made comforters, sheets, pillowcases, quilts and tablecloths. Before her marriage, she worked for a family in Traverse City, Michigan where she learned the skill of cutting patterns from newspaper. She could copy the dresses we would choose from pictures in catalogs. We girls eagerly awaited the Sears and Montgomery Ward catalogs to see the new styles. She made our school dresses and we always had a new dress for the last day of school. The prettiest dress she made was Pauline's prom dress. It was orchid silk with lace and looked exactly like the picture in the catalog. Mom didn't like making coats so they were purchased. She liked to crochet and made many doilies and edgings for pillowcases. A more practical use of crochet was the many "throw" rugs. She made these out of worn clothing like old cotton dresses. Heavier material of worn clothing was cut in strips, sewn together and rolled into balls. These were taken to the weaver who wove rag rugs. The beautiful materials my mother made our better dresses and formals with were purchased from the catalogs. They would send samples and she would carefully choose silks, wool and lace. Cotton prints and plains were purchased from Seagly's store in Ashley. They ordered things special if you wanted. The store was a combination grocery and dry good store. Dwight's suits were purchased at Pleasant Lake. He needed them for school teaching. Our shoes were purchased in a shoe store in Auburn. Hats were purchased from a milliner who lived across the street from the U.B. Church in Hudson.

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES

There were seven children in my mother's family. Four of these children moved to Indiana. The other three stayed in Michigan. When the Michigan relatives came to Indiana, the aunts uncles and cousins would have a family reunion. There were many of them through the years. Also, Aunt Eva, Emma Brugh's half-sister, lived in Indiana. We had a carry-in dinner with each family bringing food. One year, we put long boards across two sawhorses, then covered them with white linen tablecloths. This was placed at the edge of the yard next to the apple trees. As the relatives came, the women took the food to the kitchen. The men headed for the living room where they played Euchre. My aunts and my mother were in the kitchen most of the time. They talked about children and local events. I listened a lot. You can learn much by listening.

CHRISTMAS

There were Christmas programs at school and church. There was a community program at the Ashley Hall. All the children were given treats which was a little brown sack of candy, nuts and an orange. Our teacher and bus driver also gave us treats, the same little brown sack with candy, nuts and orange. Allen and I would see how long we could make it last. My parents didn't have money for expensive gifts and we didn't have a tree. My mother decorated a round bushel basket and she hung it from a chain in the living room where at one time there was an ornate hanging lamp with a hand-painted shade. This held our Christmas gifts which were things like gloves, small games and books. It was a special time and not as commercial as it is today.

Jonathan Potts

Jonathan Potts, surgeon, b. in Popodickon, Berks co., Pa., 1 April, 1745; d. in Reading, Pa., in October, 1781. He was a son of John Potts, the founder of Pottstown, Pa. After receiving a classical education, he went with Dr. Benjamin Rush to Edinburgh, Scotland, for medical study, and after his return he was graduated, in 1768, a bachelor of physic at the College of Philadelphia, at the first granting of medical degrees in this country, and in 1771 received the degree of M.D. His Latin thesis on the latter occasion, "De Febribus Intermittentibus potentissimum Tertianis" was published (Philadelphia, 1771). From 1768 till his death he was a member of the American philosophical society. He began the practice of medicine at Reading. Dr. Potts early identified himself with the struggle for independence, and was secretary of the Berks county committee of safety, and a member of the Provincial convention at Philadelphia, 23 Jan., 1775. In 1776 he was appointed surgeon for Canada and Lake George, and returned with Gen. Gates to Pennsylvania. In general orders, dated 12 Dec., 1776, Gen. Putnam directed that all officers that were in charge of any sick soldiers should "make return to Dr. Jonathan Potts, at Mr. John Biddle's, in Market street." Soon after this order was issued Dr. Potts was in service at the battle of Princeton. Dr. Potts was appointed in April, 1777, medical director-general of the northern department, and as such joined the army at Albany, N.Y. In November, 1777, he returned to Reading, having been furloughed, and while there was appointed by congress director-general of the hospitals of the middle department. He was subsequently surgeon of the first city troop of Philadelphia.--His brother, THOMAS, was one of the original members of the American philosophical society, and in 1776 was commissioned colonel of one of the Pennsylvania battalions.--Another brother, JOHN, studied law at the Temple, London, became a judge in the city of Philadelphia, and, sympathizing with the mother country, went to Halifax, Nova Scotia, but returned after the war.--Another brother, ISAAC, is said to have been the person that discovered Washington at prayer in the woods at Valley Forge; and the country-seat of DAVID, another brother, was Washington's headquarters at the latter place. See "Potts Memorial," by Mrs. Thomas Potts James.

Carolyn,
I am forwarding an email I received from JoAnne (Bott) Anderson, from York County, PA regarding the Butt/Putt family, with roots to Berks County. She discusses the Wilhelm Pott you mentioned in your previous email to me. I think I am going to have to get a solid DNA test at some point in order to help clarify my line. I wish I could prioritize it right now, but I can't. I have Putt's in my family tree from York County, but they all trace back to William and his wife Catherine Hoffman.

Thoughts on this?

Chris

Hi -

I've provided links to some interesting Pott/Putt/Butt/Bott info below. I forget what I put on the website where you found me.
I live in York PA and my roots are here on the Butt/Bott side back to 1820 and maybe prior. I'm told the Pott name was pronounced Putt and since they settled amongst the German people, the German pronunciation was Butt, which thankfully my ggrandf changed to Bott. I'm unable to find my gggrandf's parentage since he was not baptised as a child but as an adult. This probably means his mother's religion was one where infant baptism was frowned upon (mennonite or such). Anyway, fortunately I have a brother who agreed to do the DNA testing for me and we match with one person thus far....this is how I've been able to connect to Wilhelm Pott of Berks Co. Unfortunately, the other person only has unproven connections, the same generation as my lost data. The DNA website tells me that although we are registered with the Butt family data, they crosscheck across all other families, including Pott. Nothing more has shown up. I do wish more people would get involved in the testing.

None of the info you've given me is familiar although there were certainly John (Johannes) and Jacobs in the Wilhelm Pott family. A lot of confusion exists since there was another unrelated Pott family in the same area and in the same business....iron ore and forging. Pottsville PA was founded by my family; Pottstown and Pottsgrove were founded by the other.

Hopefully this will be of help to you. Do consider the DNA testing route. It could cut down your research considerably! Let me know what you find out.

JoAnne (Bott Anderson)

JoAnne,
I received your contact information from the Berks County surname search: http://berks.pa-roots.com/SurnameRegister/SurnameP.html#Putt regarding the Putt family. I am descended from Johannes Patt (Putt) who immigrated to Philadelphia in 1752 aboard the ship Halifax and I believe later settled in Berks County. You can find a brief family history here: http://www.progenealogists.com/palproject/pa/johannesputt.htm

His son Jacob, had a son William (my 4th great grandfather) who married Catherine Hoffman in Berks County and later settled and died in Harrisburg. Some researchers believe that my Jacob Putt is the same one married to Catherine Schaeffer, who had a number of Putt children in Heidelberg Twp, Berks County. This Jacob is believed to be buried at St. Daniel's Corner Church in Heidelberg. I am not yet convinced that my Jacob (also from Heidelberg Twp) is the one and same, probably married twice if it is.

I have additional information if your interested. I would like to know about your Putt family links in Berks County during the 1700's to early 1800's.

Thanks and I look forward to hearing from you.

Carolyn, Hi, Freda is a cousin to me by my grandfathers family, her mother was Bertha Tittle Hostler, and her dad was William Hostler. My grandfather was Berthas Brother John Roy Tittle, I believe their mother was a Mary Chestnut from Altoona Pa. area. I would love to see what you have and I will help you try to make the connection. I did Freda because I do not know my biological father and my mom lived with my grandfathers family for a time, and as sick as it is, I just had to rule out my grandfather, I didn't really think he would be my dad, I was told my dad was a soldier from WW 2 but with so many brick walls I had to rule out everyone, and I still don't know who my dad was! I probably never will. My grandpa..John Roy Tittle and his sister Aunt Bertha were very loving, hard working mountain people. Freda has two living daughters who are also Mt. people..LOL..there names are Carla and Marian Schreffer. Fredas husband was William Schreffer. They also had a son killed about age 5 who ran out in front of a car. Do you have any Tittles/ or Hostlers ? Thanks for the email. Even tho these people aren't blood to me I consider them family.

I recently got the results of my Family Finder DNA test, and my closest match was Mrs. Freda Schreffler, possibly a 3rd cousin. No other information was given than your e-mail address, so I contacted you in hope that you are a relative of Mrs. Schreffler and, possibly, me. A number of my ancestors came to Indiana from Pennsylvania. Would a list of surnames help?

THE POTT FAMILY

The following information is summarized from a clipping about the Pott family, which was in the information that our cousin, Gussie Robb, sent to Mother.

Wilhelm and Dagenhart Pott were ironmasters, who came from the Palatinate (Germany), and arrived in Philadelphia 12 Sept. 1734. They came on the ship, St. Andrew, John Steadman, Master, sailing from Rotterdam, Holland.

Wilhelm brought his wife Gertrude Lobach Pott, and two sons, one an infant and Johannes, nine years old, born in Holland in 1725.

Wilhelm and Dagenhart Pott settled in Germantown, but later moved to Oley and settled on a farm. They invested in large tracts of land, rich in iron ore. They built forges and furnaces, which were the beginning of the iron industry in Pennsylvania. Johannes inherited his father's business in 1769. He married Maria Hoch of Oley, Pa. in 1754. Maria was born in 1730 and died in 1805. She was the daughter of John Hoch (1700-1777) and Susannah (1678-1763); and she was the granddaughter of Rudolph Hoch (died 8 Jan. 1748) who came to this country from Switzerland during a religious persecution. He was a Moravian, and settle in Berks County, near Oley. His farm was in the possession of the Hoch family for seven generations (perhaps it still is).

Johannes (or John) and Maria had eight children. The sixth one was Benedict, born 11 April 1766, and died 1803. He married Catherine Menges, and they had six children. The fourth one was Mary, who married our great-grandfather, Samuel Given Shoemaker.

Pottstown and Pottsville in Pennsylvania are both named after members of the Potts family.

Notes on William Pott

Some notes on Wilhelm Pott . . .

Along with his brother Degenhart Pott, Wilhelmus Pott appears on the 12 Sep 1734 shiplist of the St Andrew, a Schwenkfelder ship arriving in Philadelphia from Rotterdam and Plymouth. Ships from the continent had to stop in Britain and register before crossing the North Atlantic for British Dominions in North America. Their names do not appear in the transcriptions at http://www.centralschwenkfelder.com/exile/schwenkfelder_immigrants.htm, probably because they were Moravians, not Schwenkfelders.

Their names do appear on p. 96 of Israel Daniel Rupp, A Collection of Upwards of Thirty Thousand Names of German, Swiss, Dutch, French and Other Immigrants in Pennsylvania from 1727 to 1776 (Philadelphia: Leary, Stuart & Co, 1898), online at GoogleBooks http://books.google.com/books?id=ihPVAAAAMAAJ& and on p 108 of William Henry Egle MD, ed., Names of Foreigners who took the Oath of Allegiance to the Province and State of Pennsylvania 1727-1775 (Harrisburg: Edwin K Meyers, State Printer, 1892), online at http://books.google.com/books?id=iEAOAAAAIAAJ

Arriving with Degenhart and Wilhelm were Wilhelm's wife Gertrude (not named on the shiplist), their sons Johann Wilhelm Pott and Johannes Pott, and Peter Lobach, Gertrude's son from her first marriage. A daughter Catharina Pott, who is named in William Pott's 1781 will, was probably a member of the party.

Wilhelm settled initially in Germantown, then moved up the Schuylkill to near Oley in what later became Berks county. The Pott family were active in the Oley Moravian community -- Wilhelm's name appears as early as 25 Aug 1741 in the "Annals of Early Moravian Settlement," Memorials of the Moravian Church, ed. William C Reichel (Philadelphia: Lippincot, 1870), Vol I, pp. 160, 170, online at http://books.google.com/books?id=iU5CAAAAIAAJ.

The 1740s Pott's Mill, located near Lobachsville, still stands. Photos of the mill are at http://www.millpictures.com/mills/details.cfm?millid=150

Two genealogies published just after 1900 say that William Pott died in 1767: See D G Lubold, "The Pott Family," Publications of the Historical Society of Schuylkill County, Vol I, No. 1 (1907), pp. 31-40, online at http://books.google.com/books?id=uSYUAAAAYAAJ and Thomas Maxwell Potts, comp., Historical Collections Relating to the Potts Family (Canonsburg, PA: the compiler, 1901), pp. 427-30, online at http://books.google.com/books?id=5DguAAAAYAAJ

But 1781 is the more likely date of William's death. In fact, both Lubold and Potts refer to the 1781 will of William Pott of Rockland Twp, Berks Co. See also the article by George Meiser IX, The Passing Scene, Vol 3 (1984) http://berkshistory.org/gmmix/ and an article by Richard Orth in the Historical Review of Berks County, Vol 70, No. 1 (winter 2004-2005), both mentioned in articles by James A McClean, Jr., the current owner of the Pott Mansion in Lobachsville, which I have transcribed and uploaded to this genealogy.

The Pennsylvania-German in the Revolutionary War, pp 465-66:

Wilhelm Potts, and wife, Gertrude, reached Philadelphia on September 12, 1734. He was an iron-master of means. He first settled in Germantown, but soon moved to Oley, Berks County, because of the rich deposits of iron ore which were there discovered.

It is asserted that he built the "German," or "District" Furnace, of which a brief account has been given, and that, from him, it descended to John Lesher, the brother-in-law of his grandson. Connected with it was the "District," or "Heilig" Forge. A short distance below the forge he built a stone grist mill, still standing.

Still farther down the stream he put up a fulling mill, on the present site of Lobachsville, which, in 1745, he conveyed to his nephew [step-son], Peter Lobach, who added a dye-house, chair factory and turning mill, and, by his energy, developed the place into the thriving town which bears his name.

Wilhelm Potts died in 1767 [1781]. His son, John, on December 23, 1755, married Maria Hoch, and was associated with his father in the iron and milling business. He died in 1804.

His son, John, born in Rockland Township, Berks County, January 16, 1759, was connected with his father in the milling business, and with his brother-in-law, John Lesher, in the iron business. In 1786 he married Maria Lesher, daughter of John Lesher.

Having disposed of his Oley property in 1810, he moved to the present site of Pottsville. Here, in 1806, he had already purchased the "Greenwood Furnace," which stood on the northwest corner of the present Coal and Mauch Chunk Streets. To this he added various works, and houses for his employees, which cluster of buildings was the beginning of the city of Pottsville.

Pike Twp, Berks Co., Pennsylvania 1745
Watersource: Pine Creek

The mill was built in 1745 by Willam Pott, the founder of Pottstown [? Pottsville, yes, founded by William Pott's son John, but probably not Pottstown]. William's stepson, Peter Lobach, operated the mill for many years. Because of its shape, the mill looks smaller than it really appears. The 30'x40' story stone/frame mill features brick decorative arches above the doors on the stone portion. Two strenghtening rods course front to back between the first and second full floors. The mill is built of small evenly shaped rock that almost appear as brick from a distance.

Another name for the mill is the David Reinhart Mill. How he plays into the mill's history is unknown. Several millstones are exibited in front on either side of the steps to the lower door.

The mill dam is located right next to the mill and is fed by the waters of Pine Creek. The mill has been owned for many years by Stephen Kindig, a long time member of the Society for the Preservation of Old Mills.

SAMUEL GIVEN SHOEMAKER

Born 1 Dec. 1791.
Muncy, Lycoming Co., Pa.

Died 27 April 1873.
Muncy, Pa.

Married 22 May 1817
To MARY POTT

And now we come back to the Shoemakers. We do not know very much about the parents of our Grandfather Shoemaker. Mother says that her father talked very little about his parents or his childhood. Samuel Given was fourteen years of age when his father died, and he probably grew up in Muncy, and helped his mother raise her family. He was the fourth of the nine children. There were many aunts, uncles and cousins in the area.

On 22 May 1817 he married Mary Pott, the daughter of Benedict and Catherine (Menges) Pott. She was born 27 August 1797, and died 14 August 1880. I will put a little about her family on the next page.

The children of Samuel Given Shoemaker and Mary (Pott) Shoemaker were:

i. INFANT, born 23 Feb. 1818; died 4 March 1818.

ii. GEORGE WASHINGTON, born 7 Nov. 1819; died 30 Nov. 1842; unmarried.

iii. SUSAN HARRIET, born 7 Sept. 1821; died Oct. 1823.

iv. CATHERINE, born 5 April 1824; died 13 Nov. 1904; married NOAH MACKEY; Lived in St. Louis.

v. JASPER, born 28 Sept. 1826; died 20 Aug. 1907; married (1) 1852 to SARAH DORWORTH; had nine children; married (2) SARAH PINE.

vi. WILLIAM POTT, born 5 April 1829; died 8 March 1897; married 1864 to ANNE E. ALLEN; had nine children; lived near Fort Scott, Kans.

vii. CHARLES BELL, born 12 Feb. 1831; died 23 Oct. 1877; had four children; lived near Burlington, Iowa.

viii. MATTHEW HOUSTON, born 31 March 1833; died 17 April 1919 in Omaha, Nebr.; married 16 Nov. 1875 to ALICE OLDS; had seven children; lived near Union, Nebr.

ix. ROBERT FLEMING, born 5 Sept. 1835; died 2 Sept. 1894; married 5 Sept. 1867 to ALMIRA LOWMILLER; had seven children; lived in Muncy, Pa.

x. MARY MELISSA, born 15 Jan. 1838; died 15 April 1890; unmarried.

Colonial iron masters seek their fortune in our area

A Look Back In History

Of all the iron masters and Colonial captains of industry recorded in Pennsylvania's historic iron industry, little is known of Wilhelm and John Pott from Lobachsville, in the upper Oley Valley, whose pioneer family founded that village and also laid out the town of Pottsville, Schuylkill County.

After the 1720 "Iron Ore Rush" begun by English iron pioneers, Thomas Rutter and Thomas Potts in the Manatawny region of Berks County, Old World venture capitalists were eager to seek fortunes in Pennsylvania searching for prized magnetite iron ore. Both iron master John Lesher (1711-1794) and Wilhelm Pott (c1704-1781) arrived in Philadelphia about 1734 and acquired tracts of land in this iron rich territory with adequate forests for charcoal burning, limestone minerals, and streams to access waterpower needed to pump giant leather bellows to produce quality iron.

Today, there are few surviving records, and little is remembered about these important iron industrialists whose trials and tribulations on a sometimes savage frontier brought about advanced civilization; let alone winning our freedom with iron manufactures and guns produced during the American Revolution.

In Wilhelm Pott's trips to London he heard of the iron rich Manatawny region, and so he, his wife Gertrude, brother Deganhart, and six children ventured to America and arrived in September 1734 aboard the Ship Saint Andrew. Passengers with the Schwenkfelders, these pioneer families arrived before the first major wave of German immigration from 1749 to1754. While staying in Germantown-Philadelphia, they acquired title to land in the Manatawny District, where in 1760 Rebecca Potts also purchased a one sixth interest in an obscure "Spring Forge" in District Township.

Settling in what is today Pike Township from the German Palatinate with their three daughters and three sons, Wilhelm Jr., John, and stepson Peter Lobach, they resided on an acquired large tract of land in a pioneer log cabin built over a spring, then in Upper Philadelphia County. Located in the forested Oley Hills along Pine Creek, a tributary of the Manatawny stream, Pine Creek provided headwaters for the gristmill Wilhelm built in 1745, now the Lobachsville Gristmill owned by Stephen Kindig.

Architectural historian, Robert Bucher, in his article for Pennsylvania Folklife on "The Continental Log House," described the Pott frontier log cabin, which may predate the arrival of the family in 1734. Bucher refers to the original casement window and first floor arched central fireplace as unusual features of this early log cabin. The primitive Pott cabin, which had running spring water in the cellar, had its cooking fireplace there under an original steep, German, orange clay tile roof. With this arrangement, the pioneer women could easily draw water from their position at the central fireplace to fill kettles without taking a single step outside.

Certainly, this was "central heat and running water in 1740," as stated by folklorist Harry Stauffer, and perhaps was necessitated by warring Indians on the frontier. In addition to this German Continental log cabin, located today on site with the 1755 manor house, the Pott family established a large, productive farm. Wilhelm's gristmill, which harnessed waterpower from the Pine Creek to grind their grain, was a half-mile south of the homestead.

In 1745, at the time of settlement, Wilhelm also sold stepson Peter Lobach a tract of land upon which Peter established the village of Lobachsville. Here where Peter resided, he built a water-powered fulling mill for processing wool, and a sawmill to cut lumber. Since the Wilhelm Pott gristmill was a house mill, one of the sons (John) probably lived there, because Wilhelm Jr. lived nearby in a stone home where he died prematurely in 1767. His brother, John, as history records, was the miller of the family.

In 1755, John (c1720-1805) married Maria Hoch, a twin daughter of John Hoch, one of the largest plantation owners of that hamlet. Thereby, Wilhelm Sr. and his son, John built a large stone manor house north of the village gristmill, adjacent to their first crude log cabin. The manor house still contains early wattle and daub interior walls and a hefty spring in the cellar, which flows to this day.

A likely scenario is the manor house was part of John's marriage dowry in 1755, conspicuous by the large date stone that bore both father and son's names at the manor house door. As was the German tradition, the daughter-in-law shared the household chores with her mother-in-law, and the two families lived together for a time.

The headwaters of Pine Creek were ideal for powering early industry and historian, Arthur Bining gives Wilhelm Pott Sr. credit for establishing District Furnace, although its very earliest history is vague. The District Furnace was a few miles upstream from Pott's gristmill and nearer the later, Francis Heilig Forge (also called the Pott Forge) on Pine Creek, about a mile above the Pike Township line. This was an enterprising Colonial age when fortunes could be made or even lost, depending on the quality of the local iron ore.

Whether Wilhelm Pott originally built the District Township Furnace as historians, Croll and Bining have reported, we are not sure. However, sometime before 1784, iron capitalist John Lesher acquired the furnace and turned it over to son, Jacob in 1794. Wilhelm Pott's son, John may have operated the furnace briefly upon his father's death in 1781 or been a partner with the Leshers when they obtained it, or later when the furnace became an Iron works, after 1797.

Whatever the scenario, his son, John Jr. (1759-1827) married John Lesher's daughter, Maria, and was associated with the next generation of ironmasters, including brother-in-law, Jacob Lesher. Since John Jr. married Lesher's daughter at the time Lesher's estate was settled, they inherited two of Lesher's sixteen Negro slaves, as did Maria's other two sisters, according to Peter Bertolet's Fragments of the Past.

Ambitious John Pott Jr., grandson of Wilhelm Sr., continued the family's iron interests, and with his father's acquired tracts and inheritance in 1805, moved out on the frontier to Pottsville, Schuylkill County, where he founded and laid out the town of Pottsville in 1806. As recorded in the Blue Book of Schuylkill County, a straggling row of houses was built (1806-1808) to accommodate his workmen in that early village. Pott acquired the "Schuylkill Gap" Furnace near Pottsville in 1804, but tore it down, and instead erected Greenwood Forge.

He later purchased 227 acres of land, which covered the old site of Pottsville, in 1808 (some records indicate as early as 1796 with purchase made by John Pott, Sr.) from Lewis Reese of Reading, Berks County and Isaac Thomas to accompany the Greenwood Furnace built in 1807, and operated it for many years until his death in 1827. Though land was still owned in the Oley Valley, the Pott family is documented leaving the area permanently in 1810, and by 1816 had Pottsville laid out. With John's move and the death of his father John Sr. in 1805, the Pott family's presence in Oley Valley was extinguished.

John Pott Jr., while in Pottsville, also established an oil mill and distillery located today on the northwest corner of East Norwegian and Railroad Streets. He was regarded as a prominent citizen of the community with much prestige. His son, Benjamin took over the businesses upon his father's death in 1827. Pott is also credited with founding Centerport, Berks County, in addition to Pottsville, in the heart of the coal country which replaced charcoal as the agent to smelt iron ore. Today, John Pott Jr. is buried in the Charles Baber Cemetery in Pottsville.

According to Dr. Peter Bertolet's recollections, the early winters in the Oley Valley were so severe; deer hardly had a chance to survive in these blizzards. Thus, primitive conditions made it imperative for a growing Manatawny iron industry to manufacture native German five plate stoves that were butted to the rear walls of German central fireplaces to heat the "Great room" behind them, also called "stove rooms."

Numerous iron furnaces, run by Germans in the broad Oley Valley, shipped pigg iron to the Mother country of England during mercantile trade, and often poured enough molten metal to make these five plate stoves to heat their crude houses, molded with famous Biblical scenes. Not until Benjamin Franklin invented his Franklin stove, about 1742, were there other options to heat American homes besides purchasing iron jamb stoves from Pennsylvania German ironmasters.

The large number of German indentured servants, which followed the iron furnace and forge trade, with a representative number of slaves, provided arduous labor required to mine ore, burn charcoal, and quarry limestone using the natural local resources of the Oley Valley. Soon, many more Germantown refugees arrived from the Rhine Valley and settled in the Lobachsville area, which became a cultural island of French Huguenot worshipers, above the lower English tracts of the Oley Valley where William Penn's Quaker friends held land and practiced their faith.

Language was definitely a barrier for Rhinelanders in the early 1700's, and the Germanic Lobachsville fieldstone homes and structures with their brick-arched doors and windows, and rooftops full of orange clay tiles that welcomed hordes of other French Huguenots to seek jobs and opportunity in the nostalgic upper Oley Valley. In fact, the German-speaking artisans who built the nearby 1753 Lobachsville manor home for Jacob Keim, who had married the twin sister of John Pott's wife Maria Hoch, had built the Pott family a similar German manor house.

Although ethnic and religious differences of the people living along the upper Manatawny stream in Colonial days were many, the savage menace of the French and Indian War period (1754-1763) was real, thus, the turmoil eliminated some of these differences and welded this early American frontier industrial hamlet of Lobachsville into a unified community in Berks County.

Stuccoed over and forgotten by time, the large 1755 Pott fieldstone manor house with obscured brick-arched windows was acquired by an affluent Philadelphian suburbanite (Kathryn Soloman), and used only as a summer retreat. The manor eventually became neglected when no longer of use, and trees and briars reclaimed much of the property, and some of the farm fields were allowed to grow up in weeds. However, in March 2000, Attorney James McClean and wife Nancy purchased the abandoned farm to reside in the historic Oley Valley, and board their horses in the commodious bank barn.

In 2003, on a fact finding trip with Carl Snyder and Richard Shaner to investigate measurements of the earliest Germanic central walk-in fireplaces, I had the pleasure to see the architectural restoration that the McCleans had embarked upon, as they seek a realistic restoration of the Pott manor house, restoring this early Colonial ironmaster's home. Careful not to chip the old salmon colored brick-arched windows, the McCleans removed the tedious cement stucco, and the house appeared much the same as the 1753 Jacob Keim manor house a short distance down the road where we had taken measurements earlier that day.

Until the McCleans had removed that outer covering, no one knew their historic house had the identical salmon brick-arched windows as the neighboring Keim manor house. James reminded us that the wife (Maria) of Wilhelm's son, John Pott who lived there was the twin sister of Jacob Keim's wife, Magdalena Hoch. Thereby, this close nit community of French Huguenots had built their homes and fireplaces almost identical. Of course, we expected that the ironmaster's home would have a German jamb stove opening in the rear wall of the hearth fireplace, as was the case at the Keim manor house.

But we were astonished to find that Wilhelm Pott had a seat built into the stonewall on the right side of the fireplace, in which he or his wife could sit on a masoned two-inch thick wooden plank seat and warm themselves by the hot ambers of hearth fires in the wintertime. Having read of these seats and knowing of their rarity, I checked Henry Landis' essay written for the Pennsylvania German Society on Germanic pioneer kitchens. Landis found that a niche in the fireplace wall to accommodate a seat for elderly people were extremely rare, however not unheard of among Rhineland immigrant housing.

Surveying the Oley Valley architectural landscape, the fireplaces that survive on both these plantations are among the best Colonial specimens in Pennsylvania. The fact that the Oley Furnace (Shearwell), circa 1744 or 1760, produced early cast iron five-plate stoves may or may not be the reason why the Keim farmstead readily had three iron jamb stoves in use, and the Pott manor two in its layout.

Certainly, there was not a shortage of iron ore for local furnaces and forges to fashion iron cookware and attractive iron fireplace cranes for Oley Valley homes. Some of which had arms that extended nearly six foot in length from the inner corner of the fireplace out over the brick hearth. Built in the European Medieval-style, both the Keim and Pott kitchens were long and narrow, and the heat, which radiated from the hearth, was thereby reflected back into the room.

The Jacob Keim walk-in fireplace opening is eight foot four inches (8'4") long, five foot three inches (5'3") high to the hand-hewn lintel, and three foot eight inches (3'8") deep. The Pott fireplace is approximately nine foot long (9') and five foot eight inches (5'8") high. With a brick hearth that became part of the kitchen floor, Colonial inhabitants could easily cook and use the heat from the fireplace hearth for several household functions.

The Pott fireplace, as well as its Keim counterpart, both have smoke channels masoned into the rear walls reaching down to the brick hearth. About three feet above the hearth, each fireplace has a brick "tinderbox" masoned into the wall at about the depth of a brick, where flint and flammable flax or (tow) was stored to ignite a new fire- should the old one go out. In spite of the actual kitchen room narrowness, the spacious working area of the open hearth warmed the inhabitants while working there.

But where the Pott fireplace featured a seat to warm its occupant, the Keim fireplace had a candle box masoned into the right sidewall jamb at the height of the lintel, which provided light to cook by. However, the distance was far enough away from the amber coals, not to melt the candle. In many instances a fat lamp was used to provide light from this recessed whitewashed masoned box or candle box, this example being 17 ½ X 18 ½ X 12 inches deep.

William Kinzer Landis, considered an authority on early Pennsylvania German cooking, remarked in his research, "in rare instances one might find a seat fashioned into the walk-in fireplace masonry of a Colonial Pennsylvania German home in this part of Pennsylvania." As most people know, the size of the fireplace has little to do with the size of the fire, and one could comfortably sit inside the fireplace niche.

Cooking was done, for the most part, on the hot amber charcoal of the hearth and not on an open flame. Landis also remarked about the Colonial practice of gathering hot coals into the fireplace corner (fire eck) to bank them there overnight, so in the following morning there would be live coals to ignite the next day's fire without the use of flint.

Among the older Pennsylvania Germans, according to oral tradition, a fireplace is called in the Pennsylvania Dutch dialect "Feire Eck" (fire corner), not the English term fireplace. Perhaps from this age-old custom of starting a fire in the "fire eck," the tradition lingered. There is also the belief that to start a fire in the fireplace without it smoking up the kitchen and house, one can best achieve that objective by starting a fire in the corner to move the column of cold air out of the chimney to create a draft.

The Pott house having a basic three-room Germanic layout did have another small hearth fireplace perpendicular to the eastside wall to fire an outside bake oven adjoined to the house, where an additional iron jamb stove was used to heat an adjacent spare room on that side of the house. Realizing that the sun rises in the east and goes down in the west, this additional German stove would have provided more comfort for the working household, especially since two families shared this home.

At his death in 1781, Wilhelm Pott was listed as owning a substantial Colonial copper still, which may have produced whiskey from rye grown at his farm or was employed by his son and John Hoch at Hoch's mill site. Built in 1761, the gristmill (Peters Mill) was just below the Jacob Keim farm along the Bieber Creek, and featured a Colonial Molasses House. Having access to the Bieber Creek waterways, this early enterprise may have also included a distillation operation to turn barrels of molasses into rum brought up from the port of Philadelphia on return trips.

Framed in vertical Colonial board siding, the old Molasses House adjacent to the 1761 Hoch mill was one and a half stories high, only twelve feet wide, but eighty feet long; and had a stone basement foundation ideal for storing barrels. Torn down after WWII, Walter Rothermel, a local antique dealer salvaged its several thousand 18th Century Colonial roof tiles.

The District Furnace had long used local iron ore mined from the Rohrbach mines, above Pikeville, and even in modern times, the Rohrbach mines had still sent iron ore to Bethlehem Steel via a private contractor who knew a percentage of the ore contained uranium in one of the nation's richest deposits, stretching from Lobachsville to the village of Landis Store. Except for local game hunters, who traverse the old forested abandoned raceways on foot leading from ancient empty stonewalled dams along the Pine Creek of Lobachsville, there is hardly any notice of these early Colonial industries left in the historic District Territory of the Manatawny.

and also to supply Pott and Lesher iron furnaces with charges to smelt pigg iron. These Limekilns are a half-mile southeast of Lobachsville on John Hoch's farm, father-in-law to John Pott Sr.

Only Joe Hartline (1960's) whose farm was above Pikeville knew of our early iron industry as it was told to him. He would point to an iron rich mountain adjacent to the Heilig Forge, and say, that his father recalled a man and his donkey were buried deep in one of it's iron mines.

Thanks so much for contacting those of us who are descendants of Henry Putt and Sarah Shoup's daughters. In German the P is actually a B, so the name was most likely Butte/Butt. If my German grandmother were alive I would query her (my mother's side - whereas the Putt is on my father's side). But when I started searching passenger lists for Henry, I went and read a number of cites on the German language and that is where I learned it is written as Putt by English but is written in the German language as a B. Again, Thanks, good luck hope the DNA study helps. Pat

> Pat, that is interesting. I have seen one of those articles that suggests that Henry Putt came from Holland. However, Holland was a sort of refuge for Europeans who were looking for religious freedom, so it was in the back of my mind that he could have been German or even English. I have a contact who is a female descendant of Henry, born a Putt, who has a brother who would be suitable for a DNA study, but I am not sure that she is interested in having him tested. My 2nd great grandfather, George Washington Putt, was a son of Jacob Putt and Catherine Shaffer of Berks Co., PA, and he claimed that both of his parents were native born Pennsylvanians. He also claimed to be of English and German descent, without explaining how that was or who the parents of Jacob and Catherine were. I have shared information with descendants of one of George Washington Putt's brothers, but all of us have run into a dead end with Jacob and Catherine Putt. I am corresponding with a woman who is married to a Putt from Jacob's line, and she says that she can remember her father-in-law telling her that "Putt" was originally "Putnam." It seems that Putt and Putnam come from the same root word. We have been invited to join the Putnam DNA study, and that is what we are doing. She is going to send in her husband's DNA. I am hoping that other Putts will do so too. You are right that the DNA of descendants of Henry's sisters would not be helpful for this kind of study. My grandfather was a Putt, but he had only 2 sons, and one of them had 5 daughters and the other had 2 daughters, so none of us can take part.

> Carolyn we have a family history written in 1890 that states Henry Putt came from Germany, he was not Dutch/Holland nor Swiss as suggested by others. The history was written by Henry's granddaughter who lived close to Henry and Sarah. The history also states there was a sister, Katie (sister to Maria) that married a Snyder and another sister, Peggy (Margaret?) who married a Reed. No brothers are mentioned in the history though we all know there were a number of them. This granddaughter left Pennsylvania in 1833 and settled in Jackson County, Ohio. She later married and moved to Iowa. Again, the question as to any male descendant of these females being able to help establish the bond is questionable. Pat

Carolyn: My father's gr-gr-gr-gr-grandfather was Henry Putt by way of his daughter, Maria Putt who married William Davis. Their son, Henry to his son, James, to his son, Faye, to my Dad. My father is 88 years old, I need more information on what is required to do the DNA test, the cost, etc. My grandfather, Faye Davis, did not know his grandparents or great grandparents, the only information he gave me was that we were Pennsylvania Deutsche. This comes from Maria Putt. The Davises were out of England. Please give me more info and I will see if my father is willing. Pat Davis

There are plenty of male Putts living in this area; however, they are a bunch of deadheads as I call them, for they take no interest in the rich heritage provided to us from the ancestors. This area is full of Putts, but I can only trace Henry back to the 1700's. I have a Jacob Putt who is buried in Fockler Cemetery here and he was married to Ester Swartz. I always felt that the Indiana line had to be relatives, but just couldn't go any farther in making the connection. I find it strange that many of the Indiana, PA names are so much like my Henry and his offspring. Anyhow, I still want to proceed with the DNA. Jan

No, Gayle is in Texas; I'm the one from Indiana, but Gayle and I are both descended from Jacob. What I and some others want to learn is if your line (Henry Putt), ours (Jacob Putt), and Benjamin Putt's line have a common ancestor. None of Jacob's descendants have been able to push his line back any further. Jane Curci and I have been in contact off and on for several years, and we have come to think that Jacob and Henry may be related - but we have not come up with any documentation. We are hoping that DNA testing would make clear whether or not we are related. The fact that some Christian names keep showing up, generation after generation, in all 3 lines, is one of the things that make us suspect a connection.

My 2nd great grandfather, George Washington Putt, wrote for the 1885 DeKalb County, Indiana History that both of his parents, Jacob Putt and Catherine Shaffer, were native Pennsylvanians. Family lore has Jacob coming to Berks County when he was 15 years old - no mention of where in Pennsylvania he was born. Some of Jacob's descendants, still in Pennsylvania, claim that Jacob immigrated from Germany when he was 15, but they have no documentation, either. Study of census information shows that Jacob was older than some people assume from the birth of George Washington Putt, the first of his children with Catherine Shaffer. He would have been of an age to be Henry's brother, nephew, or cousin. I know that he was not Henry's son.

I never heard of "Putt" originally being "Putnam," either, but the names do come from the same German root. My Grandfather Putt was 64 years old when I was born and was not much of a talker, so I never heard him speak of his family. It's too bad that I didn't know the right questions to ask him.

Jane says that she does not know of any other male Putts of Henry's line besides your brother. She gave me several names to contact from your line, but, so far, none of them has an eligible male Putt. I will keep them in the loop, of course. One person from each line may be enough to be tested.

Well, evidently Gayle knows more that I do about the Putt name. Is Gayle the one from Indiana? If she is, then that is the wrong Putt side as my relatives are from here. I will have to research more of Gayle's information to see if she is from this side. I will get back to you, and as far as other Putts around here sharing the cost, forget it. I can pay for the one for my brother so that is no problem. Jan

Mary Jean Sand was the person doing the research for me. Gayle Putt emailed me today that her father-in-law told her that the Putt name was originally Putnam. I then emailed Mark Putnam with that information, and he has invited us to join his group. We would have a separate spreadsheet on their site. I will check with him on cost and what we are to do, etc. I did some research on my own, while Mary Jean was struggling to make the switch from Windows to an Apple product, and learned that Family Tree DNA seemed to be the most popular of the companies that do DNA testing. I am not sure what they charge right now - they don't put that out front on their site. They and Ancestry.com charge $149 for an individual test. A few months ago, the administrator of another yDNA project told me that it cost $114 to be tested as part of their project. Family Tree DNA appeared to me to be the only company that did projects. Whatever Family Tree DNA charges to test for a surname project, it would be less than $149. Would any of the other descendants of Henry Putt be willing to share part of the cost? I emailed several people that Jane Curci mentioned to me as possibly being interested in such a project. I heard back from Pat Davis, wanting more information, and thinking that her father might be willing to participate. I had to tell her that he was ineligible, since he was a Davis, but that I would keep her informed of any results from the testing.

I have not yet told Mark that we would be happy to join his project, but unless I hear an objection from you or someone else, I believe this would be a good idea.

Well, I am all for this, but I need to know what the arrangements would be; the cost, and how we go about it, and what I need to do. I have 4 brothers, but I think that would be no problem with the youngest. The others are a little on the weird side about stuff like this. Just let me know what I need to do. Janet PS. which descendant of Jacob?

I recently contacted Jane Curci about this, and she recommended that I talk to you, since your brother is the only male Putt descendant of Henry Putt that she knows about. I hope that he will be willing to take part in the project. My 2 eldest children have agreed to co-administer such a project, and I believe that they have the management and computer skills needed to do so.

A descendant of Jacob Putt (my line) has done some research for me, but she came up with the recommendation that we should just have the eligible men test individually with Ancestry.com. I believe that we need to test as part of a project, since Family Tree DNA charges less to people as part of a project than they do to non-project individuals. If you have an opinion on this, please let me know.

I'm interested in the project butI don't think I can be much help. We connect to the Putt line on the maternal line, Maria. My father is deceased and I have no brothers or uncles. I have no cousins that I am in contact with. Dad's parents were divorced and he was the only surviving male from the union. His older brother died at 17. Have you been in contact with Pat Davis? Jane might have suggested her. Her father and mine were first cousins, unlike my dad, her line stayed connected so she would have more info on the male line.

Pat and I haven't been active of late. Life seems to have taken a toll on our available time. In my case it's an 8 year old grandson and an 84 year old mother. I've forwarded this onto her. If I can help in any other way just let me know. Hopefully I can get back into research now that school is back in session..... Jan

I find this information very fascinating.... as history silently points us in teh direction of these family and community bonds. I am aware of a Revolutionary Soldier whose pension was suspended not so much that his pension was incomplete or not accurate but more for the other parties and agents involved in his application. He did claim to hae been in Capt John Leazure's Company and that of John Focht. And to have been present at one of the major battles where he was wounded.

In researhing this man's history, I have come to an impasse on his wife's family from the the Heidleberg and Tulpehocken area. Her parents were a Philip or Peter Geisinger and mother I believe was Catharine - but there seemd to be two possiblilites being a Catharine Heyl or Catharine Hime

Does anyone know of this family??

Subject: [PABERKS] Col. Johannes Lesher

> I'm surprised there isn't more on John, but what follows is what I was able to throw together. I expect there are some errors or at least difference of opinions.
>
> 1. Col. John LESHER was born on 5 Jan 1711 in Germany. He died on 5 Apr 1794 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. John Lesher was a native of Germany and only son of Nicholas Lesher and Maria Johanna Drehar. He emigrated to Pennsylvania with his parents in 1726. The family first settled in the Upper section of Bucks county, but by 1734 the family was in Oley Township. His father Nicholas purchased 480 acres of land in Oley Township in 1739. In 1744, John, with partners John Yoder and John Ross, erected a forge which became known as the "Oley Forge," and from that time on for fifty years he was prominently identified with the iron industry of the county. Not surprising there are some snags in this story. Another has the father with two sons and two daughters arriving in America in 1726, without John. He came to Oley in 1734.
> Johannes represented Berks County in the Constitutional convention of 1776, and served in the General Assembly from 1776 until 1782. During the Revolution he acted as one of the commissioners for purchasing army supplies. John died in Oley Township leaving a widow, two sons and five daughters. The memorial stone on Mud Lane, by the Lesher - Deysher family homestead in Oley Township, has John buried in the family plot just south > of the memorial. Others, I believe in error, have him in Oley Cemetery, Spangsville, or in St. Paul's, Amityville.

> Col. John LESHER and Maria Johanna YODER were married on 25 Sep 1740. Maria Johanna YODER (daughter of Hans YODER and Elizabeth KEIM) was born about 1720 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. She died on 8 Oct 1762 in Berks County, PA. Col. John LESHER and Maria Johanna YODER had the following children:
> i. Anna Barbara LESHER was born on 15 May 1742 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. Married Jacob Morgan.
> 2 ii. Maria Johanna LESHER (born on 20 May 1748).
> Col. John LESHER and Maria Margaretha HESS were married on 2 Jan 1763. Maria Margaretha HESS was born about 1740. Col. John LESHER and Maria Margaretha HESS had the following children:
> i. Johannes LESHER Jr. was born on 4 Sep 1763 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. He died in 1804. He was buried in Virginville, Berks Co., PA. Had a son Isaac, or maybe not. Farmer and proprietor of Lesher's Mill in Greenwich Township. Reported to have married in 1795 to Mary Miller. John and Mary had a son Jacob, born 1 July 1786, died 1857. Not at all sure about this data.
> ii. Jacob LESHER was born on 27 Dec 1764 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. Marriage Catherine Levengood on 18 December 1787. Married second to Susanna Strunk.
> iii. Margaret LESHER was born on 9 Jul 1768 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. A Margaret is not mentioned in father's will, so assume she pre deceased her father.
> 3 iv. Catharine LESHER (born on 24 Sep 1774).
> 4 v. Hannah LESHER (born about 1776).
> 5 vi. Elizabeth LESHER (born on 12 Feb 1782).

> 2. Maria Johanna LESHER was born on 20 May 1748 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. Maria Johanna LESHER and John POTT were married about 1785. John POTT (son of Johannes POTT and Maria HOCH) was born on 16 Dec 1759. He died on 23 Dec 1827. In 1804 John purchased a large tract of land on the Schuylkill in the northerly end of then, Berks, but which in 1811, was erected into Schuylkill county, where, a few years before, had been erected a small furnace. To this place the elder Pott sent his son John to superintend his operations for the time being, he giving the work his casual personal supervision, but did not remove his family to his new place until 1810. The furnace was once torn down and in its stead a forge was erected, and in 1807 he built a new furnace (Greenwood). In 1816, John laid out the town of Pottsville. Maria Johanna LESHER and John POTT had the following children:
> i. John L. POTT was born on 16 Mar 1787 in Oley Township, Berks Co., PA. John was sent by his father to manage the recently purchased furnace and land in northern Berks County, an area which became Schuylkill County in 1811. He was married September 16, 1812, to Susannah Strauch, who died April 12, 1822, leaving two sons, Charles and William. William died in early manhood. Charles had one son, bearing his own name, residing in Indianapolis, Indiana. On April 11, 1824, John Pott married Miss Magdalena Bittle. In 1826 he moved 4 miles from Pottsville and established the Manheim Ironworks, where now is situated the town of Cressona. There also he built a flouring-mill. He operated these ironworks, furnace and forge, until some time in 1837, when he suspended work on account of the great depression in the iron trade. In 1843, John Pott sold his Manheim furnace property, and in the following spring removed to Bedford (now Fulton) county, where he had purchased the Hanover Ironworks property, and where he arrived with his family on April 19, 1844.

Mom saw this in our newspaper here. Stark County caught our attention. I couldn't make the Pratt connection, but in chance there is one, I am sending it on to you.

I'm enjoying our cooler weather. Have you tried to keep a garden this summer? Expect to see Ron & Peggy in September.

Thinking of you.

Pott

Stephen Lengel, the great-grandfather of William W., who died in Heidelberg township, was a farmer, and owned a large tract of land in Heidelberg township. He is buried at the Little Tulpehocken Church, of which he was a member. Mr. Lengel married a Miss Wenrich, and they had these children: John Adam; George, who settled in the West; Matthew, who operated the homestead; Jacob, who lived in North Heidelberg township; Daniel and Elizabeth, who married John Brossman.

Danjel Lengel is buried at the Blue Mountain Church, of which he was an official member. He owned a twenty-four-acre tract of land in Jefferson township, and was a prominent Democrat of his day, serving as supervisor for a number of years. Mr. Lengel married Elizabeth Moyer, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Wertz) Moyer, and they had a family of seven children: Rebecca m. Andrew Scharf; David; Adam lived in Richland, Pa.; Elizabeth m. Jonathan Ritzman; Malinda m. Philip Wilhelm; Daniel lived and died at Reading; and Amelia m. Oliver Hatt. Daniel Lengel was a man of fine physique, tall and strong.

David M. Lengel, father of William W., was born Jan. 13, 1833, in Upper Tulpehocken township, Berks county, and until seventeen years of age was engaged in farming. At that age he learned the stone mason's trade, as well as that of plasterer, and he worked for many years as a boss mason and plasterer, ha[illegible] in his employ. He erected the founda[illegible] for many buildings in Tulpehocken and the surr[illegible]g townships, and for seven years in the sixties was engaged in farming in Upper Tulpehocken township, and for two years in Bethel township. Mr. Lengel was married (first) in 1852 to Catherine Strouse, who was born in July, 1833, and died Feb. 19, 1875, being buried at the Blue Mountain Church. She was a daughter of John and Catherine (Zerbe) Strouse, of near Strausstown, and became the mother of these children: Amelia died when fifteen years of age; Adam resided in Millersburg, Pa.; William W.; David died in infancy; Kate, twin of David, m. John Witman, of Reading; Emma m. Lewis Frederick, of Reading; Levi lived in Reading; Albert was a resident of Lebanon, Pa.; James died aged seven years; three sons died in infancy; and Allison lived in Reading. Mr. Lengel was married (second) to Kate Seamon, who was born in April, 1833, and died March 29, 1901.

William Wilson Lengel was reared upon the home farm, and his education was secured in the public schools of his native locality. In 1893 he came to Stouchsburg, where he established himself in the butchering business, which he has carried on with much success to the present time. During his first four years he was engaged somewhat extensively in shipping calves, squabs and poultry, but he now gives his attention wholly to the local trade. He has a well-kept, completely equipped shop, and has a large high-class trade, to supply which he kills 200 beeves, 300 hogs and many calves yearly, and which necessitates the use of two wagons. In addition to his business building, which is a valuable property, Mr. Lengel owns several dwellings in Stouchsburg, in one of which he resides, while the others he rents. In politics he is a Democrat. He and his family are members of Long's (Tulpehocken) Church, of which he was an elder for several years.

In 1878 Mr. Lengel was married to Diana Rebecca Knoll, daughter of Israel and Rebecca (Stupp) Knoll, and they have had four children: George R. died in infancy; Annie R. resides at home; Mary M., m. John A. Holtzman, of Stouchsburg, Pa., and has three children,—Lottie R., Ray and Laura R.; and Edwin C. m. Lillie Schoener and has two sons,—Lewis and Charles.

WILLIAM POTT, a retired citizen of Spring township, Berks county, and an honored veteran of the Civil war, is a native of Berks county, born April 19, 1834, son of Jacob and Catherine (Miller) Pott.

John Pott (or Potts, as the name was then), who had settled in Amity township prior to 1754, was the great-grandfather of William Pott. In 1754 he paid a federal tax in Amity township, of fifteen pounds, which is evidence of the fact that he was a large land owner. At the same time John Potts' brother, Thomas Potts, lived in Colebrookdale township, where he paid a tax of forty-five pounds. It is traditional that these brothers emigrated together from Breisen (Preussen), Germany, but this is uncertain, as it is also claimed they are Welsh. One of the sons of these brothers in later years settled across the Blue Mountains, now Schuylkill county, and became the founder of Pottsville, the county seat and prominent mining town of the anthracite coal district. Pottstown, a flourishing city of Montgomery county, near Amity township, was also founded by a member of this family, who were prominent in Berks and surrounding counties during the latter part of the eighteenth century.

Johannes Pott, the grandfather of William, was a native of Amity township, and died there, being buried at Amity Church. His wife was a Schroeder, and they had these children; Daniel, who was a bachelor, was drowned in the Tulpehocken, and buried at Sinking Spring; Jacob was the father of William.

Jacob Pott was born in Amity township, March 12, 1804, and died April 1, 1883, aged seventy-nine years, nineteen days. He is buried at Spies' Church. He married Catherine Miller, born Sept. 11, 1803, who died Nov. 23, 1873, daughter of John Adam Miller, and to them were born these children: (1) Jacob m. Amelia Wanner, by whom he had,—James, Jacob, George, Miranda, Valentine and Edward. (2) John, deceased, m. Elizabeth Heverling and had these children,—Sarah, Kate and Thomas, all deceased, and Lizzie. (3) Isaac, deceased, m. Priscilla Miller, of Spring township, and they had these children,—Charles, Rebecca and Kate. (4) Mary m. Henry Reimert, of Greenwich township. (5) Catherine m. Peter Good, of Alsace township. (6) William. (7) Charles M. m. Catherine Dentrich, of Alsace township, and resides in Reading. (8) Daniel m. Hannah Bingaman, and has these children,—George, Samuel, Daniel, Irvin, Charles and Sarah (deceased).

William Pott was reared upon the farm and as a youth learned the carpenter trade, which he followed for some years. Oct. 26, 1862, he enlisted from Berks county for nine months service in Capt. H. H. Miller's Co. E, 167th Regt., under command of Col. C. A. Knoderer and DePuy Davis. The command was assigned to the 1st Army Corps, Army of the Potomac, and proceeded to Suffolk, Va., engaging in guard duty on the fortifications, and in an expedition to the Black Water. They were also in action at Deserted House, Jan. 30, 1863; at the Siege of Suffolk, Va., from April 12, to May 4, 1863; and joined in pursuing Lee, retreating from Gettysburg to the Rappahannock. Comrade Pott shared the fortunes of the regiment in all of its movements and engagements and was honorably discharged Aug. 12, 1863, at Reading, Pa., by reason of expiration of his term. After the war he was incapacitated for several years because of sickness contracted in the war. In 1877 he purchased a tract of somewhat more than an acre of land, where he has since resided. In politics he is a Republican. He and his family are Reformed members of St. John's Church at Sinking Spring.

Mr. Pott was married April 4, 1858, to Mary Seyfrit, born Oct. 22, 1837, daughter of John Seyfrit, of Spring township. Mrs. Pott died May 20, 1907, aged sixty-nine years, six months, twenty-eight days, the mother of these children: Albert m. Maria Potteiger; Adeline m. Allen Kittelman; Charles; Catherine m. John Hornberger; William died young; Mary m. George Grimes; Robert died young; Eddie is single and lives at home; Ella m. George Freeman, deceased; and four others died young.

FRANK K. WAGNER, a merchant at Garfield, in Centre township, Berks county, has been a resident of that place but a comparatively short time, but the business he conducts has been established there for a number of years, having formerly been owned by Moses Bender. Mr. Wagner was born Dec. 5, 1850, in Upper Bern town-

FRANK PUTT, 1869-1957
MAUDE BELL BRUGH, 1882 - 1951

Frank Putt was born August 24, 1869, in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, the second child of Levi and Harriett Anstett Putt. He grew up on the family farm. Frank and his younger sister, Joanna, called Josie, spent some time at Tri-State College. At this time, there was probably an academy and a normal (teacher training) school, as well as other disciplines at Tri-State. We don't know how long Frank was there, or what in what course he was enrolled.

Unfortunately, family pressure ended his academic career, and he returned to the farm with the impression that it would one day be his. He was a handsome young man with wavy brown hair. (When he died at 87, he still had a full head of wavy gray hair.) He once told my parents that he had been considered quite a wrestler when he was a young man.

In the 1900 census, he was listed as "Francis," 30 years old and still living with his parents, as was his older sister, Susanna. His occupation was "farmer share." His grandfather, George Putt, and his sister, Joanna, died that year. It would not be too long before he met Maude Bell Brugh, a young woman visiting her older sister, Nellie High.

One has to wonder why the Putts let him marry Maude. Did they think they could easily manage her? Or did Frank stand up against them and insist on getting married? At any rate they did marry on December 28, 1904, in DeKalb County, in the home of her grandmother, Rachel Shatto McBride Harmes. Frank was 35 years old, and Maude was 22. Her parents, William and Emma McBride Brugh, and younger siblings were in Michigan and did not attend the wedding, but her sister Nellie Gertrude Brugh High was there. A younger sister later told her that their mother cried all that day.

Maude was one of the seven children of William Brugh and Emma McBride. She was born near Hudson, Indiana, but moved with her family to the Traverse City, Michigan, area, when she was a baby.

Frank and Maude lived in a small, newly built house on one of the Putt properties. They had a baby girl, for which I have not found any records, and since they did not talk about it, no one seems to know the details. We do not know if the baby was stillborn, or if she lived a few months and died.

I have never heard the details of how the various Putts interfered in the life of Frank and Maude. Aunt Lurah blames Aunt Sadie, and Mother blamed her grandmother. I suspect that Levi, Harriett and Sadie were all guilty of trying to run Frank and Maude's lives. Lurah says that her mother (Maude) begged and pleaded with Frank to move somewhere else, Michigan, Canada, but far from his family. Apparently, he could not make that much of a break with his family, but his younger brother, George, was able to do so and moved to Michigan with his wife, Olive Skelly, and children.

In 1913, the year before a paralyzed Levi died, he and Harriett gave their land to their 4 surviving children. Frank got the 40 acre farm on which he and Maude lived. In 1916, his older sister, Susanna (called Susie) killed herself, and her land (half of their parents' farm) was divided between Frank, Sadie, and George. This piece of land amounted to 29 acres, so Frank now owned 40 acres, plus 9 and 2/3 acre, which did not abut the 40 acres. With these numbers in mind, note that Aunt Sadie, who must have been amoral, if not actually criminal, must have also had an obsession with her parents' farm. They had given her a farm, too, but she and her husband, Oscar Doty, bought her brother George's half of the "home" farm, and it is thought that she drove Susie to suicide by nagging her to sell her half to Sadie & Oscar. Susie didn't sell, but Sadie got one third of Susie's half at no cost to herself after Susie's death. Sadie and Oscar Doty sold the 40 acre farm in 2 pieces in 1917. One half went for $1500, and I assume the other half sold at a similar price.

If you read Aunt Lurah's history of her family, you will get an idea of Frank and Maude's gardening skill. I imagine that Frank was a meticulous farmer, as well. A visit to Grandma during the warm months of the year always ended with a tour of Grandma's garden. Grandma and Mama would discuss various plants, and Mama would always leave with either a "start" of some plant or an armful of flowers.

I don't know how to tell this story chronologically, without interjecting some out of order explanations of how situations came to be. Bear with me and forgive me for any confusion or repetitions you find.

As a young child, I did not know my grandfather. At some point between the 1930 census and March of 1936, Grandpa left my grandmother and went to live with his mother, who lived about a quarter of a mile away. Paul Reinoehl, who lived on the corner, has told me that he used to see Grandpa every day, walking back to check up on things at Grandma's house. Allen, at least, was still in school, and he dropped out for a year or so. I know that my mother, Aunt Pauline, and Aunt Lurah never forgave their father. I do not know if Dwight and Allen forgave him or not.

I have a bare skeleton of what happened. If you have read Lurah's history of the family, you know about the money from the sale of gravel, money set aside for an addition to the house, money which wasn't in the bank when it came right down to it. Deeds show that Grandpa and Grandma sold 15 acres off the west side of the farm, and this would have been the muck, to Hiram Doty, August 31, 1929, for $900. If Grandpa gave $900 to Sadie for her 1/3 of 29 acres, he was definitely cheated, because when that 29 acres was sold in 1940, all 29 acres brought only $1450. Aunt Lurah says that the muck was extremely productive land, but Grandpa hated to farm it.

It was not until I was working on this project that I realized how damaged this family must have been. Two of my great-grandmothers died when I was a first-grader. I have vague memories of attending the funeral of Eunice Slentz Evertts, but none of the funeral of Harriett Anstett Putt. It finally dawned on me that I had no memory of that occasion because I was not there. Furthermore, I believe that my mother had not attended, either. Mama and her grandmother were completely estranged.

I remember seeing Greatgrandma Putt twice. On one occasion, perhaps a Christmas celebration at Grandma's, some of the men were going to move a heavy article to Greatgrandma's. I now wonder if it was Grandpa's great wooden trunk, to complete his move to his mother's. Anyway, Uncle Dwight was in charge of the operation, and my cousin, Lorna Lee, was going along. I would have been set on going wherever Lorna Lee went, but Mama did not want me to go. I recall Uncle Dwight saying, "Oh, it won't hurt a thing." I assumed that he meant that I would not be in the way or hinder them in any way. Now, I realize that he was saying that it wouldn't contaminate me to be in the same room as my greatgrandmother. On the other occasion, Mama and I drove to the house where Grandpa lived with his mother. This was exceptional, because we often drove past this house, but never, never stopped. Mama and Grandpa loaded an old washstand (which they had been keeping in an outbuilding) into the back seat of our car. I believe she paid them something like $5.00. It grieves me now to think that they may have needed that money. I now understand that Grandma and Grandpa kept in communication and that they had arranged this transaction, because Mama needed something to store my clothing in.

On neither of these occasions do I recall Harriett saying a word. She was a small straight woman who looked just like all ninety-something women of her era. She just stood and watched.

Aunt Lurah, now ninety herself, finally gave me more information about how Grandpa came to move in with his mother. I believe that we have already established that Grandpa's sister Sadie was a horrible, greedy woman. As their mother aged, she began to spend the winter months in town with Sadie. I don't know how many years this happened, but Sadie grew tired of taking care of her mother. She had told Harriett that Grandma wanted to poison her, so there was no way that Harriett would stay at Grandpa and Grandma's house. Harriett and Sadie wanted Frank (Grandpa) to move to Harriett's house, so they started telling the story that Grandma had had an affair with her brother-in-law, and that most of the children were his. I can't imagine that Grandpa was taken in by this, but he finally gave in and moved to the home farm.

Lurah says that, as a result of Sadie's starting this rumor, the Doty's, her in-laws, dropped her. Also, that her dressmaking business dropped off seriously, because Grandma had a lot of friends who took their business elsewhere. It was at this time that Sadie moved to Peru.

Probably about this time, Grandpa signed over the 25 remaining acres to Grandma on March 28, 1936, so it may have been before this that he moved to Harriett's house. Grandma must have been convinced that Grandpa had not a shred of common sense.

I now realize that Mama never forgave Sadie, Harriett, or Frank. She helped care for Grandpa after Grandma's death, but I believe it was out of duty only.

Note that Aunt Lurah says that anyone could sell him anything, and mentions the Victrola. (I remember that Victrola; we used to play "Beautiful Ohio" on it.) Then there was the lawn swing. We grandkids loved it, but I never saw another on any farm lawn.

I can't imagine what my Grandma went through. Allen dropped out of school for at least a year, but did eventually finish high school. When I knew Grandma, she was a farmer. The farm was now only 25 acres. One field was ravaged by having had gravel dug out of it. It was heaven for the grandchildren to play in, but it was also her pasture for her cows and useless for raising crops. Twice a day, until she was too ill, Maude went out and milked her 2 or 3 cows. She did not have a milk house, like my father built at home, but cooled the milk as much as possible by putting the milk can in a galvanized tub of water by the pump, which was much nearer the house than the barn. I do not recall if she had a little cart to haul the milk from the barn to the pump or if she carried the milk, bucket by bucket. She sold the milk to the creamery. I assume that they used it to make butter, so they would not reject the milk in the summer if it got too warm. (The milk from our farm was sold in the Toledo area, and the company would not tolerate milk with too much bacteria in it.)

Maude's neighbors, Ernest and Velda Erwin, farmed what was left of the farm. I never knew what financial arrangement they had, but this arrangement provided hay and grain for the cows and chickens. The chickens were an essential part of Grandma's economy. I don't recall that she sold eggs, but she may have at one time. The chickens and eggs were a handy protein supply for her, and I now wonder if she may have been supplying Grandpa and his mother with milk and eggs, too. I remember that once we took Grandma to the hatchery in Auburn, so she could get a new supply of chickens. I was amazed at all the little raised pens of chicks. One year, Grandma let one of her hens raise a family of chicks. They lived in a small house (think very small doghouse) and bit of lawn surrounded by chicken netting. The chicks were adorable bits of yellow fluff, toddling about on twig-like legs and feet, and they would most assuredly poop in your hand if you picked them up.

If you read the inventory taken after her death, you will note that there was only one milk cow left, a beef and a calf. Grandma once (at least) served canned beef, and I thought it was wonderful. For Sunday dinners, she always served fried chicken. Before the meal, she would go out and kill however many chickens she needed. I believe she must have usually sold her beef.

My grandfather moved back to live with Grandma in 1940, not by choice, but by necessity. His mother died, and Sadie and his brother George insisted on selling the 29 acres he owned so he could get his share of money. I remember that Grandma went to Auburn to see if her lawyer couldn't prevent the sale, so Frank would have somewhere to live. The lawyer couldn't prevent the sale, and there was no other place for Grandpa to live, so she brought him back home. I suspect that the land would have brought more if Uncle George hadn't been in such a rush to get his share. (Aunt Lurah didn't like Uncle George, either.) Grandpa was 70 years old when he moved back. He slept upstairs in what had been the boy's bedroom. I have to admit that he was kind of like wallpaper or a rocking chair to me. I saw nothing unusual about any of this, and his presence didn't make much impression on me.

Although I had no memory of Grandpa from before he left Grandma, I did later learn that he was my grandfather. There was a time that he visited us on our farm. He had walked from his mother's house to Ashley, and then to our house. He told my parents that he had come to bring me a small nut grinder. Mama and Daddy thought that he used the nut grinder as an excuse for the visit. It is impossible to determine his motivation for giving me such an unsuitable gift. It's possible that he bought it because it intrigued him and he had enough money to buy it, but then did not know what to do with it. He called me "Car'line," with a long "I." I was told that he had referred to me as "little Car'line" when I was a baby.

Then there was the time when my schoolbus passed him on the road. A bunch of boys laughed and pointed at him. I did not, as you might expect of me, tell them to stop laughing at my grandfather, and then punch out their lights. I had 2 different reactions. First, I was embarrassed that my grandfather had made himself a figure of fun, and second, I was more than ever convinced that boys were weird.

My mother rarely talked about her father or grandmother, but here is something she told about her father. Whenever any of the children were ill, or whenever Grandma had a baby, Grandpa would become ill and have to go to bed. It was customary for a new mother to stay in bed for about two weeks, probably one of the few restful occasions a mother had. Mama was nine years old when her little brother, Allen, was born. She remembered helping her mother and grandmother (Harriett) do laundry soon after Allen's birth. Grandpa was too sick to help. Grandma tended to say what she thought. She kept complaining to Grandpa that he got sick whenever she had a baby, and that she ought not have to be up working like that. Grandpa got tired of being scolded and said, "Well, there won't be any more babies." One might agree that five children were enough, but what he was really saying was that there would be no more intimacy between them. Mama was old enough to understand what he meant.

When I was around 12 years old, my cousin David and I were playing on the floor at his house, near where our mothers were chatting. I was keeping one ear on their conversation, and I'm willing to bet that David was, too. Somehow, their grandmother was brought into the conversation, and Aunt Pauline said, "She was an old witch, wasn't she?" My mother, who rarely had anything bad to say about anyone, did not disagree, although there was that "not before the children" look. When I was older, Mama told me about the time that Harriett told her granddaughters, Naomi and Pauline, that she had never wanted them, that she had only wanted Dwight.

In February of 1948, my parents moved from Fairfield township to a much larger farm in Wilmington township. Rather than transfer to another school at that time of year, I spent the rest of my Freshman year with my grandparents. Grandpa spent a lot of time reading. I think now that he may have been nearsighted or have had cataracts, or both. He sat in a rocking chair with the west window of the dining room behind him. He always held his reading material so close that it almost touched his nose. There was electricity in the house, but the lights tended to be a little dim, anyway. I think he had a quiet sense of humor.

Grandpa would have been 78 years old at this time. I don't know if he helped Grandma in any of her work. If he did, I didn't notice. What I did notice was that he had a potato patch at the south end of the gravel pit, where there must have been a little better soil. It was very neat and weedless. As I recall, there was a wire or twine, a few inches above the ground, fastened to small stakes around the patch. It certainly wouldn't have kept cows from eating the plants had they wished, but perhaps potato plants are as poisonous to cows as they are to people. The little fence seemed to be enough to keep the cows from walking through the potatoes. I believe that I saw Grandpa carrying water, bucket by bucket, to these plants, too.

Another thing I remember is that Grandpa had one of those old enamel coffeepots, mottled gray, I believe. He must have occasionally emptied it, but what I remember is that he would add coffee or water as he thought necessary and keep it simmering all day. I can hardly believe he drank that and still lived as long as he did! Grandma never served coffee, but my coffee-drinking father and uncles were never tempted to sample Grandpa's special blend.

I learned quite a lot about my grandparents one Sunday morning during that stay. Apparently the whole family, with the exception of Dwight and his crew, were coming to dinner. Grandma had everything spic and span, except for Grandpa. She wanted him to shave and to change his shirt, and maybe his socks, too. She kept asking him to do this, and he kept on not doing it, with maybe a few grumbles thrown in. At one point, she threw in that Allen was coming, and she wanted Grandpa to look decent for Allen. I have never quite been able to figure out why it was so important for Allen to see his father cleaned up. However, I believe that Grandpa, cutting it pretty close, did spiff up a little. I figure this sort of interaction took place a lot in their life together. It was a revelation to me. My father never needed to be nagged to clean up. He had to get dirty working on the farm, but he liked to be clean. (Of course, Grandpa had that half-French mother who didn't believe in bathing.)

The Young Putts Bathe Al Fresco

Grandma once went to spend some time with her family in Michigan, leaving her mother-in-law, Harriett Anstett Putt, in charge of the children. The children had been brought up to bathe once a week, but Harriett believed that bathing was unhealthy and refused to let them bathe in the house.

You may be appalled that they were used to bathing only once a week, but bathing took a lot of effort on someone's part if you lived in an unplumbed house. Now, Grandma's house, like the house I lived in on the Camp Farm, had a sink with a hand pump, so that one could pump rainwater from the cistern. That was wonderful soft water, but it was cold, although not as cold as water from the well. One used it for hand-washing, washing between baths, and heated it for washing one's hair.

But to bathe in a tub of water took more trouble. There was a square galvanized tub, sometimes used to hold rinse water for the laundry, which needed to be brought into the kitchen. Then water pumped from the well would be heated in the copper tub on the stove. The big wood-burning kitchen ranges in use in those days had reservoirs on the end away from the fire, so there was a more or less constant supply of warm water, but it wasn't enough for things like bathing and laundry, so the housewife had to pump and heat more water.

Forbidden by their grandmother to bathe in the house, the Putt children hauled a galvanized tub out behind the chicken house, where they wouldn't be seen from the road. I don't know whether they heated and carried water from the house, or whether they had to bathe in cold water directly from the pump, but bathe they did.

Grandma's Appearance and Hobbies

Grandma was short, less than 5 feet, and had a very trim foot in a size 5 AAA shoe, even after 6 pregnancies (when women's feet grow, I'm sorry to say). Her sister Hazel wore a tiny size 3 shoe. Grandma was one of those women who have normal-sized legs and arms, but who are thick through the body. I have heard that stress makes a person gain weight through their middle area, so I don't know if her shape was due to her stressful life, or whether it might be genetic.

She was a blue-eyed blonde, whose hair had gone white by the time I remember her. Women had begun to cut their hair, so she finally had hers cut fairly short and wore it in tight curls around her face. I can remember her braid before it was cut. I think she wore the braid wrapped around her head, but what I remember is seeing it hanging loose before she combed it out.

Grandma sang hymns as she worked about the house. I didn't realize it then, but she sounded dreadful. Perhaps she had a poor ear for music, or perhaps she was singing the way that she had heard others sing. I thought she sounded cheerful, and I believe that is how she felt.

I don't remember what her dresses were like, but I know that she did not wear raggedy clothes around the house as my other grandmother did. Her chore clothes may have been worn, but nobody ever saw her in those. She had at least 3 pairs of shoes. They all started out as the same brand and style. They were black oxfords with a heel that may have been 1 ½ inch or so. They were probably a fairly expensive shoe for a poor farm woman to wear, but they fit well. I have already said that they were AAA width, but they may have been AAAA width. She wore these shoes for church and maybe for going to town. Then there was another pair, which had already done service as her "good" shoes, and she wore these around the house. And another pair, which had gone through the previous steps, now were her "work" shoes for doing chores and gardening. I might be mistaken in the number of pairs of shoes she had, there may have been another layer of service, but this is pretty much how it was. She probably got rid of the oldest pair when they no longer gave her good support, bought a new pair, and all the other pairs just moved into a lower category of service. Shopping for shoes was pretty simple for her, because she went to the store that carried her shoe and bought the same shoe she had been buying for years.

Grandma crocheted. She made doilies by the dozen, hot pads, antimacassars, etc. There was a period when she made purses. You could buy a heavy cord to make the style of purse you wanted, line it and make a closure of some kind. She made a nice black one for herself, and a kind of red variegated clutch for me. I think she must have done the clutch without a pattern, because it didn't have much room inside it. Not that I had much to carry, but if I put more than a hanky, a comb and my Sunday School money in it, it bulged out. Someone was selling nylon cord from parachutes, and she bought some of that. I can't remember if she made anything for herself of that, but she made little drawstring bags for Lorna Lee, Angie Lou and me. She lined them in different colors, so they were really attractive.

She must have made her own dresses, but I'm not sure you could call that a hobby. One year she and Mama made a wonderful collection of clothes for my dolls. There may still be a couple of pieces left from that collection.

When I lived with her as a high school Freshman, we played Chinese Checkers in the evenings. I had never played before, and I don't know if she ever had anyone else to play with her, once her children were grown.

Grandma's Last Years

The trouble with this subtitle is that none of us realized that they were her last years. She had once had an operation to remove gallstones and had been on a strict diet from that time on. It was a low-fat diet, without raw vegetables, very strict. Anyway, when she once again had pain (or maybe it never completely stopped), it was interpreted as her gall bladder acting up again.

She kept going as best she could. I didn't realize how ill she was. I know that we mowed her lawn at least once during the summer of 1951, and I assume that the Kings may have done it, too. Her doctor assured her that surgery to remove her gall bladder would solve her problem, so, in late summer, possibly early September, she entered a small hospital in Auburn and had the surgery done. I remember visiting her there before I left for college.

The plan was, that after being released from the hospital, she would recuperate in Aunt Pauline's home. Roy & Pauline lived nearer both Auburn and Grandma's house, and she could have the sunny front room there, and they would still have a living room. But Grandma did not get better, as expected. Her doctor (doctors still made house calls in those days) would stop by and insist that nothing was wrong with her and that if she wasn't getting better, it was because she wasn't trying hard enough. This led to her being scolded by Uncle Allen, who told her that he had enough problems without having to worry about her, too.

There was a time when doctors did not think that people with cancer should be told that they had cancer. I believe that her doctor must have been following this philosophy, because he surely must have known after the surgery that she had cancer. Unfortunately, he did not see fit to give her children any warning, either. Grandma's last days could have been made more pleasant, and she could have helped her family make some decisions, especially what to do with Grandpa.

Mama & Aunt Pauline were the ones who were closest to the problem, but everyone was concerned. I was brought home for a weekend and I visited Grandma, and Uncle Dwight and Aunt Rachel came up from southern Illinois. After I went back to Manchester, the family made the decision that they needed to talk to Grandma's doctor together. As it was Sunday afternoon, he was not available. They were able to find another doctor to come in to see her. His orders were that she was to be taken back to the hospital immediately. Before modern medical technology was developed, doctors did "exploratory surgery," to find out what was wrong with people. As soon as this doctor saw what was inside her, he knew there was nothing he could do. Grandma never recovered consciousness.

Unfortunately, Aunt Rachel took it upon herself to be the one to sit with Grandma in her last hours and kept Mama and Aunt Pauline out of the room. It is ironic that the last person to spend time with Grandma happened to be the in-law whose company she least enjoyed. Mama and Pauline were devastated or I'm sure they would have not have put up with it.

They were still smarting from this, when they noticed that things were being moved from room to room, or disappearing from Grandma's house, where Dwight and Rachel were staying. The family had held a sort of private auction of Grandma's belongings, and after they noticed things moving around, someone opened one of Dwight and Rachel's suitcases and found a lot of things that weren't Dwight and Rachel's. Aunt Lurah says that Uncle Doyle told her to get the things she had chosen together, get them out of the house, and stay out of it. I think Mama & Aunt Pauline confronted Rachel about it, and some coolness developed between them. Then there was the bedding shortage. Grandma had willed a set of good bedding to Uncle Allen. Mama and Pauline couldn't find any really good bedding; everything was pretty worn. They blamed Rachel for this, too. I didn't hear the confrontation, but I was in the room when Uncle Dwight was trying to smooth it over. He was saying things like, "Well people get old and forget," and "Things wear out over time." Aunt Pauline was saying, "UmHm," and I know now that she didn't believe a word of it. Looking back, I am inclined to believe that Rachel, deprived of her other goodies, took home with her my Grandma's best bedding, so Allen and Evelyn had to make do with a shabbier set of bedding.

Looking back, I wonder if Rachel was always a little light-fingered, or if this was a one-time happening due to stress, a reaction to the boredom of living in the country, or an opportunity to spite her in-laws. Since they lived in southern Illinois, it wasn't as though they had been coming to dinner every week and then stopped, but I believe that from then on, their relationship with Allen (who was not present when Rachel was confronted) was better than with the 3 sisters. I believe the breach was pretty well healed over time.

This leaves one more ugly story, and I'm not sure how accurate it is. Lurah has told it on two occasions, and obviously is sure it happened. This is how she tells it: "When they got the money for the home farm, they were afraid that Aunt Sadie would come after it, saying that she hadn't been paid for her share. So they put it in a bank in Ohio. It was Dwight that put it there, and his name was on it. Later, he took it out of the bank and spent it, and my parents never got any of it."

I can't figure any way to check this out. I can't believe that Uncle Dwight was a thief. If he was, surely I would have overheard something from someone else in the family. However, I recall that Dwight took a year off from teaching, in order to get his master's degree, about that time. Even if they rented out their Hudson house, and Dwight had some income from teaching at the college, money would have been tight. There were at least two, and probably three, little girls by then. I can see that he might have asked his parents if he could borrow from them. And he might have had a hard time paying them back. It surely would have been bit by bit. I guess I will have to resign myself to not knowing, but I like to believe that he did pay back most, if not all, of it.

The Dream Visit

Later in my life, at least as late as after the birth of Fritz in 1957, I dreamed more than once that I was in Grandma's house, looking for her. The dream must have occurred at least twice. The reason that I am sure it was after Fritz' birth is that my reason for being there was to show her my baby. It was at night, in fall or winter, because the house was dark and cold. I was, at first, in the living room. The door to her bedroom was closed. It was not surprising that the room was cold, because she did not heat the living room unless the house was going to be full of people. However, the room was dusty and cluttery. There was a stack of magazines or books, or something. This would be common in my house, but neither my grandmother or mother would have tolerated it.

I then walked out into the "hall," which was kind of a vestibule, and then into the dining room, which was also used as a sitting room. It, too, was cold, and the light was dim. I walked on toward the kitchen, and saw that it, too, was in disarray, and I turned back into the dining room. The reason I am sure that I dreamed it at least twice, is that on one occasion, she came toward me from the kitchen. (If one chose, one could walk through all the downstairs rooms without turning back. The bedroom had two doors.) She was in her customary night clothes with a shawl over her shoulders. But before we reached each other, she disappeared, and I knew she was dead. On the other occasion that I dreamed of her, she did not appear, but I woke to grief as I neared the kitchen door.

I cannot think of this dream now, without weeping.

In Retrospect

Maude Brugh Putt was a champion grandmother. I realize now that she is the person with whom I was left, if my parents needed an evening or a couple of hours without a baby. I received unconditional love from her, even when I was an awkward teenager.

There was the time I stepped on a nail at her house. Someone had been doing some repair work on the house, and there were a few used boards lying beside the house. I was barefoot, of course, and Grandma told me to stay away from the boards. I never understood why adults were so cautious. I wanted to walk on the boards, and I could see the nails, and I was sure that I could avoid them. The next thing I knew, I was howling because I had stepped on a nail. I have had two puncture wounds in my life, and I don't remember being in pain either time, just extremely frightened and downright offended. I was probably upset this time because I knew I had been doing what I was supposed not to do.

Grandma had no telephone or car, and my parents had no phone. I remember her carrying me, but she surely couldn't have carried me very far. She may have walked to the Erwin's house, and used their phone to call someone who drove to my parents' house to alert them. They came and rushed me to Waterloo to get a tetanus shot. I knew that I had upset a lot of people and had made a lot of trouble, but no one ever scolded me, and Grandma didn't even tell Mama what a disobedient child I had been.

I believe that all of her grandchildren, even the rowdy boy cousins, received the same unconditional love. What a blessing she was.

Frank's Last Years

Frank was 82 years old when Maude died. She had written her will so that her intentions were clear, but some leeway was left for her children to make decisions. She wanted her personal property to go to her children, but any money or land she left was to be used for the support of Frank. She did not leave anything directly to Frank because she was sure Aunt Sadie would get it away from him. As it happened, Sadie died 4 years before Grandma, but I don't know that Grandpa could have managed his finances, anyway.

Grandma had been supporting both of them and managing the farm and its maintenance. I was sorry that Grandpa was not going to be allowed to stay on the farm, but I realize now that the families who lived in Indiana would have been constantly running to supply food for him and repairs for the buildings. I don't know how he and his mother had managed on their own, because I never saw anything to indicate that he knew how to cook.

Dwight wanted to hang on to the farm, but, as distance precluded his caretaking of Grandpa and the farm, he was overruled by his siblings. The decision was made that Grandpa would be shuttled from one family to another. I believe that at first, he was moved every three months. That must have proved impractical, so it was extended to six months. Lurah and Allen were excused from his care. In fact, Lurah said, point-blank, that she would move to Arizona rather than have her father in her house. I know that Mother and Pauline were not pleased to have him, but they were dutiful. Eventually, Allen and Evelyn took a turn in caring for Frank. I don't know if that means that Allen was able to forgive his father, or that Evelyn felt that it was the right thing to do. She may have felt sorry for Frank.

In 1957, Grandpa was back in my mother's care and not doing at all well physically. Mama called in her doctor, who, after a good look at her, said that if Grandpa were not sent to a nursing home immediately, she would have to go to one. Frank passed away just a few days after being moved to the Betz Nursing Home in Auburn. He is buried beside Grandma, in Fairfield Cemetery.

I'm interested in the project butI don't think I can be much help. We connect to the Putt line on the maternal line, Maria. My father is deceased and I have no brothers or uncles. I have no cousins that I am in contact with. Dad's parents were divorced and he was the only surviving male from the union. His older brother died at 17. Have you been in contact with Pat Davis? Jane might have suggested her. Her father and mine were first cousins, unlike my dad, her line stayed connected so she would have more info on the male line.

Pat and I haven't been active of late. Life seems to have taken a toll on our available time. In my case it's an 8 year old grandson and an 84 year old mother. I've forwarded this onto her. If I can help in any other way just let me know. Hopefully I can get back into research now that school is back in session..... Jan

For several months, some of us have been trying to get a yDNA project started, for the purpose of learning if the descendants of Benjamin Putt, Henry Putt and Jacob Putt have a common ancestry. I have been trying to locate someone who would serve as administrator of such a project, and now, my 2 eldest children have agreed to co-administer the project. Jane Curci has suggested your names to me as people who would be interested in this project. If you are not interested, please email mewith that information and I will not bother you again. If you are interested, do you know a Putt male who might be willing to be tested?

One of the advantages of doing this project would be that if testing shows that there is no common ancestor, we can all stop looking for historical proof that there is a connection. Also, any hints of the possible background of any of these 3 men could apply to the others, if we find they do have common ancestry.

Please let me know if you have any comments or suggestions.

Hi Carolyn,

My family name was originally Pootman, which may be a form of Puttmann, which likewise may have the same root as your name Putt. In Germany, Putt means a well or pool. Our names my mean then Poolman and Pool. It is possible they have the same root meaning and an outside chance they have the same Y-DNA.

The names are location names or one who lived by a well or pool.

I have seen Putt's listed as Puttmann.

My family came from Holland, but earlier roots may have been in Germany.

It really comes down to how your Y-DNA registers. If it is the same as my family then you certainly should be a member of the Putnam YDNA Project.

Has anyone in your Putt Family had a Y-DNA test taken?

We have four different Putnam and Putman families who aren't at all related in our study.

Possbily, by a far out chance, your family and mine are related.

I would like to determine the roots of the Puttmann German families, and your family might be a connecting link.

Anything I do to help with your research, just let me know.

I see that Family Tree advises people with the surname "Putt" to join the Putnam DNA Project, but that information on this project says that its members should believe that they are really Putnam descendants. There are a few of us who can trace back to 3 Putt men in Pennsylvania, Benjamin, Henry and Jacob; we would like to find out if these men had a common ancestor. We have all been stymied at going back any further, but we have no reason to believe that our ancestors were Putnams. Would you advise our joining your project?

Thank you,

I have sent email to my Putt contacts - interesting that one is having trouble getting her son to cooperate and can't see why her daughter won't do, etc. However, one woman who married into the Putt family says that her father-in-law always said that the original name was "Putnam." I'm from the same line and never heard a whisper of it, but that doesn't mean it couldn't be true. I'm pretty sure that none of these people have had DNA tests. My grandfather's line daughtered out, and I haven't been able to trace his brother's family into the present time frame, so we have been waiting for someone else to do a Putt project, and it doesn't look like it's going to happen in my lifetime unless I push it.

Are there actually any Putts in your project, or did Family Tree DNA just list the surname with yours arbitrarily? I understand that if we ever get our project off the ground, we will be able to compare our results with the results of your project. Is that correct?

Thanks for your response, which I have shared with most of my Putt contacts.

Hi,

Sometimes the name Putt is seen in early records as van den Putt, Putt, Puetmann, and Puttmann.

I think that at least some of the Pennsylvania Putt's may possibly be Puettmans from the information that you are gathering.

It is somewhat difficult to do a YNDA website because of the spreadsheets and other maintenance stuff, so I'm sure that Family Tree DNA wants to put as many similar name spellings together as is possible particularly when there is a chance that the people may be related.

It would be nice to have you in our group, and a separate group section in the spreadsheet [see Y-results link below] that would be devoted to your Putt lines.

As I mentioned the names Putt, Puettman, and Puttman all often mean the same thing [pool or well from Latin "puteus" a pit]. The names were often at an early date used interchangably.

If you want to get on the "spreadsheet" you must have a MALE Member with the name PUTT or a similar name. The results goes father, grandfather, great grandfather, etc.

There are other tests that can be done with female YDNA but they usually go mother, grandmother, greatgrandmother, etc, so that would not be one surname.

You would need to have a male Putt's YDNA tested, and the results posted at a project site, usually to do the test. However, I don't think it is required to be a member of project, but you get better rates that way, too.

I would be very happy to have you join our group as we may even be related, and I would enjoy researching the Putt Lines possibly back to Europe likely Germany.

No mater which project page you join, or if you create your own, your test results can be compared against all other test results in the greater database. You may also compare your results against people with the name Putt, Puttmann, Peuttmann, Pootman, Putman, Pottman, Putnam, etc if and when they have a YDNA Test taken.

YDNA Results may also be posted at ysearch.org: http://www.ysearch.org/

Hi Carolyn,

You need two people whose YDNA match and who have the same surname to determine a line. Possibly, Jacob Putt, Henry Putt, and Benjamin Putt are from the same family, so if a descendant of one matches a descendant of another, you would have proved a line. If these three Putts lived about 200 or more years ago, a descendant of each should take the YDNA test to show a possible match.

[If no one matches, then two people from each line may need to have a test done.]

I had a distant relative of mine take the YDNA test at the same time that I took the YDNA test. Our YDNA results did not match, and after other Pootman's/Putmans took the test, I found my line was a true Pootman line. My distant cousin it seemed had an male ancestor that was "adopted".

I would guess that if the three descendants of Jacob, Henry, and Benjaminn Putt who you mentioned take the YDNA test, there would likely be a match between at least two of them and possibly all three unless they are completely different Putt families.

We should put the paper trail line of descend for each descendant of from Jacob, Henry and Benjamin Putt on the Patriarch Page down to about 100 years ago. Just give me the lineage:

Mark, do we need more than 1 man from each line? Gayle Putt's husband, Nick, is willing to participate - he is from Jacob's line. Janet Putt Neville seems sure that her youngest brother will cooperate - he is from Henry's line. I haven't heard from Dawne Slater-Putt as yet; she may be extremely busy, or she may be trying to get a commitment from her brothers-in-law - this would be Benjamin's line. If Mary Jo Putt can get her son to cooperate, that would make 2 from Jacob's line, but no one seems to have identified a 2nd male Putt descending from Henry, although there must be some.

I confess to having considerable anxiety about the possibility of losing either Janet Putt Neville or her brother. I am almost 78, and I believe that Jan must be a number of years older, judging from our correspondence.

We would be very pleased to join your group. We need to know how to proceed. Even after looking at the site, I have only a general understanding of it. My eldest son has said that he would be willing to help us. Maybe this is the time to send him all the information I have and tell him that it is now up to him?

Hi,

Sometimes the name Putt is seen in early records as van den Putt, Putt, Puetmann, and Puttmann.

I think that at least some of the Pennsylvania Putt's may possibly be Puettmans from the information that you are gathering.

It is somewhat difficult to do a YNDA website because of the spreadsheets and other maintenance stuff, so I'm sure that Family Tree DNA wants to put as many similar name spellings together as is possible particularly when there is a chance that the people may be related.

It would be nice to have you in our group, and a separate group section in the spreadsheet [see Y-results link below] that would be devoted to your Putt lines.

As I mentioned the names Putt, Puettman, and Puttman all often mean the same thing [pool or well from Latin "puteus" a pit]. The names were often at an early date used interchangably.

If you want to get on the "spreadsheet" you must have a MALE Member with the name PUTT or a similar name. The results goes father, grandfather, great grandfather, etc.

There are other tests that can be done with female YDNA but they usually go mother, grandmother, greatgrandmother, etc, so that would not be one surname.

You would need to have a male Putt's YDNA tested, and the results posted at a project site, usually to do the test. However, I don't think it is required to be a member of project, but you get better rates that way, too.

I would be very happy to have you join our group as we may even be related, and I would enjoy researching the Putt Lines possibly back to Europe likely Germany.

No mater which project page you join, or if you create your own, your test results can be compared against all other test results in the greater database. You may also compare your results against people with the name Putt, Puttmann, Peuttmann, Pootman, Putman, Pottman, Putnam, etc if and when they have a YDNA Test taken.

YDNA Results may also be posted at ysearch.org: http://www.ysearch.org/

I have sent email to my Putt contacts - interesting that one is having trouble getting her son to cooperate and can't see why her daughter won't do, etc. However, one woman who married into the Putt family says that her father-in-law always said that the original name was "Putnam." I'm from the same line and never heard a whisper of it, but that doesn't mean it couldn't be true. I'm pretty sure that none of these people have had DNA tests. My grandfather's line daughtered out, and I haven't been able to trace his brother's family into the present time frame, so we have been waiting for someone else to do a Putt project, and it doesn't look like it's going to happen in my lifetime unless I push it.

Are there actually any Putts in your project, or did Family Tree DNA just list the surname with yours arbitrarily? I understand that if we ever get our project off the ground, we will be able to compare our results with the results of your project. Is that correct?

Thanks for your response, which I have shared with most of my Putt contacts.

DOUGLAS PUTT DECLARES HIS BRIDE DECEIVED HIM

He Wants Divorce; So Does Waterloo Woman Who Charges Non-Support.

Two new divorce complaints were filed in the DeKalb circuit court Friday. One plaintiff is a Waterloo woman and the other, a husband, resides in Garrett.

On her complaint of failure to provide, Mrs. Ida May Griffin, of Waterloo, is asking for a divorce from Elvin S. Griffin.

The complaint, filed by Atkinson, Endicott & Husselman in the DeKalb circuit court, sets out that the couple were married October 24, 1903, and that they lived together until April 24, 1922. They have five children, Earl, seventeen, Myrtle Irene, fifteen, Martha Malinda, thirteen, Louis Harold and Edward Gerald, twins of eleven years.

Mrs. Griffin declares that for more than two years her husband has failed to make reasonable provision for his family, although he was well able to do so. She was compelled, she says, to wash and iron clothes for other people, cook and bake in restaurants and keep roomers, and at the present time she is operating a small restaurant in Waterloo.

Mrs. Griffin asks the court to give her the custody of the children and to order her husband to provide for them.

Live Together a Week

It was by misrepresentation that Eva Putt induced Douglas Putt, a train crew caller living in Garrett, to marry her, according to a petition for a divorce that he filed Friday in the DeKalb circuit court.

The couple were married at Coldwater, Mich., April 12, 1922, and they lived together only a week. Putt asserts that before the marriage his wife fraudulently represented to him that she was in an embarrassing condition and that he was responsible for it.

Sharpless & Springer are the plaintiff's attorneys.

DOUGLAS PUTT'S PLEA FOR DIVORCE DENIED BY COURT

Alimony and Support Given Wife and Child

"The court does not want to encour age young men in such conduct a is indicated in this case," commente Special Judge A. C. Wood, Tuesda afternoon in the divorce suit of Doug las Putt of Garrett, against Eva Put The court thereupon entered an o der for a divorce for Mrs. Putt, to gether with $250 alimony, $25 atto neys' fees, and $15 monthly for th support of the child.

Young Putt went into court with th intention of getting a decree on hi charge that his young wife had tran mitted an unspeakable malady t him, but he left empty-handed. Judg Wood let it be known that he doub ed if Putt's evidence established thi contention. He declared that young man cannot get a young gi into trouble and then abandon her.

According to the testimony of th parties, they became acquainted i the summer of 1921 in the girl's hom town, Syracuse. Her name was Ev Shick and her father, George Shic is in the plumbing business. Sh was seventeen and Douglas was nin teen. He is a son of Engineer Wi liam F. Putt of Garrett.

Douglas called on the girl frequen ly and wrote her some letters i which he told of his intention to se her at certain times. His last vis was on the first Sunday in Noven ber. The girl's parents, according to th testimony, unable to take the gi with them because of her illness, pro ceeded to Garrett in December an told Douglas and his mother and sis ter of Eva's condition, pointing ou the double diagnosis of the physicia Douglas' mother remarked to hi that she had tried to teach him righ and told him to go to see the gir Douglas went to Syracuse that nigh and had a talk with Eva. Howeve he made no move to right the wron according to the girl and her parent and the three of them afterward mad a trip to Garrett. No definite a rangements were made then. Earl in April Douglas and his attorney, W W. Sharpless, went to Syracuse an another conference was held.

The parents of the girl agreed th she could stay with them until th child was born and until Douglas "g on his feet." However, according t the testimony, it was not until aft Shick started proceedings in justic court against Douglas that he agree to marry the girl. Mr. and Mr Shick took the young couple to S Joseph, Mich., and they were marri April 12.

Putt stayed at the girl's home th night, but returned to Garrett th next day. He returned to her seve al days later for an afternoon, b never went back. In May he file a divorce complaint. He charged h wife with improper conduct with ot er men, but she stoutly denied the a legation.

She set out in her cross-complain prepared by Mountz & Brinkerho that her husband never provided an thing for her and her father testifie that the cost of doctor bills to da has been about $250. The child w born June 29 and was in court. Spe ial Judge Wood took into consider tion the expense to which the gir parents had been subjected in fixi the amount of the alimony.

Young Putt formerly was employ as a Baltimore & Ohio caller but no he is working as a brakeman. H admitted he made some trips to Ch cago on pleasure jaunts during t time he was keeping company w Eva.
